CARRICK DECREASING IN POPULATION

The assessor's figures for the current year show Carrick's population to be 2770 a decrease of 19 in one year. The census of 1921 shows Carrick to have a population of 2938, a loss of 168 in five years. What chance is there for Bruce County holding its own in numbers when the third generation of the thrifty and progressive German farmers quit having large families and follow the trek to the cities to enter industrial life and enjoy the gilded pleasures of the great white lights. No wonder Bruce is losing its influence in the Legislature and Federal Parliament. Our summer population will increase by the influx to Bruce Peninsula during the holiday season, but while these visitors leave considerable money in the County, they cannot begin to take the place of the sons and grandsons on the old farm who are the backbone of the County. Perhaps there may be an oil boom some day that will bring Bruce back to its old population of nearly 70,000 instead of 44,000 as at present. What would build up Bruce Peninsula more in material wealth than all the languid summer visitors, would be the discovery of coal. It's a long way to bring fuel from Glace Bay and Drumheller—Chesley Enterprise.

Richard White Jr. of Greenock Township was in the Kincardine Hospital for a few days last week, having had his arm badly shattered by the accidental discharge of a shot gun. He was taking the gun from the back of his buggy when the accident occurred.

comes to building town halls, then smaller buildings than formerly built will do. Who is to use a town hall in this changing age? Schools have their assembly rooms, if they are up to date. Churches have annexes, with halls for all parish entertainments. The movie promoter builds his own theatre, smaller, more compact and better suited for the purpose than the classical old building. And the movie has discouraged the road companies which held the boards at the town hall and unleashed the blood-bounds for a night of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Goderich would be wise to look around for uses for its new building, and remember that usefulness counts more than pride these days.

A CHALLENGE TO ALL

A worse menace than that for which the country went to war now confronts us at home. Indifference of law—the daily making of criminals, the breaking down of our social structure, license not liberty, indulgence not economy, carelessness not security. Every young woman in war time, with tremendous zeal, helped the struggle. Her patriotism is needed now even more than then. Millions were subscribed by our business men to win the war. Long hours of work without monetary reward were given for the most intense service. But we are now menaced at home, and a like devotion and labor are needed if life is to be at all worth living. The law of the jungle is replacing the laws of sanity and reason. The health, the morals, the very life and liberty of all are at stake. Every man and woman in this country for sheer safety's sake must give their greatest efforts to uphold the laws of the country. Everyone knows the extent of the law's violations in all sections of the country, and to keep Canada clear every one must do their part.

Main street is steadily changing. Not long ago, a question was raised as to what was to be done with the old-time hitching posts, since the motor cars which bring farmers to town do not need to be tied. The other day it was complained that the smaller churches at the "four corners" are suffering from competition with the town churches, now made accessible for farmers with their "gas buggies."

Now arises the problem of what to do with town halls. Most towns have satisfied early ambitions by building a commodious structure, in which civic meetings were held, the local offices located, and where the principal entertainments of the town took place. Out in the Lake Huron belt, the point comes up through the ambition of Goderich to have a new town hall. Walkerton, not far off, has some advice and that is to proceed with caution. Walkerton states its case in this wise:

Goderich wants a new town hall. Walkerton has one that at today's prices would cost, we are told, $75,000 to build. Yet the only regular tenants are the town clerk and the tax collector. There is a council chamber, which is occupied only about four hours a month, and it is also used for meetings. The fire truck is housed in another part of the building. Upstairs, there is one of the finest opera houses in Western Ontario, but, since the advent of moving pictures, the companies that used to show here have disbanded, and, with the exception of a few local concerts and dances, it is not in demand. Civic pride is a great thing, but when it

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION

Delegates Signified Unqualified Approval of Retention of O.T.A.

At the convention of the South Bruce Branch of the Ontario Prohibition Union, held at Teeswater last Friday afternoon and evening, Mr. Sam Carter of Guelph spoke in the interests of the Political Action Committee of the Provincial Union. His addresses were most inspiring and instructive. Dealing with the temperance situation in the province at the present time, he stressed the great need of the temperance forces choosing men to represent them who had consistently supported the O.T.A., and to put their temperance principles before the party.

