CAR - EXPER ENCE.

As Usual a Long Line of Women Swayed to an fro Helplessly,

Clung to a few Available Straps and as Usual There was a Long Line of Men Peacefully Seated

It was a car packed to suffocation. As usual, a long line of women swayed to and fro helplessly, clinging to the few available straps. As usual, there was the long row of men peacefully seated and reading with absorbing interest the evening papers. Near me stood an old lady accompanied by two young girls. She was too short for the straps and found it almost impossible to preserve her equi-librium. Finally after an unusually convulsive plunge on her part a man arose and offered her his seat. She smiled her thanks and was about to sink gratefully into it when-another man made a similar movement, and both sat down to-

You would have thought he would have arisen quickly, burning with shame. Not a bit of it! He gave a final squirm, a twist of his elbow, and the old lady was forced to her feet again. Then he produced a voluminous newspaper and im-mediately became absorbed. The two girls turned pale with indignation, and the taller of the two, with fire in her ye, toucked the intruder's elbow.
"Pardon me." she observed, in icy nes. "but this gentleman gave his seat to my mother." The man kept right on reading. Then a woman seated by his side arose, and, with a flushed face and in loud tones, so that every one could hear, said, "Pray, take my seat, madam." block there was such a silence that you could have heard a pin drop. At the next street the man arose, and, without looking at anybody, walked hurriedly

Miss Maud Millett had a curfous experience once when acting at the Theatre Royal, Oldham, in a piay called "Sophia." The hero, as usual, said to her, "I have nothing left to offer you-not even the hope of better days to come;" but, in saying so, he reck-oned without his landlady. That very realistic and emotional person was in the circle, and her lodger's pathos was too much for her. "Never heed, lad!" she sang out, at the top of a very shrill voice. A GREAT MISTAKE.

The old idea of taking blood-thinning compounds in order to purify the blood is an error, as the system is thus left in a vitiated condition. Merrill's Sys-tem Tonic not only purifies the blood in a thorough manner, but the iron contained in it again enriches the blood, leaving one with lots of good, rich, red blood. 50 pleasant-to-take doses 50c., at the Crntral Drug Store,

A smart man can learn a great deal

It has been held that consumption is hereditary, and the fact that one per-son of a family had died with con-sumption was considered a sure sign that others of that family could not escape it. This is partly true and partly untrue. A man with weak lungs is likely to transmit that weakness to his likely to transmit that weakness to his children. But there is no reason in the world why the weakness should be allowed to develop. Keep the langs full of rich, red, wholesome blood, and the weakness will disappear. Decaying ing tissues will be thrown off, and new material will be added until the lungs are well and perfectly strong again. This is the thing that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does. This is what makes it cure 98 per cent. This is what makes it cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption where it is taken according to directions. Flashless Rapid-Fire 6: us

It is reported that the new French rapid-fire gun invented by Colonel Humbert gives no flash or sign of fire. If this be true, the French have made an advance in artillery second only in importance to that which marked the introduction by them of smokeless powder. In the operations around Santiago, the only means by which our men could locate the position of an enemy's piece was the flash. If this should be removed, the art of war, especially on land, will become more difficult than ever, for a masked battery of smokeless land flashless guns would be positively undiscoverable. The only description of the gun that has come to hand is rather obscure; but it would seem that an attempt is made to cool the larger portion of the Ry. System but it would seem that an attempt is gases below their flash point before they are allowed to reach the open air. The rate of fire has reached a maximum of twenty shots per minute. To accommodate the increase expenditure of ammunition it is proposed toreduce a single battery from five to four guns and increase the number of ammunition wagons.

The Fastest Vessel Affoat.

Until the new and large torpedo boats of the "Turbinia" type, now building at New castle, England, have been completed, the credit of having turned out the fastest vessel will belong to a German yard. The "Hat Lung," built by Schichau, of Elbing, for the Chinese navy, is credited with having made a run of 181/2 knots at an average speed of over 35 knots an hours. The builder states that the highest speed realized during the run was 36:7 knots or 42:26 miles per hour. The best run of the "Turbinia" for a mile is 35 knots, so that the Schichau vessel has a subtantial lead.

The most remarkable feature of this boat next to her speed is that fact that she is fitted with reciprocating engines. At the time the "Turbinia" made her phenomenal speed, it was popularly supposed that it was entirely due to her new form of motor. In great part no, doubt it was; but there is reason to believe that the excellent steam-raising qualities of her boiler contributed in no little degree to the result. Relatively considered. the performance of the "Turbinia" was more meritorious, for the reason that she is only a 40 ton craft, while the Schichau boat is of 180 tons displacement, or four and one-half times larger. The new and enlarged "Turbinias" will be full sized torpedo boats, and for this it is likely that they will surpass the "Hai Lung" by a considerable margin of speed. Just what the excess will be is a matter which is exciting much speculation in naval quarters.
