Our Position.

As usual when the Editor of the Chronicle is not making unwarrantable imputations against the character of an opponent, he is mixed and muddled in his arguments.

Editor McGrath says "The Telegram disputes our suggestion that the Memorial against Mr. Morison is now before the Secretary of State for action, &c." There is not a word in the whole of our article of Saturday which raises such a dispute.

On the contrary the whole article is based on the assumption that the Memorial is before the Secretary of State, and it is strictly consistent with our publication on April 25th of the Daily News report to that effect.

Editor McGrath asks why the Memorial requests that a copy be sent to the Secretary of State. The answer is obvious, and it is that papers of such gravity are usually sent to the Secretary of State as a matter of record. His Excellency told Mr. Coaker there was no need to put in a request for a transmission of copies to the Secretary of the Colonies, as it was his duty to send copies. The Memorial called for nothing more than it was the duty of the Governor to do, according to his own showing, and there was nothing therein in the Memorial which converted it into a request that His Excellency should not deal with the matter himself, but refer the issues for decision to the Secretary of State.

Editor McGrath is anxious to know the construction we put on the request for transmission of copies at the time of the presentation of the first Memorial.

He can easily satisfy himself that Editor Lloyd construed the whole Memorial as a matter for the decision of the Governor by perusing our article on April 6th, published some time before His Excellency had intimated to the President of the F. P. U. that he intended to refer the Memorial to the Secretary of State for decision.

Here are some extracts:—"We publish to-day a letter with enclosures which was sent last Saturday morning to His Excellency the Governor by the President of the F. P. U. concerning the connection of the Hon. Donald Morison with the Anglo-American Development Company, Ltd."

In the whole article the Secretary of State is not mentioned.

"The President of the F. P. U. directs the attention of the Governor to these matters. We endorse that effort, and also especially direct the attention of the Prime Minister to them."

We would also draw their attention to these words from the Prospectus appended to Agreement of Feb. 16, 1910, etc."

It is the attention of the Governor not that of the Secretary of State that is called to these matters.

"We would ask His Excellency the Governor, the Prime Minister, and people generally, to read the following letter, written a few weeks after Mr. Morison became a member of the Ministry and Minister of Justice, etc."

Then follows the letter about the Orange Bay property. We did not direct the attention of the Secretary of State to it, but that of the Governor the Prime Minister and people generally.

We closed the article with these words:—

"We ask the Governor to form his own opinion of the meaning of the words to which we have referred. We ask the Prime Minister to do the same."

We ask our readers to use their own judgment and ask themselves what they would do had they a say to the writer of these words, who at the time he wrote them was Minister of Justice."

In all this, there is no reference to the Secretary of State, but to the Governor, the Prime Minister and our readers.

Finally, we do not, nor have we ever raised any objection to His Excellency seeking any advice he deems fit. But it is the duty of His Excellency to assume the responsibility for the course he took and not attempt to thrust it on other shoulders.

Reckless About Bait Protection.

Yesterday we published correspondence between the Board of Trade and the Government about Bait Protection. This correspondence in no way expresses the strong feeling which prevails either in the city or in the Southern Bays against the laxity of the Government in enforcing the Bait Act.

Here we have the S. S. Fiona taken off Bait Protection at a time when fishery affairs are critical. The gravity of the matter arises from the extraordinary size of the Norwegian catch and the effect it will have on the sale of our own staple.

One would imagine that at such a time the Government would strain every nerve to keep the bait for our own fishermen and prevent bait being run to St. Pierre and supplied to foreign bankers, who will catch fish on our bait which will be put into the market against ours. Instead of assisting the fishermen by keeping the S. S. Fiona on the service, she is ordered here to get ready to take the Governor round the outposts on a trip and in the meantime our bait is in shore and there is no steamer on the service to prevent bait being run to St. Pierre.

And that is not the worst of it, for not only has there been no protection afforded the last few weeks, but the Government are putting on a steamer which is considered of little use for the service for the time during which the S. S. Fiona will be engaged taking the Governor around.