Miss Duff of the Ontario organization of the W.C.T.U. also received a very attentive hearing in the evening.

The following resolution, moved by Rev. A. MacGowan of Mildmay, and seconded by Mr. Milne, was unanimously passed: "That this convention endorse the action taken at the convention of the Ontario Prohibition Union with reference to supporting sitting members who have consistently supported the principles we advocate."

"That we express our unqualified approval of the O.T.A. and regret the persistent efforts of law-breakers to discredit it, and evident laxity of the enforcement officers and that we hereby respectfully urge the Attorney-General of the Province of Ontario to do his utmost to secure effective enforcement of our prohibition laws," was a resolution also unanimously approved. It had been moved by Mr. MacGowan and seconded by Mr. J. E. Tolton of Walkerton. "Resolved that this Convention warmly approves of the special movement now on by the W.C.T.U., under the direction of Miss Duff, to organize Bands of Hope in the Public and Sunday Schools, in an effort to win the heart of the rising generation, at the threshold of life, for the cause of sobriety and good citizenship." The foregoing and the following were carried without a dissenting voice: "That we hereby commend this effort to all our Public School principals and Sunday School Superintendents and teachers generally that they earnestly support this good work in every way possible."

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mr. J. E. Tolton, Walkerton; Vice-President, Rev. T. D. Patton, Teeswater; Secretary, Mr. Walter Marshall, Teeswater; Treasurer, Mr. J. J. Reid, Teeswater.

The following with the four officers, will act as the Executive: Mrs. E. W. Garner and Miss Rowand, Walkerton, and Mr. Robert Braden, of Teeswater.

TORONTO STOCK MARKETS

With a heavy run of nearly 6000 cattle and some 600 billeted through, the opening market of the week at the Union Stock Yards yesterday saw the cattle trade generally holding steady.

The run on all classes was about the same as last week. The market opening in the morning maintained a slow pace for about half an hour subsequently quickening until about 2 o'clock when nearly 2500 head had passed over the scales, with trade then going good. It was expected that the initial day would see a clean up. Export buyers were hardly as active as a week ago, although there was a good demand for export and domestic steers and butchers. During the previous week Canadian ports cleared a large number of cattle cargoes, and this week some 1300 head are expected to pass thru Montreal and Halifax for overseas trade. Prices, on the whole, were steady.

Heavy steers were prominent, selling from $7.25 to $8.15 a hundred, with an odd sale for fancy stock up to $8.40. Choice near-heavies were quoted at $7.50 to $7.90, good near-heavies at from $7.25 to $7.40. A dozen handy-weight butchers sold for $7.80 a cwt. and the bulk $7 to $7.50. A few plain killers were down to the low level of $6.

Choice heifers ranged from $7.25 to $7.50 with a few going at $7.65. Trading in coys was exceptionally good. Prices were firm, with offerings selling from $6 to $6.50 for the best. Fair-grade cows brought $5.25 to $5.85, with a few thin head disposed of as low as $4. Bulls were steady at $5.50 to $6.25 for the best grades, the balance of the supply running from $4 to $5.25. Store cattle trading was dormant up to 2 p.m., and it was never much in evidence after that hour.

In the small meats, calf trade was steady to strong, with a lighter run than previous periods. A grass shortage due to the backward season has accounted for a slight falling off of normal receipts. On Monday veals enjoyed a moderate run, with prices at a steady trend. The bulk of the choice calves brought in $11 to $12, with a few ranging to $13. Medium veal's selling price was quoted at $8.50 to $10.50, with light varieties fetching $5 to $7.

Two decks of American clipped lambs brought 14 1-2c per pound. A few good native yearlings brought $15. Spring lambs were not quite so good as last week. There were odd sales at from $14 to $15, with the bulk selling at $11 to $13.50 each. A few poor gradings sold for as low as 7c each.

Sheep were steady, $8 to $10 being obtained for the good light kind, with a few culls selling low at 3 1-2c a pound.

The market in hogs found prices generally a quarter higher than last week's close at $14.25 off cars, $15.25 f.o.b. The run of hogs was 800 heavier than last Monday.
