Methodist Anniversary.

METHODIST CHURCH ATHENS—WHERE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES WERE HELD.

Probably the last anniversary services in the present Methodist church (as the Board of Trustees are contemplating the erection of a new edifice), were held on Sunday and Monday of this week.

The services this year were of more than usual interest, and the attendance, notwithstanding the disagreeable weather that prevailed throughout the day, beat all previous records.

Rev. Mr. Mavety, pastor of the Kempsville Methodist church, and chairman of the district, occupied the pulpit on Sunday. Mr. Mavety is well known to Athens people from the fact of his having been pastor here before the union of the Methodist Episcopal and the Wesleyan Methodist churches under the name of the Canada Methodist church. Mr. Mavety has a commanding presence, and is a fluent and able speaker, and possesses the happy knack of placing new and original thoughts before his hearers in a simpler and more clearer light.

The sermon in the morning was on "The Temptations of our Lord." At the evening service the gentleman preached from the 3rd chapter of 1st Kings, the last clause of the 5th verse, the subject of which was: "Ask what I shall give thee." He made in asking for wisdom, in preference to the many other things he might have chosen. Solomon started out in the right path, but did not finish up his life as he had commenced. Solomon honored the God of his fathers—the same as every boy should do in these days. There are some people who do not believe in visions, but the speaker said the bible was full of them. God at times deigned to reveal himself to his children, and mentioned several instances in support of his case. God places before every youth a blank cheque and says "ask what you will and I will give it thee." Everyone present had made a choice, which choice makes the character of that person. Solomon chose a wise course in not asking for riches, victory over his enemies, nor for ease and joy, but for wisdom to fill his place in life so that God would be pleased with him. God can give all we ask for. It was considered a good thing at one time for a young man to sow his wild oats, and he would then settle down and be the better for it, but the speaker thought it was better not to sow them then no bad habits would have to be broken off. The finishing up of Solomon's life was like a vessel going out from port, with all sail set, but shattered to pieces by the storms before reaching her destination. Was Solomon saved? The speaker thought not. All who have made their choice for heaven, do all that Christ tells you, and you will be rewarded as you deserve.

The choir, under the able leadership of Mr. D. Fisher, rendered choice and appropriate music both morning and evening. Messrs. E. S. Clow and S. Manhart (with trombone), assisted not a little with their services.

Monday evening the services were continued by a grand literary and musical entertainment. The attendance was very good. The choir was occupied by Mr. S. A. Taplin, who discharged his duties in a very efficient manner. In his capacity as chairman, he gave a very comprehensive review of the church, and the improvements proposed thereto; of its high educational attainments, and the people's general rally, for which he was heartily applauded, on resuming his seat. The choir as on the preceding day, furnished some excellent music. Mrs. Lamb rendered a pretty solo during the evening. Rev. Mr. Mavety, was next called upon, and in a neat speech, eulogized the choir, the chairman, and all present, after which he gave a review of the British Empire's possessions, showing their extent, position and other facts relating thereto, for which he was roundly applauded.

After a selection by the choir, the chairman introduced Mr. Jas. Cummings, of Lym, the speaker of the evening. He prefaced his remarks by telling of his being commissioned by the Government of Canada to go to South Africa and report as to what plan required to be adopted to further the interests of Canadian manufactures in that country. He fully explained the situation of the colony and its extent. When he arrived there the plague broke out, necessitating the vigilance of the medical profession and the military to stamp it out. He then described the different tropical fruits of the country; the healthiness of the cities and towns and the climatic conditions of the same; the mixed population and their employment, and the unsuitableness of the land for agriculture. There was less than 1,000,000 whites in the country, about two thirds being Dutch. He gave Gen. Kitchener great praise for his perseverance during the present struggle, and thought that the war would end by May next. The war, he said, was a righteous one and the course pursued by the Empire should be concurred in by all patriotic citizens. Since the disaster on Majuba Hill the Boers had been conceited about their ability to vanquish the British in the country but the game is not working that way, and the loyal men of South Africa look to Canada to help straighten matters out. He then gave a laughable description of the heathen natives' marriage relations, how for a price of a few cows the natives could get wives continually. While he, (the speaker), was in that country he visited the famous battlefields of the war, and was entertained by the president of the Wesleyan Methodist conference. He prophesied a rosy future for that country at the conclusion of the struggle, but advised all young men to stay here unless they had sufficient capital on hand to keep them for a year. He also thought the present struggle had developed the British army such as no other thing could have done, the only visible thing that was lacking being the manner in which the promotions from the ranks were made. In regard to the trade country the prospects were bright for a large one. At the conclusion of his remarks he was heartily applauded.

"God Save the King" and benediction by the Rev. Mr. Mavety closed the meeting.

BROCKVILLE CUTTING SCHOOL

IN ORDER to meet the demand for first-class cutters, which is steadily increasing, I have opened up in connection with my tailoring establishment a Cutting School, to be known as the Brockville Cutting School where the latest up-to-date systems of cutting will be taught, also instructions on the practical work of the tailor shop, which is most essential for a young man to become a first-class cutter, and which will enable him to command a salary of from One Thousand Dollars to Fifteen Hundred Dollars per year in this country and from Fifteen Hundred Dollars to Two Thousand Five Hundred Dollars per year in the United States. This is a rare chance for young men to fit themselves for a lucrative position in a short time. Persons attending this school will receive a thorough training in everything connected with Garment Cutting, and after graduating are competent of filling a position as custom cutter at once.

Pupils will be taught individually and may commence their instructions at any time convenient to themselves.

For all information, see catalogue, which will be mailed to you upon application.

Yours truly,
M. J. KEHOE

TO START A BALKY HORSE.

When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him, don't throw sand in his ears, don't use a rope on his front legs, or even burn straw under him, says John Haines in Farm and Home. Quietly take a hammer on the head a moment. Take a hammer or even pick up a stone out of the street; tell the driver to sit still; take the reins and hold them quietly, while you lift up either front foot. Give each nail a slight tap and a good smart rap on the frog. Drop his foot quickly and then chirp to him to go. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the horse will go right along about his business, but the driver must keep his lines tight and not pull nor jerk him back.