The S. S. Fiona should never have been taken off the service. If the Government wished to give the Governor a trip round the outposts, they should have hired a steamer for the purpose and kept the Fiona at her work. Already irreparable damage has been done and it would seem that further damage is going to be done.

Surly the first claim on the Government is the protection of our staple industry, and the convenience and pleasure, or even an official visit of His Excellency are but secondary matters. No Government but one run by a Picnic Party would hold the S. S. Fiona as a Governor's yacht, when such interests are at stake. It ought to be clearly understood that the fishery interests of the Colony have a first claim on the S. S. Fiona, and not the Governor. But what can be expected of this Government? Picnicking always takes first place with them.

Origin of the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army had its origin in the town of Whitchy, in the rough coal mining district of Yorkshire, England, where General Booth, at that time Rev. William Booth, was doing humble mission work. England was then in arms, expecting to jump into the Russo-Turkish war. It occurred to Booth that he might attract a crowd by issuing a declaration of war himself, so he prepared one forthwith, sprinkled it plentifully with halibut and posted 2,000 copies of it about town. The device tickled the British sense of humor, there was a "red-hot, rousing meeting," to quote General Booth, "the penitents" fell down in heaps, and the Salvation Army sprang into life full grown.

The Police Court.

A married woman charged with the larceny of a skirt, pleaded not guilty. She was remanded for eight days. In an assault case the defendant was fined $10 or 30 days. Several civic matters were disposed of in the District Court.

A fisherman of Conception Harbor charged with assaulting the station agent at Topsail and also with throwing a stone through the window of the train and general disorderly conduct. For disorderly conduct on train was fined $2 or 7 days and on the charge of smashing the windows of the train he was fined $25, and for the assault of the station agent he was ordered to enter his own recognizances for $100.

Another Fire.

At 7 p.m. yesterday while fireman Con Kavanagh was at tea in his own home on Lewis Place, he noticed that the match factory of the Horwood Lumber Coy. was on fire. He rushed to the Western Station, gave the alarm and the company with their apparatus went to the scene and throwing some water on the blaze was soon quenched. The phosphorus used in the manufacture of the matches ignited and the woodwork was just catching when the firemen arrived. Little damage was done. The building is of concrete and could not be destroyed.

PIERCE FIGHT.—Yesterday afternoon in an up-town factory two employees, brothers-in-law, fell out and fought fiercely for 10 minutes. When separated both had been badly pummelled and one had to quit work. The manager will investigate.

President Coaker At Port Rexton.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PORT REXTON, Last Evening. President Coaker arrived here at 5 a.m., S. U. P. band and 200 members of the Union met him at the station amidst volleys of musketry which echoed through the settlement. The procession wended its way to the Orange Hall and the President addressed a large audience and intimated that he would meet them at nine and address them. The meeting closed at 9 and closed at 12. The President speaking two and a half hours. The hall was crowded and a worn out fisherman, aged 84, Mr. Win. Bannister, joined. The settlement was adorned with bunting and in holiday attire. Mr. Watson was at the station when the President arrived and was an eye witness to the great demonstration. This is our reply to Patsy McGrath and the Hen Organ. "Long live the Union and Coaker" is our motto. The President left by carriage for Catalina where he will deliver a speech to-night.

Roosevelt's Line of Attack.

Special to Evening Telegram.

CHICAGO, To-day.

On the eve of the Republican National Convention, Roosevelt last night disclosed the line of attack which he will make. He laid down two principles (1) that delegates whose selection he contests must not vote in the organization of the Convention or upon the settlement of the contests and made it clear he would resist it. He declared that no action in the Convention based upon votes of these "fraudulently seated delegates" would be binding upon the Republican party. It was a Roosevelt rally in the Auditorium that the ex-President made the challenge. He was facing a cheering throng, which jammed the huge building. They gave the ex-President a mighty welcome. Roosevelt made a fighting speech. His hearers were in a fighting mood. They cheered him on as he denounced his opponents and shouted to him "Go at him Teddy," "knock out the steam roller," "hit them again."

