THE PARISH BLOCK.

Our illustration this week represents the Parish Block, situated directly opposite the Gamble House, Main St. east, Farmersville. The buildings are of frame, and the part at the left of the cut was built in 1886. The ground flat is occupied by A. C.
Barnett as a boot and shoe store.
Mr. Barnett has been a resident of the village for a good many years, and is well and favorably known to nearly all the residents of the country round.

He has lately put in a stock of machine-made boots and shoes, while in the rear part of the building he assists, with the help of several assistants, a large business in handmade work. The upper flat of the building is occupied as a dwelling by G. A. McClary, head clerk at J. P.
Lamb's drug store. One half of the ground floor of the largest building shown in the cut is occupied by Geo.
Balford, tailor, who learned his trade the outward as well as in the inside appearance that made in the dry goods, grocery and millinery establishment of M. K. Brees & Son.

During the summer, the whole building has been thoroughly overhauled and at the time of our visit was filled with a fine stock of goods. The millinery show room is fitted up second to none in the county, and if the fair saleswoman who occupied the room of honor during our visit could be induced to remain, we know that if another line of goods, that of gents' furnishings, were added, that the proprietors would soon have a large increase in the number of customers.

FARMERSVILLE RACES.
The third annual fall meeting of the Farmersville Trotting Association was held on their fine track here, on Tuesday and Wednesday last, and was in every respect successful. The attendance on the first day was not so large as was desirable, but on the second day there was a large number present, so that the Society will have a net profit of about $60. Sporting men were present from Oshawa, Ottawa, Montreal and other distant places, and the members of the Association have every reason to feel satisfied with the degree of popularity which their track has attained in so short a time.
The entries were full, and every event was keenly contested. Below is the in the old country, being a native of the Channel Islands off the south coast of England. Mr. Balford has had a local habitation and a name in this village for the past seventeen years. His coming and going has been exemplary, and his name a guarantee that those entrusting George with their orders will, after fitting out the garments turned out by him, leave the shop with a smile. The other part of the first flat is unoccupied at present, the last tenant being A. E. Wiltse, who removed a few weeks ago to his new shop and dwelling, next to Gilroy's carriage shop.

A cut of Mr. Wiltse's new building will appear next week. The upper flat is occupied by several resident tenants, and there are still a few rooms to be rented. The proprietor's large work shops are situated in the rear.

Mr. Parich's reputation as a builder and contractor is well known in the village and surrounding country.
During the season he employs a large number of men, and as he personally superintends all work entrusted to him, it is not surprising that his comments are carried out to the satisfaction of all concerned. This season's contracts include the new block of Messrs. A. Parish & Son, and residences for Messrs. John Wiltse, Joel Parish, Irwin Wiltse and Isaac Robeson.

of the exhibits would place the managers of the show in a false position, for we feel that the blame for the small number of entries does not rest upon their shoulders. If the agriculturalists around Newboro have not en-terprised enough to go to the trouble of collecting and exhibiting the products of their farms, gardens and dairies, they must not complain if the public, who go to the fair to see something to interest and amuse them, become disgusted and stay away in the future.
The show of cattle was fair, although the quantity of grades predominated over all the other varieties. Jesse Knowlton exhibited his two-year-old Holstein bull. A two-year-old Ayrshire and a grade bull were the only specimens of that class on the ground.
Some very fair Ayrshire cows and heifers and a few grade Holsteins were also noticed. The Gananogue Carriage Co. had a fine display of their carriages on the ground. A Little Maxwell self-binder, and a few rakes, drills, and other farming implements made up the show to respectable proportions on this part of the grounds.
As we said at the commencement, the hall was well filled, but as our guide was not posted as to the names of the principal exhibitors, we are unable to give the names of the fortunate prize-takers. However, we will be pleased to publish the prize list in full as soon as the secretary can get it ready for the compositor. The show of horses was good, and some very fine animals were exhibited in the ring.
Here, again, we shall have to refer those interested to the prize list. The great attraction of the Newboro fair this year was the family of French Gyries and their bear. The family consists of the father, mother, and some four or five ragged and dirty children. A covered vehicle answered the three-fold purpose of parlor, kitchen and dining hall. The bear was confined in a rudely constructed cage, mounted upon two wheels and drawn by the sorriest specimen of horse-flesh that could be seen in a day's travel. The crowd was called by a few toots on a trumpet improv-vised out of a cow's horn. "Tirty dime" was the price demanded for an exhibition of the antique show, and for that sum the manager agreed to let the bear and a half-bull dog that was chained under the wagon indulge in a "great big bloody fight." The tirty dime not being forthcoming, the manager declared the fight off.

In strolling around the village, a person is struck with the steady, substantial growth of the village. Quite a number of new buildings are in course of erection, and others have been rebuilt and remodelled until they have lost all semblance of their former appearance. Amongst the many new buildings, we noticed the fine, new brick school house and a large, commodious sample room nearly completed by J. Hart, of the Ontario House.
To enumerate the number and names

Monday next may be the general public can only conjecture; but it is hoped that the heretofore fair fame of this town will not be sullied by the fixing of the crime of which they are charged upon the heads of Messrs. Armstrong, Hicks and Pierce, whose hitherto good reputation is a protest against the imputation that they had any hand in so cowardly and criminal a proceeding.

NEWBORO FAIR.

Tuesday last, the opening day, was all that could be desired. The lady members of the fair, with commendable zeal, soon filled the hall with the product of their handwork. If the male members of the Newboro Fair had shared half the pluck of their lady friends, we would not be compelled to write that the fair of 1887 was inferior to that of previous years. On our arrival on the grounds on Wednesday morning, we made our way at once to the shed in the eastern corner of the enclosure, and found that the collection of grain, roots, vegetables, etc., was, comparatively speaking, nil.
