

CONQUEST OF MEXICO LADIES:

Prescott's HISTORY of the CONQUEST of MEXICO. With a Preliminary View of the Ancient Mexican Civilization, and the Life of the Conqueror, Hernando Cortés. Illustrated Library Edition, in two volumes, small octavo. Price, $2.25. Popular Edition, two volumes in one, without illustrations, $1.25. Now ready.

Copyright. The expiration of copyright enables me now to present this great work to American readers at a popular price, yet in form worthy of the author, and worthy of the finest library. Its mechanical qualities are fairly equal to those of my best edition of "Guizot's History of France."

Whipple, the noted essayist and critic, says: "A history possessing the unity, variety, and interest of a magnificent poem. It deals with a series of facts and exhibits a gallery of characters, which to have invented would place its creator by the side of Homer; and which to realize and represent in the mode Mr. Prescott has done, required a rare degree of historical imagination."

Beyond ALL PRAISE. "This announcement is all that is needed. The work itself long ago passed beyond all praise. The thousands of people who were unable to secure it at former prices will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of doing so at a reduced rate."—Interior, Chicago, Ill.

"The work itself occupies too high a place among historical writings to need commendation."—The Mail, Toronto, Ontario.

Timely. "The enterprising Mr. Alden has chosen a most timely occasion for the reissue of this valuable work, and its excellent and convenient library form."

FERDINAND AND ISABELLA. HISTORY of the REIGN of Ferdinand and Isabella, the Catholic. By WILLIAM H. PRESCOTT. Illustrated Library Edition, in two volumes, small octavo, including portraits and other illustrations. Fine heavy paper, fine cloth, gilt tops. Price, $2.25. Popular Edition, from the same plates, but without illustrations, the two volumes in one. Price, $1.25. Now ready.

"Prescott had the genius to invest the dry facts of history with the charms of fiction; and yet he never sacrifices truth to the graces of style."—WESTLAKE.

"It is one of the most pleasing as well as most valuable contributions that have been made to modern history; it is the only one that gives us a faithful and sufficient picture of a period so momentous as the latter half of the fifteenth century."—London Athenæum.

"One of the finest histories of modern times, written by an author of rare felicity of diction, fervor of imagination, accuracy of statement, and exquisite beauty of style. Every one who reads at all should read Prescott."—Presbyterian, Philadelphia, Pa.

INDUSTRY AND OCCUPATION.

Did you ever notice, gentle reader, that the discontented and grumbling members of society are invariably those who are in such circumstances in life that they are not compelled to be industrious in order to gain a livelihood? Persons who have little or nothing to do, are invariably uneasy and discontented, while the industrious have not time for such thoughts. Time glides to those who toil—it is the toilers privilege. Heaven designed us all to work, each in his peculiar sphere, some with the hands, and some with the brain. There is not a man or a thing alive that has not tools to work with. Has not the spider a power-loom within his head?—and that most stupid of animate substances, the oyster, has a Papin's digester, with a stone and lime house to hold it in. Man is happy only when employed, for laziness begets vice, vice begets crime; then, who would not avoid laziness? Especially is an industrious spirit desirable in woman; life is so uncertain, the freaks of fortune so variable, that the young man who takes to his bosom a partner whose domestic habits and education have been averse to this essential requisite, to say the least of it, runs a fearful risk. Yet how many persons are wholly ignorant of the ordinary wants of life, or the means of supplying them!—how many have been brought up to think it degrading to enter a kitchen or to do for themselves any necessary service! Let your children, its cheapness, and the widespread interest in Mexican matters that exists at present, will doubtless combine to give it an appreciative reception."—The Week, Toronto, Ontario.

Fascinating. "This history has a fascinating interest, and is so well known as to need no praise."—Christian Secretary, Hartford, Conn.

"Especially interesting at this time. Is published in two handsome volumes, and like all Mr. Alden's publications is sold at an astonishingly low price."—Advertiser, Detroit, Mich.

A Noble Work; judiciously planned and admirably executed; rich with the spoils of learning easily and gracefully worn; imbued everywhere with a conscientious love of the truth, and controlled by that unerring good sense without which genius leads astray with its false lights, and learning encumbers with its heavy panoply. It will win the literary votary to its pages by the attractiveness of its subject and the flowing ease of its style; and the historical student will do honor to the extent and variety of the research which it displays. It will take its place among those enduring productions of the human mind which age cannot stale and custom cannot wither. —G.S. HILLARD.

good mothers—you who read these pages—be brought up endowed with both domestic knowledge and that of the schools: thus shall you plant and rear a flower for the circles of society which shall be equally valuable for its fragrance and its intrinsic worth.

MRS. CHARLOTTE LISLE, of Chicago, well known to the western press, ascribes the cure of a dangerous cough, accompanied by bleeding at the lungs, to Hale's honey of Horehound and Tar. "My cough," she says, "threatened to suffocate me, but this remedy has removed it."

THE PIGEONS.

Emmerick and Leopold, two active lads, were neighbours. Emmerick, who was rich, had many beautiful pigeons; but Leopold, who was poor, had only a few of the commonest sort. One day a pair of Emmerick's pigeons flew over to Leopold's cot, and began to build there. Poor Leopold thought, "How lucky I should be if these pigeons belonged to me! They shine as white as snow, and their heads and tails glisten as black as coals. Of all Emmerick's pigeons these please me much the best."

A strong desire came over him to shut them up and keep them. "But no," said he, "that I dare not do; that were indeed a sin! I will at once overcome the temptation." So he shut the cot, caught the pigeons, and brought them to Emmerick.

Now Emmerick felt a great deal of pleasure at the honesty of the poor lad; so he took the first eggs which he obtained from the beautiful pigeons, crept secretly to Leopold's cot, and placed them under a common grey pigeon, instead of her own.

When, therefore, the young ones crept out of the shell and became fledged, Leopold was astonished to see that they were beautifully marked black and white, exactly as Emmerick's very beautiful pair. He ran full of joy to Emmerick, and informed him of the supposed wonder. Emmerick laughed; told him that he had changed the eggs, in order to show his gratitude towards the honourable Leopold; and said, at the end of the conversation, "Always remain thus honourable, dear Leopold; for—On unstained hand and honest breast Be sure God's blessings always rest."

A NATIONAL EVIL.—There is no question but that Dyspepsia is the national disease of our country, and when complicated with diseases of the Liver and Kidneys is the cause of untold misery. Burdock Blood Bitters will almost invariably cure the worst case known.
