C. M B. A. On the 8th instant, we are informed by the Toronto Globe's correspondent, the Opera House at Deseronto was the scene of a grand reception and banquet tendered the Hon. M. F. Hackett by the C. M. B. A., of which association he is Grand President. Never had Deseronto Opera House been so well filled or had it been the rendezvous of so enthusiastic an audience. Seated on the stage were representatives from nearly all the other benevolent societies of Deseronto and surrounding towns, testifying to the high esteem in which this organization and its work is held throughout the Bay of Quinte district. Mayor Rathbun ably officiated as Chairman, and after a few well-chosen words, in which he referred to the benevolent and charitable work of this organization in Deseronto, and the splendid results attained, announced the speaker and guest of the evening. Hon. M. F. Hackett, who opened his address by stating the pleasure he test in meeting before him not only Catholic friends but those of a different creed, and all Canadians. He said he was President of a Catholic institution and also President of a Catholic institution and also President of a Canadian institution, and there was not from the first to the last letter of its alphabet anything but what any man differing in faith might endorse, and while speaking to the people of Deseronto and the people of Canada, irrespective of race, creed and politics, he assured them that the society had at heart the interests of Canadian people. Continuing, he stated that the true note of the C. M. B. A. should be placed before the people properly, and that Protestants should understand that the association was in the true sense of the words "a band of brothers," "a brotherhood of friendship and benevolence," embracing in its protective folds every class and condition of mankind; that the organization was not only established for the improvement of themselves, or the caring for of the widow and orphan, but for the education and elevation of the Catholic masses. He wished to state that the association could not be considered antagonistic to the Protestant faith, but that its ambition was to unite the Catholics of Canada, to benefit them intellectually, for their material advancement and for the aggrandizement and bettering of the human race, irrespective of creed; that Catholic and Protestant societies had a common object to do good. In a few words to brother-Catholics he wished for their material aid, for "in u

Dr. Ryan, Supervising Medical Examiner of the association, then followed with a his tory of the organization from its inception, and showing its financial standing to be on a good solid basis; also, while approving of the magnificent work done in the past, he urged the brethren to further effort, which, no doubt, would be productive of still better results.

Mr. J. J. Behan, one of the Grand Trus-Mr. J. J. Behan, one of the Grand Trustees of the association, in a neat speech, pointed out that all Catholics loyal to their Church and alhering to its dectrines must be good citizens, and that in establishing branches of the C. M. B. A., as he had done in different parts of this community, he felt that he had been doing the country a good work, and that he considered sister Protestant institutions also doing a grand work. He referred to the unquestionable duty of the father, the brother and husband in providing for the loved ones who may be left behind, and to meet this responsibility the C. M. B. A. was established.

During the evening the Deseronto band, assisted by local talent, rendered some high-class instrumental and vocal music, which was very much appreciated by all present.

A very cordial reception was accorded Mr. Hackett on rising to reply.

He began by expressing the pleasure and pride he felt at meeting the officers, members and triends of the C. M. B. A.. The C. M. B. A. showed no distinction in class or condition, only asking that all should kneel at one common altar. He referred to the fact this was the year of the Jubilee of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, and he declared no persons in Canada were more loyal to the Queen and her Empire than the Roman Catholics of Canada, who, like other citizens, had reason to be thankful for the many privileges accorded them by the British Constitution.

Mr. T. P. Coffee, in a few gracious words, conveyed the thanks of the brethren to the Grana President.

Mr. McDermott, of Fergus, also spoke, expressing the gratitude and appreciation of the visiting Brethren.

At the conclusion of the meeting the Brethren adjourned to the Commercial hotel, where Mr. Hackett was entertained to a banquet.

CATHOLIC SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

Separate Schools, 1895. In connection with the number of candidates writing it should be understood that about one-third of the Separate schools are found in French or German districts where usually the children begin school life without knowledge of English, and remain too short a time to permit of their preparation for such examinations; then in some subjects the text-books are not always the same as those used in the Public schools, which latter is he series upon which the examination questions are based. When these drawbacks considered it speaks well for the thoroughness of the teaching in Separate schools to fine that seventy-five per cent. of their candidates for this examination passed successfully, without any undue favors from the various local Boards of Examiners.

