Eagle vetos Pittson proposal

The Pittston Company proposal denial" of a permit and the problems such to build an oil refinery at Eastport Maine is still a possibilty according to a spokesman for the US enviromental Protection Agency. The proposal to build the refinery included the decision to ship the oil through Canadian waters, on which basis it was opposed by the Canadian and New Brunswick governments and environmentalists who feared a major oil spill along appeals to the EPA and the Fish the Bay of Fundy coast would cause damage to fisheries there. EPA director of publicawareness Paul Keough said that the Pittston Company has up to and including January 27 to appeal an EPA decision rejecting Pittston's application for a water emissions permit. The deadline is imposed under both the US National Environmental Policy Act and a decision by the US Fish and Wildlife Service last month that the proposed refinery could threaten the American Bald Eagle. The company has two months to appeal the fish and wildlife service decision and until the company was informed of the EPA decision, intended to launch an appeal. Leough said that the current Company could not proceed without a water permit.

assistant deans, those above the rank of deans, the University librarian, faculty members who are members of the Board of Governors and those excluded by the Industrial Relations Act. NOTE: The unit described is intended to include the Dean of Students and directors.

September 1 will be the effective date of employment for the purposes of this vote according to a Board decision.

Chaison said that no group meetings are planned by the group but that members are now dealing with the issue on an individual basis. He said that the campaign conducted last year was sufficient to answer most peoples' questions about the Association and the group is primarily concerned with getting people out to exercise their right

Acceptance or rejection of union representation will depend on whether a majority of the eligible voters employees have voted for or against such union decision by the Industrial Relations Board. It is also they who will decide where and when the vote is to be taken. The vote itself will be conducted by secret ballot in such a manner that it will be impossible to determine how employees have voted.

Employees coming within the unit as described by the Board are eligible to vote regardless of whether or not they were formerly members of any trade union.

A spokesperson for the Industrial Relations Board said representation according to a that the vote was necessary because the evidence which has been filed with the Board indicates that the majority position of the AUNBT will be "marginal at best". He said that "fairness" dictates that a representative vote be taken to determine the true wishes of the employees.

The AUNBT has been defeated in its attempts to receive certification here on two separate occasions in previous years.

Chaison said he was unable to comment on what the key issues of the Association would be should they receive a majority vote. He said that the matter would go before the collective bargaining council where an agreement based on the desire of the membership, would be drawn up.

Fundraising the answer

Fund raising efforts must be combined to ensure continued growth at best and mere survival worst amough Atlantic institutions according to presidents of three Atlantic institutions.

Dalhousie President Harry Hicks, St. Mary's Owen Carrigan and University of Prince Edward Island President Peter Meinke said at a news conference Tuesday that with dropping enrollments, inflation, and rising staff salaries, Universities are being forced to increase tuituion and residence

Nothing definite will be known until the decsion of the Council of Maritime Premiers is known. The CMP sets levels of government financing for about 15 regional post secondary institutions. In the past the CMP have not met financing levels recommended by the Maritime Provinces Higher Education Commission, which is responsible for assessing the institue on financial needs.

A 17.6 per cent increase over last years level was asked for by the universities although the Commission only recommended a 9.5 per cent increase. The presidents did not indicate any great hope the figure would be reached.
