The usual Christmas dinner with all its frills and fancy dishes was provided Christmas day for the patients at the Hospital For the Insane, and was thoroughly enjoyed by them. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion in gay Christmas colorings. There were gifts for everyone and fun galore for those who wished to join in the various. festivities. Tuesday afternoon a delightful time was spent skating and curling on the rink. The ice was in for Christmas at the last minute, Saturday and Monday were naturally heavier than any preceding days. B the entire week after the elections showed a strong demand in most lines. The tendency has been to give articles of useful character, and aside from the usual purchases of toys for the children there has been but little call for novelties. At many of the stores inventories are not taken until January or February. This precludes the possibility of giving an accurate statement of business conditions for the entire year as compared with those in other years since the beginning of the war. The increasing overhead cost since 1914 has militated against every one, and consequently pre-war conditions were vastly different from those at present. However, most business men who base their estimates upon the monthly balance sheet are confident that the year will compare favorably with the past three years. People Have Money

The outlook for next year is fairly reassuring. Many factors portend at least a continuance of existing conditions. Evidences are plentiful that dwellers in the rural communities, are as prosperous now, if not more so, than they have been for several years. This is already due to the good crops this year and the high. prices that are being paid for all kinds of grain, livestock and dairy products. The increased wages that are being paid workers in all branches of manufacturing that furnish their output to will enable many the marri
