

LEGAL NOTICES

Canadian Calumet & Montana Mining Company, Limited

PUBLIC Notice is hereby given that under the First Part of chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, known as "The Companies Act," letters patent have been issued under the Seal of the Secretary of State of Canada, bearing date the 21st day of February, 1916, incorporating Thomas Anderson Burgess and J. Ogle Carss, barristers-at-law, Charles Osborne Wood, civil engineer, and Mary Ida Keays and Margaret Surgeon, stenographers, all of the City of Ottawa, in the Province of Ontario, for the following purposes, viz:—

(a) To prospect for, open, explore, develop, work, improve, maintain, and manage gold, silver, copper, nickel, lead, coal, iron and other mines, quarries, mineral and other deposits and properties and to dig for, dredge, raise, crush, wash, smelt, roast, assay, analyze, reduce and amalgamate and otherwise treat ores, metals and mineral substances of all kinds, whether belonging to the company or not, and to render the same merchantable, and to sell and otherwise dispose of the same, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and generally to carry on the business of a mining, milling, reduction and development company;

(b) To acquire by purchase, lease, concession, license, exchange, or other legal title, mines, mining lands, easements, mineral properties or any interest therein, minerals and ores and mining claims, options, powers, privileges, water and other rights, patent rights, processes and mechanical or other contrivances and either absolutely or conditionally, and either solely or jointly with others, and as principals, agents, contractors or otherwise and to lease, place under license, sell, dispose of and otherwise deal with the same or any part thereof or any interest therein;

(c) To construct, maintain, alter, make, work and operate on the property of the company, or on property controlled by the company, tramways, telegraph or telephone lines, reservoirs, dams, flumes, race and other ways, water powers, aqueducts, wells, roads, piers, wharves, buildings, shops, smelters, refineries, dredges, furnaces, mills and other works and machinery, plant and electrical and other appliances of every description, and to buy, sell, manufacture and deal in all kinds of goods, stores, implements, provisions, chattels and effects required by the company or its workmen or servants;

(d) To construct or acquire by lease, purchase, or otherwise and to operate and maintain undertakings, plant, machinery, works and appliances for the generation or production of steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic, or other power or force; also lines of wire, poles, tunnels, conduits, works and appliances for the storing, delivery and transmission under or above ground of steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force for any purpose for which the same may be used, and to contract with any company or person upon such terms as are agreed upon to connect the company's lines of wire, poles, tunnels, conduits, works and appliances with those of any such company or persons, and generally to carry on the business of generating, producing and transmitting steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force; to acquire by lease, purchase, or otherwise steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force, and to use, sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the same and all power and force produced by the company, provided, however, that any sale, distribution or transmission of electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force beyond the lands of the company shall be subject to local and municipal regulations;

(e) To take, acquire and hold as the consideration for ores, metals, or minerals sold or otherwise disposed of, or for goods supplied or for work done by contract or otherwise, shares, debentures, bonds or other securities of or in any other company having objects similar to those of the company and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same, notwithstanding the provisions of section 44 of the said Act;

(f) To manufacture and deal in logs, lumber, timber, wood, metal, all articles into the manufacture of which wood or metal enters and all kinds of natural products and by-products thereof;

(g) To build upon, develop, cultivate, farm, settle and otherwise improve and utilize the lands of the company and to lease, sell, or otherwise deal with or dispose of the same and to aid and assist by way of bonus advances of money or otherwise, with or without security, settlers and intending settlers upon any lands belonging to or sold by the company, or in the neighbourhood of such lands, and generally to promote the settlement of such lands;

(h) To purchase or otherwise acquire and undertake and assume all or any part of the assets, business, property, privileges, contracts, rights, obligations and liabilities of any person, firm or company carrying on any business which this company is authorized to carry on, or any business similar thereto or possessed of property, suitable for the purposes thereof;

(i) To raise and assist in raising money for and to aid by way of bonus, loan, promise, endorsement, guarantee or otherwise any corporation in the capital stock of which the company holds shares, or with which it may have business relations, and to act as employee, agent or manager of any such corporation, and to guarantee the performance of contracts by any such corporation, or by any person or persons with whom the company may have business relations;

(j) To build, acquire, own, charter, navigate and use steam and other vessels;

(k) To apply for, purchase or otherwise acquire any patents of invention, trade marks, copyrights or similar privileges relating to or which may be deemed useful to the company's business and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same as may be deemed expedient;