As to Toronto, it should be explained that having a system of Catholic high classes doing the work of High schools to the junior leaving inclusive, it has not heretofore sent candidates to the Entrance Examination. This year, with but little notice, some of the senior-fourth girls of one school tried the examination, with the result noted above.

On Sunday, Oct. 10, St. Helen's Commandery, No. 310, Toronto, accompanied by members of the other city Commanderies, numbering about three hundred, lattended High Mass at St. Helen's Church, Brockton. Rev. Father Cruise delivered an interesting and appropriate sermon, and most cordially well-comed the new Commandery and their Brother Knights who participated in the parade. He said that, of all benevolent and fraternal societies under the supervision of the Church, the Knights of St. John was the most noble and ancient, and he hoped that all the men of the parish who anticipated joining a society would become members of this Union.

The uniformed department was under the supervision of Col. J. Keitz, Major John Heffering, Capt. P. Farley, Sgt. Ryan, Lieuts. McCormack and Neville.

NEW BOOKS.

It was a happy thought of Father Girardey's to prepare these two books, "Mission Book for the Married." and "Mission Book for the Married." and "Mission Books as a rule, are made so as to answer for all, young and old, married and single. But as there are special instructions for children during a Mission, and others for young men and for young women, formarried men and for married women, Father Girardey thought it well to prepare separate Mission Books specially adapted to certain classes of people. With this end in view he made the "Boys' and Girls' Mission Book" to meet the wants of children who have attended a mission or made their First Communion, and as this book has been productive of much good he has followed it by these two others, each equalty good. Besides containing the usual acvotions and as ermons given during missions and renewals, each has particular devotions adapted to those for whom the book is in tended. For instance, that for the married contains chapters on the Catholic husband and wife, the duties of parents, and a special examination of conscience; the other treats of the duties of parents and a for the young woman, of the excellence of the virtue of purity and of virginity, with directions for finding out one's vocation and following it, and a brief, but thorough treatise on marriage.

Both books contain the choicest prayers as well as the most complete instructions yet offered to the taithful. The typography and the binding are excellent, and the books will undoubtedly prove great favorites among those for whom they have been prepared.

The Independent Order of Foresters

A letter was read in all the Catholic churches of St. Hyaciathe, Quebec, on Sunday, the 10th instant, in which Bishop Moreau referred to the Independent Order of Foresters. He said he viewed with sorrow the rapid increase of that order among his parishioners. While the Church has never formally codemned the society, yet he strongly advised those who might be tempted to join it not to do so; and he advises those who are members of the order to sever their connection with it as soon as possible, to save themselves trouble in the future. He warned his hearers not to conclude that because the Church had been silent it approved of the society. He said there were pienty of good societies that had the sanction of the Church and they ought to encourage such.

MRS. WM. DIBB, LONDON.

After a long life of seventy-two years spent in the perfect fulfilment of each and every duty, Mrs. Margaret Dibb was called to the reward of a just and blameless life. The deceased lady had been ailing for about five years, and during the past year was almost a constant sufferer. She bore her sufferings with fortitude and resignation, and when Death's Angel relieved her she was fully prepared and even glad to go. The funeral took place from the family residence, Horton street, on Saturday the 16th, at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's cathedral, where Rev. M. J. Tiernan celebrated a Requiem Mass. Her husband, Mr. Wm. Dibb, five sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and a valiant Christian mother. To the bereaved ones we offer our sincere sympathy and condolence, coupled with the earnest prayer that an all merciful and alljust God will grant eternal glory to the soul of their dear departed.

To the Editor of the Tilbury Times:

Dear Sir,—Noticing the interest taken by you in matters educational, I feel that it would be an injustice to our school, and our teacher as well, were the standing of the pupils who passed so creditably the recent examinations held in Merlin, left unpublished. A total of six pupils passed; four the entrance and two the P. S. L. L. Gilhuly took the highest number of marks (564) of any pupil writing on the entrance. J. Phelan, A. Hickey and Aggie Labey also passed high.

The P. S. L. pupils were C. Dillon and A. Lee, and as but four pupils passed their examination in Merlin, No. 6 earned 50 per cent of the total—certainly not a bad showing for a school with an average attendance of 33. Our teacher, Miss Clifford, has ably sustained the former standing of this school, which ranks amongst the best country schools in the province.
