Slavery to Go.

The Lower House of the United States Congress passed, on Tuesday, the amendment for the constitutional abolition of slavery by the required two-thirds majority. It was so passed by the Senate last year, and now only requires the sanction of the people or Legislatures of three-fourths of the States to become the constitutional law of the land.

SERGEANT-MAJOR WOOD.—We are sorry to hear of the intended removal of Sergeant-Major Wood, drill sergeant of the volunteer companies of this town. The Sergeant Major has received the appointment of Barrick Sergeant in Quebec, and will leave to attend to his new duties early in the coming week. But the volunteers of Stratford, to whom he has been of such signal service, desire before he leaves to signify their appreciation of his good qualities, and for that purpose we are requested to state that a muster of both companies will take place on Monday evening at half-past seven.—[Beacon.

An Incident at Clifton Bridge.

For eight years after the Marquis of Northampton had laid the foundation stone ot the Leigh Woods abutment, workmen and the public in general were enabled to pass over the immense chasm by means of an iron bar seven hundred feet in length, which was hung across the river. On this bar was a "cradle" basket, or car, and those persons who wished to make the dangerous passage, paid a fee which varied from one to five shillings. By the contrivance, thousands of persons crossed the Avon. The basket ran by its own gravity down the incline to the centre of the bar, and was drawn up to the other side by means of a rope. On one occasion, a Somersetshire wedding party went to see the fairy bridge, and the bridegroom having had enough cider to make him adventurous, persuaded the not unwilling bride to make the flying passage. The two got into the basket, but when they reached the centre of the bar, high over the Avon, and the moment arrived when they were to be drawn up on the opposite side, it was found that the communicating rope had broken; and as no provision had been made for such a contre temps, the enthusiastic husband and his newly wedded wife dangled in mid-air—to the astonishment of the rooks, no doubt—for several hours, their extraordinary position being rendered none the more comfortable by their friends on the abutment shouting across to them that they would have to remain in the basket all night! This novel way of beginning the honeymoon was avoided however; but the party were not rescued till they had passed several hours in their strange carriage.—[Chambers's Journal.

A single column of a recent New York paper contains the following evidences of law, order and virtue, in that city:—Murder of Lazarus, the prize fighter; burglary and attempt at murder; police officer shot while attempting to arrest rowdies; attempt to murder an old man aged 78; assault with intent to kill; two firemen shot by unknown persons; woman shot through a window by a person unknown.

☞ The Kingston Whig says that a rumour is afloat that Ex Chief Justice McLean, who fills the important office of Chief Justice of Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, from age and ill health is about to resign, and that Chief Justice Draper will be his successor. The rumor further says that Mr. Chancellor Vankoughnet will be the future Chief Justice of Canada.

☞ It is understood that the Government will introduce a Bill for the registration of titles in Upper Canada, in which the largest suggestions of registrars and judges will be embodied.
