

RECRUITING MEETING LAST EVENING BROUGHT 21 MEN TO THE PLATFORM

Fine Address in Brant Theatre by Dr. S. Banks Nelson of Hamilton Rewarded by Magnificent Response—Dr. Nelson Flays the Germans and Called For Men—Two Policemen Answered the Call.

The most successful recruiting meeting yet held in Brantford was that of last evening. Twenty-one healthy looking men, including two of Brantford's fine policemen, marched proudly onto the platform to join the colors. Although the meeting was for men only, the theatre was filled to the last seat by 8 o'clock, when the splendid recruiting picture, "England Expected," was flung on the screen. Then at eight thirty the curtain rose and revealed the very excellent stage setting for which Messrs. H. Punter and Maurice were responsible. Just in front of the rear box, the pictures of their Majesties were suspended with the Union Jack and Canadian flags enclosed in frames and electrically lighted. On either side, surrounding these was a wreath of British flags. This formed a very appropriate background for the khaki clad band of the 125th.

On the platform besides Chairman H. Cocksbutt, and the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Nelson, of Hamilton, were Lieut.-Col. M. E. B. Cutler, Major McLean, Capt. Shults, Rev. A. E. Lavell, ex-Mayor Spence, Messrs W. Norman Andrews and W. S. Brewster, K. C.

CHAIRMAN COCKSBUTT Hon. Col. H. Cocksbutt said that the meeting had been opened to him only because it was held for a purpose. "We must have men, and then more men," he quoted. The country needed them in khaki, and it was up to the men to show what Canadians were made of. We had a duty to perform to our country and Empire. "Can you refuse the call?"

Then the chairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Nelson. He delivered a very humorous address, as would only be expected from a native of Ireland, which was intensely stirring at times. It certainly was convincing, or the 21 men would not have responded.

REV. DR. NELSON He thought that the picture shown was a very good one. The part that he liked best was the scene which showed the little children praying. The prayers of to-day were very different from those of yesterday. Now the people pray in thankfulness for the splendid navy which has saved this country from being turned into a shambles.

SIZED UP HANS. The speaker then started to size up Brother Hans in a very satirical way. The mass of German people were hard working drudges. They had worked twelve hours a day at low wages by the government, and told in return that they would one day rule the world and make other people do their work for them. That German government thought that they only had to copy our navy by turning out as many dreadnoughts and submarines as they could. They had not considered the difference between their crews and the British crews. They did not remember that the British tar had not been beaten on the seas for centuries. They had not seen snow poles, and that the tar on the decks of British ships had been melted all along the tropical belt. Germany didn't consider how we had made the British Empire.

FAREWELL BOW WAS A LOSS

Riversides Defeated 40th Battery by Score of 4 to 0.

WANDERERS LOST ON HOME ICE

Toronto Pros Registered Their Sixth One-Goal Defeat.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Riversides sprang a surprise at the Arena Saturday afternoon when they defeated the 40th Battery in their senior O. H. A. contest. Of course the East Enders on form looked like a sure bet, but none of the 4,600 present figured that they would kalmosine the Battery and win by a 4 to 0 score.

The Battery did not show the life and dash that they displayed against Argonauts, and their game therefore was below par compared to their clash with the Scullers. However, they were up against a stronger line than they had met in their previous contest. Then Applegath of the East Enders showed something of his best game by playing his best game of the season.

Riversides were much the best throughout the game, and as a team showed decided improvement, especially on the line. Collett in goal, played much better than Bricker did in the last contest against the Battery but at that had a comparatively easy time compared to James in the Battery net due to the superiority of the East End forwards. The latter not only had more speed than their opponents, but they were more accurate, while their shooting was much better than that of the soldiers.

The game lived up in the closing period, and some hard knocks were exchanged. Gooch had to retire for a time when he had his nose injured, while Merrick was hit by the puck and laid low. Many penalties were handed out, but the majority of them were for tripping and slashing.

LOST IN OVERTIME Quebec, Jan. 31.—Quebec had to win twice over Toronto at the Arena Saturday night before the officials, Percival and Power, decided that the game was a draw. The score was six to five in favor of Quebec after the teams battled sixteen minutes in overtime, Rusty Crawford scoring the winning goal on a long kick which hit Cameron's stick and caromed into the net.

Quebec had the game tucked away apparently with only three minutes to play, the score being 3 to 3 in their favor, but Toronto got two questionable goals and the teams were tied. The tieing goal scored by Denney was the result of the most glaring foul in the game, a hand on the stick, which was not called. The local rink, yet the officials allowed it to count. Quebec had the best of the overtime, but Toronto nearly scored on a couple of occasions.