Great Gathering.

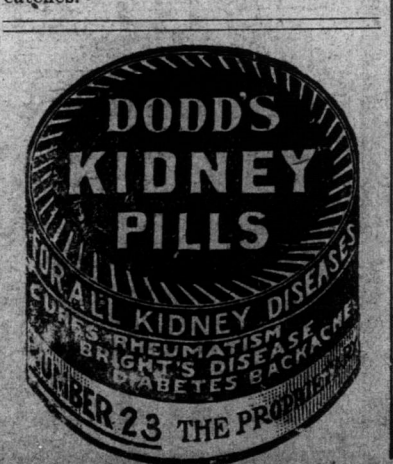

New York, June 14.—What experts consider the greatest gathering of track and field athletes ever gathered in one team in this country, sailed out of New York harbor this morning on the steamer Finland, bound for Stockholm, to represent the United States in the Olympic games. The vessel has been converted into a "veritable floating gymnasium, so that there will be opportunity for all hands to keep in trim en route.

The track and field contingent numbered 108 athletes. As there are only 34 among the regulars, this indicated that 14 of the supplementary list were in the throng. All told there were about 150 in the party, including those listed for contests other than track and field events. John Paul Jones, Cornell's sensational distance runner, was one of the last track men to put in an appearance.

The Salvation Army had its origin in the town of Whitchy, in the rough coal mining district of Yorkshire, England, where General Booth, at that time Rev. William Booth, was doing humble mission work. Sensation At Badger.

A great sensation was caused at Badger Brook on Saturday when a lumberman, who was crazed from liquor, ran amuck on the streets. He assaulted all he met, and after a desperate fight he was captured by some men. They tied him with a rope and hauled him in a shack. After the lapse of several hours he became somewhat rational and was released. He, however, procured more liquor and became a perfect maniac after a short while and again ran through the place shouting and screaming. People who came in by the train to-day say that he assaulted and hurt several. He was again captured after a hard fight and tied up, and a policeman arrived on the scene yesterday and arrested him. He will be brought on here.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, June 18, '12. Few trout are hardy—or careless—enough to go off without taking something along with him to ward off the flies; and those who do go off without something of that sort invariably regret it. One of the best and most certain "fly doers" is McMurdo's Tar Oil and Pennyroyal, which is generally a certain preventer of fly bites. Do not go to the woods without a bottle of it. Price 25c. a bottle. Cream of Lilies is a specific for sunburn. Those who use it habitually "fear no more the heat of the sun" so far as their complexions are concerned. Price 25c. a crock.

Card Game Ended in Death

Norton, Va., June 12.—Reports were received from Dante, a mining camp in the mountains, that 25 men were killed and wounded in a fight between miners and mountaineers over a card game early yesterday morning. Dante is in the most inaccessible section of the mountains and it is almost impossible to obtain information. Nearly every man engaged in the game was killed, and bystanders were shot down. Pistols were brought into play when miners charged the mountaineers with cheating in the card game. Almost simultaneously volleys were fired by both factions. There was a stampede for the doors and many of the injured were trampled. Combatants who escaped fled to the mountains.

The miners are incensed, and it is feared there will be further trouble, following a report that mountaineers were congregating in the hills preparatory to marching upon the town.

Light, Warmth and Food.

These three words embrace the most urgent necessities of life, and it is an extraordinary thing that in each case our thoughts turn to Gas; this, after all, is but natural. We want Light, gas gives us the best, cheapest and healthiest artificial light known. Again, we want Warmth, and the gas fire is at hand to give it in its best form; and, lastly, we must have Food, and here the gas cooker never fails us. All this is absolutely true, as we have shown over and over again. If, however, any of our customers are in the least doubtful on any of these points, we cordially invite them to consult us. In the meantime, our advice is to get good burners and buy mantles of well-known makes, to use modern gas fires and cookers, and, above all, to keep your gas appliances (whether old or new) in good order, for in this is the true secret of efficiency and complete satisfaction.
