THE PROTECTION. AND EVALUATION OF THE PROTECTION year 1854 Mr. Morpeth was appointed Assistant Clerk to the Legislative Council, and when the liberale returned to power, they paid him £100, sithough he was a politic at opposent. They did flot on that occasion withhold his pay on the plea that there was no law authorising his appointment.

Hen. Mr. Haviland.—The Government in power when Mr. Morpeth acted as Assistant Clerk made no special agreement with him, and they did not pay him, because there was no law which would justify them in doing so, but were prepared to let his claim come before the House at the then next Session. He thought that Mr. Ball should have adopted a similar course; but as he had placed his claim on presumed legal rights, he should encorait before the legal tribunals of the Country

The Bill was then read a first time, and the House adjourned.