OTTAWA 5, WANDERERS 4. Montreal, Jan. 31.—Wanderers went out to Ottawa in the N. H. A. game at the local arena Saturday night by a score of 5 to 4. In a final drive which the home team could not withstand. The checking was close and unnecessarily rough at times. In the head-on collision between Ross and Odie Cleghorn the latter received a cut over the eye which required several stitches, and Ross was knocked out for a while. The latest act like Wanderers' game, first three goals being tallied by them, and the visitors barely got in a goal in the first period. Ottawa scored up the score in the second period, and in the third period Ottawa scored the winning goal.

ZEPPELIN RAID ON PARIS SATURDAY KILLED 25 AND WOUNDED 27

The Raid Lasted One Minute and a Half—Lloyd-George and Bonar Law in Paris—Were Zepps After Them?—All Victims Were Civilians.

Paris, Jan. 31.—Twenty-four persons were killed and twenty seven injured in the Zeppelin raid over Paris on Saturday night, according to an official statement given out yesterday. The raid lasted one minute and a half.

Ten of the wounded were placed in hospitals owing to the severity of their injuries. At 9:40 Saturday night tieren dashed through the streets sounding warnings of another Zeppelin raid. In a few minutes the capital was entirely dark. Crowds remained on the boulevards watching the skies for the appearance of a German aircraft.

LLOYD-GEORGE AND LAW. Paris, Jan. 31.—At 7 o'clock Lloyd George and Bonar Law with a party of British officials enter the Hotel Crillon. My companion remarked: "The Zeppelins would have a good bag if they could drop a bomb on the hotel." He spoke laughingly, but I remember the raid on Epernay a few days ago. The night was fine and the German espionage service "night ant."

Three hours later I was sitting in the Boulevard Cafe when suddenly, without a flourish of trumpets or rushing of automobiles of a Zeppelin entered the place and fired almost to the front of the cafe. Zeppelins are signalled approaching of the night. For an hour we waited, but nothing happened, then came the rumor of bombs dropped on the suburbs. I telephoned a great Paris daily. It was true.

FIFTEEN BOMBS DROPPED. Some fifteen bombs had fallen near the fortifications in a populous tenement district. The damage was considerable. There were many killed and wounded. I looked for a taxi along the avenue. Arriving on the smitten street I was again stopped, but the Prefect's signature was not so important. Her 15 policemen already bodies awaiting removal to the mortuary were lying on heaps of rubble. The rubbish in narrow streets was being piled up. Photographs of gun-ravished towns were being taken. Here half the front of a house was gone, leaving a chert occupant somewhat of the edifice. The rubble was covered by a marching column of men. They were in number about five hundred. A few showed uniforms. The rest were in civilian dress. The grotesquest sight was a man in his civil estate, a few workmen, and a few soldiers. The man in his civil estate was a young man who was killed by a bomb which at the same time seriously injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law.

Poincare Visits Scene. President Poincare, who in company with the Military Governor of Paris and the Prefect of Police visited the scene of wreckage caused by the bombs shortly after midnight. He seemed greatly moved by what he saw. One of the houses that he viewed was the Police Sergeant's home and who was killed by a bomb which at the same time seriously injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law.

An Incident in French History Upon Sunday, the twenty-ninth of July, 1792 in the late morning of that day, writes Mr. Hilsbr Bellou Century, "the broad Paris was flanked by a marching column of men. They were in number about five hundred. A few showed uniforms. The rest were in civilian dress. The grotesquest sight was a man in his civil estate, a few workmen, and a few soldiers. The man in his civil estate was a young man who was killed by a bomb which at the same time seriously injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law. No one injured his sister-in-law."

FAMILY WIPE OUT. The worst case of all was a five-story tenement at the end of a cul-de-sac. From the front it seemed untouched, but behind the facade, the whole building was split in two. No one knew how many dead lay in the rubble.

Here the family of a Zouave, Auguste Petitjean, were celebrating the birth of a son. The sight of his fifteen-year-old daughter, Lucie; his old father-in-law, Joseph Fricht, and a sister, Madame LeFriche, with her two little boys, Raymond and Andre, had gathered round the table to hear stories of the war. Suddenly the war struck them. All seven were killed instantly. When I saw the four bodies were already recovered. Elsewhere similar scenes were repeated.