(l) To join, consolidate and amalgamate with any person, society, company or corporation carrying on a business similar in whole or in part to that of this company and to pay or receive the price agreed upon in cash or in paid-up and non-assessable shares, bonds or debentures or other securities or guarantees of the company;

(m) To develop or assist in developing any auxiliary or allied company carrying on business of a like nature or germane to that of this company and to become shareholders in the same;

(n) To enter into partnership or into any arrangement for sharing profits, union of interests, co-operation, joint adventure, reciprocal concession or otherwise with any person or company carrying on or engaged in, or about to carry on or engage in any business or transaction which the company is authorized to carry on, or engage in;

(o) To lease, sell or otherwise dispose of the property and assets of the company, or any part thereof, for such consideration as the company may deem fit, including shares, debentures or securities of any company;

(p) To do all acts and exercise all powers and carry on all business incidental to the due carrying out of the objects for which the company is incorporated and necessary to enable the company to profitably carry on its undertakings;

(q) To do all or any of the above things as principals, agents or attorneys.

The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere by the name of "Canadian Calumet & Montana Mining Company, Limited," with a capital stock of forty thousand dollars, divided into 40,000 shares of one dollar each, and the chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of Toronto, in the Province of Ontario.

Agreeable Anachronisms

MR. A. G. GARDNER has now completed his trilogy of biographical sketches, which began with Prophets, Priests and Kings, and ended with War Lords. The second in the series, but the latest to appear in this country, is his Pillars of Society, which is a very clever book, as all Mr. Gardner's books are, and at the same time in one respect quite disappointing. Mr. Gardner confesses in his preface that he made no attempt to bring these character sketches up to date by re-writing them in the light of the war. So we are genially treated to a variegated series of anachronisms that sometimes become quite startling. Lord Kitchener has just returned from Egypt. Roosevelt, whose picture is on the cover of the American edition, has just got done with his Guildhall speech. Joe Chamberlain is still alive. Lloyd George is still a human being. Churchill is still First Lord of the Admiralty. Hilaire Belloc has not written a line about the great war!

These little deficiencies noted, it is quite necessary to admit that Mr. Gardner sustains his reputation in this book for flinging on the paint. Colour is his long suit. He delights to bring out the high lights. Some of his sketches are all high lights. If one should meet the originals, ten to one he would be disappointed in most of them. But that is the prime business of Mr. Gardner, who is never satisfied with men just as God and circumstances made them, but loves to trick them up like circus performers—without in the least detracting from their dignity. There is, it appears, a Gardner way of looking at people. And it is never dull. A. G. G. would take strychnine rather than be considered a dullard.

And the sketches are all as brief as they are breezy. They are the modern expression of the Englishman—though in this particular book the author has included a few un-English characters, notably Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Lord Strathcona, Prince Kropotkin, Roosevelt and President Wilson. His Roosevelt sketch is one of his very best and one of the best ever written about Teddy by anybody. His Laurier article is probably his worst. He has seen Laurier and knows something about the political background of the man; but the real essential Laurier he does not know and never will.

shake hands with my benefactor.

"Wait a minnit," said he, quietly, and looked towards the house.

Thinks I to myself, "He wants to give me a knock-down to his wife so that if he isn't home when I come back for the rest o' the ashes—?"

But he up and spoke:

"Say, Bub," said he, with a terribly quiet voice, "you fork out seventeen more bars o' that soap. That basket o' yours is a two-bushel basket. You got—thirty-four bushels."

I stuttered and stammered in surprise. My Dream Man went into a blur.

"All right," he said, "I'll take that basket to the barn and measure it with my half bushel. If it don't hold four measure you c'n take this soap all back. Is it a go?"

"No!" I shouted. "No, siree! That basket is an ash-basket. 'Taint a corn basket. It's an ashes bushel. That's what Bump told me. He knows. He's the senior partner. You're holdin' me up, Mister—"

Which he was; for he had hold of the horses' heads.

"All right," he said. "Shovel the ashes out again and lug 'em back."

Which I refused to do. Wherefore in my raging despair I took up the soap box and turned it inside out, letting all the soap whop onto the ground.

"Take it," I shouted. Take the hull jingbang. Count 'm over. If there ain't thirty-four bars drop a note to Bump & Co. and we'll send you the balance by express. But you're the rummiest Dream Man I ever read about. You're a miserable skinkint. I'll never come back here for ashes, not if you stand at the gate with your tongue hangin' out when it's ten below zero. Gid-up you!"
