DUEBEC EN FETE.

Speeches by the French Delegates.

Address by the Governor-General—The Ranquet in the Evening—The American Delegations. &c.

QUEBEC, June 24.—The great national oelebration of St. Jean Baptiste day was in every respect successful. The weather was exceedingly fine, the heat being temin every respect successful. The weather was exceedingly fine, the heat being tempered by breezes blowing up the river. The steamboats and railroads, which ran chap excursions, brought a vast crowd of sightseers into the city yesterday, and it is estimated that not less than 20,000 strangers are domiciled here to night. The early merning boats from the villages on the north and south shores were laden to the water's edge, and the habitants from the suburbs began pouring in at daylight. The official preceedings began at 8 a.m., when pontificial mass was celebrated in a temporary chapel on the Plains of Abraham by his Grace Archbishop Taschereau, M. Gagnon, organist of the Basilics, conducted the musto, which was singularly well rendered by a choir of 750 voices, and Mgr. Racine, the Bishop of Sherbrooke, preached an sloquent sermon, in which he referred to the past glories of the French-Canadian race, their present happy condition, and their bright and promising future. The Plains of Abraham were the rallying point for the national and other societies taking part in the procession, and as each arrived on the gound headed by its band of music and carrying its banners and insignia, it was told off to its position by an official. Fully 15,000 persons had gathered at the Buttes a Neveu on the Plains when Archbishop Taschereau and his attendants arrived. After mass, the societies fell into line, and at 9 c'olock, the procession, consisting of over forty divisions, started on its journey. In the first division, which was headed by mounted members of the Cerole Frontenac, were charlots carrying orat representing the Emerillen and the Grande and the Petite Hermine, the three vessels with which Jacques Cartier salled from St. Malo on his voyage of discovery three centuries ago. The divisions following consisted of the various St. Jen. pered by breezes blowing up the river. The steamboats and railroads, which ran

In drinking the health of the Princess and myself, the Princess has especially desired me to convey to you her gratitude, and I regret that sowing to the short duration of the stay of the Prince Leopold in this country, she has been unable to remain with me for the imposing celebration which we have witnessed to day. She is at all times sorry to quitt Quebec, a place she loves as much for the moral worth of its people as for the gran-Quebec, a place she loves as much for the moral worth of its people as for the grandeur of its scenery. As for myself, gentlemen, I have received a pleasant call in being among you to-day to testify my respect for our French Canadian fellow-citizens, and my appreciation of the value of the element furnished by its noble and gallant race in influencing for good our young and growing Canadian nationality. I am here to show how much I prize the loyalty evinced by you on all occasions to loyalty evinced by you on all occasions to-ward her Majesty the Queen, whose repre-sentative I am. Picrou, N. S., June 23.—A myriad of the army worms have made their appearance in this county. They were apread along the railroad of the Intercolonial coal company when first observed, so thick that sand had to be thrown on the rails to allow the locomotive wheels to grasp them. They move slowly and spare nothing. It is reported a blackened path for miles in the forest marks their progress. When coal lies on the road-bed, millions of dead worms lie in the coal, which seemingly with the very impressive ceremonies of the Masonio order, the large number of people assembled joined in singing the doxology, when the Ven. Archdeacon Ellwood pronounced the benediction. The Masonic fraternity then marched back to the lodge roem and the proceedings of the day were brought to a close by the band playing a selection of appropriate music. The visiting Masons were entertained in a most hospitable manner by their Goderich brethren. ith the very impressive cer les of the

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Excitement in New York Consequent or a Fail in Prices. NEW YORK, June 2'.—Some excitement was caused to-day on the Butter and Cheese Exchange by reports that several large houses lost heavily through a great fall in the price of cheese, and the corresponding effect on butter. For the past two or three weeks the wholesale price has fallen steadily. The falling off of the export demand has done much to bring about this state of affairs, together with the heavy receipts, which tend to keep the market down.

A BREAK IN CHEESE.

Rapid Secline of Prices and Consternation in the Market.

New York, June 27.—Owing to the rapid and unprecedented decline of prices, the cheese market is filled with excitement and consternation. There is a probability of a further decline. The unsettled market is said to be due partly to a decline in the English market and partly to excessive production and bad weather. Since Tuesday the market has declined from 112 to 84c.

A few weeks ago some person dug up la sword near the mouth of Thessalon river, in Algoma. It was found beside an old log, buried among debris which had been accumulating for many years. The sword appears to have belonged to an officer of high rank, and must have been originally an article of great beauty and value. The hilt is elaborately carved with figures representing military scenes, but these figures are so much decayed by rust and age as to be seriously marred. It is supposed the sword belonged to an officer in the French army, and that it has been rusting for over 100 years.

THE GREEK QUESTION, One turns with relief from this to foreign politics. The Greek question is virtually settled, King George receiving Janina and the neighbouring districts. MUSSULMAN REVOLT AGAINST THE SULTAN Looking to Asia, the speedy erection of Armenia into a self-governing State is de manded alike in the cause of humanity are of political expediency. But it is in the relations of the Sultan with his Mussulman relations of the Sultan with his Mussulmas subjects that the greatest dauger to the Turkish Empire lies. As Caliph, he commands the allegiance of every true believer but even here his supremacy is now threatened. From Mesopotamia to the shores of Hadramant, the Arabs are topen or covert revolt. At Mesca the Holy City, they refuse to accept the Scheriff just nominated by the Sultan and have threatened his life. The great dignitaries of Islam threaten to proclair a rival caliph, and the Arabians deman the restoration of their lost independence In this the Christian and Moslem as In this the Christian and Moslem united, and it is within the bounds probability that deprived of his Europea Provinces and shorn of the allegiance of all the Mussulman races, the Sultan of Turkey will sink into the insignifican position of a secular sovereign of a small section of his empire in Asia. Just on thousand years ago, the Turk emerged int the light of history. Just five centuries and a quarter ago he landed in Europe an started in that career of conquest which carried him to the gates of Vienna. With steadily ebbing fortune, reeling under the mortal blows of his hereditary enemy, the Muscovite, he stands to-day stricken but still proud on the shores of Europe awaiting the final summons to depart.