CIVILIAN VICTIMS. In no instance were the victims other than humble workers. No house damaged had an official character or was inhabited by persons of note. One bomb made a twenty-foot-wide hole in the road right above the subway, actually piercing the subway tunnel. A train had just passed, and the line is now blocked. No one was injured. A few moments earlier the slaughter would have been terrible. There were in all seventeen bombs, of which one was incendiary, which caused fires that were quickly extinguished. All fell within a comparatively small area. The latest accounts give twenty-four deaths and thirty wounded, almost all women, children and aged.

Fifteen houses were damaged. The first bomb fell above the subway at the local arena Saturday night by a score of 5 to 4. In a final drive which the home team could not withstand. The checking was close and unnecessarily rough at times. In the head-on collision between Ross and Odie Cleghorn the latter received a cut over the eye which required several stitches, and Ross was knocked out for a while. The latest act like Wanderers' game, first three goals being tallied by them, and the visitors barely got in a goal in the first period. Ottawa scored up the score in the second period, and in the third period Ottawa scored the winning goal.

LINKING FORCES IN MESOPOTAMIA

Russian Caucasus Drive Objective to Unite With British.

MUSCOVITES NOW SOUTH OF ERZERUM Not Now So Very Far From Town of Kut-el-Amara.

London, Jan. 31.—A Petrograd despatch says: "The Russian Caucasian operation is widening, fanlike, to the westward, south-westward and southward, with the possibility, according to semi-official opinion, of a juncture being formed with the British Mesopotamia expedition."

"The Russian advance is pushing west of Melaghezt, where 'the important town of Khynyskaya, 50 miles south of Erzerum, has been captured. At the same time progress is reported in the direction of Van, and likewise toward Urmiyah, where it is officially announced that the Turks have been repulsed with heavy losses. Further southeast, in the region of the Kandallian Pass, south of Hamadan, another Russian victory is reported."

"Although a broken mountainous country intervenes, the latter positions are not far removed from the head of the British column in the vicinity of Kut-el-Amara. It is pointed out that the Turks evidently fear a junction, this being indicated by a retreat towards Mush of a large part of their army that was recently reported to have been routed, the evident purpose of the move being to cover Bitlis and Diarbekir."

SURROUNDING ERZERUM. The Russians are surrounding Erzerum, from which city the Turkish authorities have fled, according to reports reaching Athens. A strong Russian column is advancing to the Tiflis valley, the advice adds.

General Sir Percy Lake, who recently took over the supreme command of the British forces in Mesopotamia, succeeding General Sir John Eyles Nixon, has, according to an official announcement, joined the relief expedition under General Aylmer at the front. He reports that the weather continues bad and the whole country is deep in mud, making the movement of troops very difficult.

COURAGE AND OPTIMISM. A party of Scottish recruiting officials have just returned from a visit to the trenches and recount some exciting experiences, as told in the Glasgow Herald. The party consisted of Harry Rawson, chairman of the Territorial Force Association (T.F.A.), Col. Sir Robert Cranston, Col. George (7th Gordon Highlanders), Treasurer McMillan, and Messrs. Messrs. Gunn and Stewart (Edinburgh); and their main impression seems to be the wonderful courage and optimism of the British soldier under difficulties.

On their way to the trenches the party passed a concealed hozer battery, and the major in command asked if they would like to see the effect of a shell, humorously observing that he would be having lunch at that particular part of the line. The party had reached the "dig-out" when the shell was sent screaming on its way, but they had not long to wait; they could not venture out for some time. Further on they came to such familiar names as "Shaftesbury Avenue," "Leicester Square," "London Bridge" and "Jock's Lodge"—the last mentioned being regarded as the hottest and most dangerous part of the trench.

After proceeding two miles up the trench the party came to the first trench line, and were permitted to use the trench periscopes through which they could see the opposing German trenches not more than 200 yards away. During their stay there were bullets humming over the trenches like bees, and they were warned to keep well down, although the walls of the trenches were very much higher than the height of the average person. A large German shell came over while they were there, burying itself about twenty yards in front of the trench. Although it failed to burst in the soft marshy ground, the shock was distinctly felt under the impact of the huge weight of metal. On the Sunday morning the members of the party set out for Ypres, and were in danger all the way, the fire being constant and deafening. Reaching a town a few miles from Ypres, they were informed that it might be possible to go further on after the check which the Germans had sustained that morning, and in which they suffered severely. Something of a shock was experienced, when, after a mile had been covered, a shell struck some marshy ground within 15 yards of one of the officers, and despatched two of the party with mud. Luckily the shell found a billiard table, and did not strike a hard surface, it might have exploded with disastrous results to the cars.
