Twillingate Farewell to
Rev. Arthur Stirling.

Rev. Stirling and family bid farewell to Twillingate the second time this evening, and will begin work again under new skies with different people and under different conditions, though we venture he will find no kinder folks than Twillingate people. He and his will take with him the best wishes of many friends; and if he leaves a few who are not sorry of his going he can ask no better criticism of his work than that he pleased not everybody.

Preaching smooth things and prophesying deceits was never this preacher's fault, and he was always strong to denounce evil; even at the cost of popularity.

His preaching was an inspiration to many people, even outside his own flock, and his eloquent sermons will be sincerely missed.

The following address, largely signed by representative citizens, was presented to him before leaving by Magistrate Scott and the "Sun" also joins in wishing him "Health and Success in his new Parish and Community."

ADDRESS:

Twillingate, N. D. B., Newfoundland, Sept. 6th, 1916.
 The Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, R. D., Twillingate.

Respected Sir—As you are about to leave the District for another sphere of labour in your Clerical work, as your fellow citizens from a civic standpoint and on behalf of the community we cannot forego the opportunity of expressing the respect held for you, and regret for your departure, which fact however again emphasizes the word "change" so indelibly marked on present day history making.

Conspicuous amongst your strenuous efforts for the cause of Right, and the uplift of our common humanity, will always be remembered, your whole-hearted co-operation in all circles for the grand victory won the cause of "Prohibition" in which you were, no mean factor in making this the banner district, by long odds, of the Colony.

Then who of your compatriots can ever forget your strong and outstanding utterance and work in the paramount work of Empire, pronouncement and work that often had to be made and done at the expense of personal peace of mind and comfort, reminding us that it requires the heroic soul to be true while we "stay by the stuff," as others fight at

The Coward.

Dear God! I hate to hear that fellow groan!
 I'll stop my ears and try to get some sleep.
 I thought that I was hardened into stone,
 But he has set my nerve-roots all a-creep.

Their shrapnel sweeps this cursed hill-top bare,
 It whizzes past in perfect gusts of lead!
 And yet, and yet, I wonder, should I dare?
 It can't be done—I hope the chap is dead!

I'll think of happier things. 'Tis good to feel
 Her letters in my pocket near my heart;
 Her love has held me firm as walls of steel,
 Has spurred me on to do a soldier's part.

I wonder were she now beside me here,
 Would she lie close and let yon soldier groan,
 Or would she think my prudence kin to fear,
 And risk a rescue, though she went alone?

I know the answer—she who ever dared,
 Who gave the largess of her love to me,
 Would call me coward—I for whom she cared!
 Her scorn would drown me deeper than the sea!

I'll venture now—there seems to be a lull!
 A well-filled flask may help him through the night,
 I hate to stir, my very brain seems dull!
 Out, slacker, out! You've but yourself to fight!

To fall and fall! I'm glad, though, that I tried!
 My love will know, and she will understand—
 Her proud heart joy that thus her man has died,
 Her letters warm and wet beneath his hand!

St. Peter's Parsonage, Twillingate, Sept. 9, '16.

Dear Fellow Citizens,—Accept my grateful thanks for your kind words. Whatever I have tried to do as a citizen was no more than would be expected of any man occupying an important position "in no mean city."

May Twillingate ever prosper and retain its place as the Metropolis of the North—in every sense.
 I am, very faithfully yours,
 A. B. S. STIRLING,
 Incumbent.
