

Canadian Forestry Association

THE Canadian Forestry Association is an independent organization of patriotic citizens, which has for its object the highest development of the soil and resources of Canada by urging governments, municipalities and owners generally to devote each acre to that for which it is best suited, and particularly to keep under forest those soils fitted only to grow trees.

The Membership Fee is one dollar per year. Members receive free of any additional charge the Annual Report and Canadian Forestry Journal.

Application for membership may be made as below:—
