

Obituary

JAMES CULLEN.

There passed peacefully away on Thursday, 8th inst., James Cullen, at the age of 55 years, after an illness of some months. The deceased had suffered much from the ailment that caused his death. With true Christian like fortitude he bore his sufferings unto the end. In the early summer he sought medical advice and treatment at the General Hospital, St. John's. Not being greatly incapacitated then through illness, he proceeded with his brothers to engage in his accustomed calling, the fishery on the Labrador coast. After a short period there he found that his health was slowly but surely failing, and that he must however determined to his worldly interests, forego his calling. He decided to return to his home and patiently await the outcome. On his way home he was advised by one of the medical men of St. Anthony's Hospital to undergo some special treatment there in the hope that such would prove successful. After a stay of five weeks there appeared some little improvement, but, alas, it was only temporary. He decided to continue his trip homeward, and await among his own kindred the end of his physical disability. This was in early August. From then on till his death recently he bravely bore his malady awaiting the call that put an end to his bodily pains.

The deceased with his brothers prosecuted the fishery at Labrador ever since his boyhood years, and was never more happy than when the season came round to engage therein, and he carried on his work to the very end. With others of no enduring a nature would have retired and rested, he unflinchingly kept at work till forced to give way to the disease that now was consuming his bodily strength. The end came as noted above, surrounded by his wife, children and relatives.

In his illness he was visited by Rt. Rev. Mr. McCarthy. Prior to the end he received the last holy rites of his church with truly Christian Catholic resignation, thus fortifying his spirit for the journey that leads to the immortal country beyond the grave. The subject of this obituary was in very truth an ideal citizen, upright, honest, God-fearing. As a neighbor, helpful, thoughtful, and charitable. To the poor and helpless he was always ready and anxious to render aid. Wherever or whenever a kindly deed was done and done quietly James Cullen figured there. Truly he loved his fellow-creature in a worthwhile way, in active service. He will be sadly missed in the large circle of his acquaintances, particularly in the area that up to so recently claimed him as a neighbor and as a friend. Left especially to deplore his loss are his wife, one son, John, four daughters, Mary, Alice, Bride and Maggie; one brother, Patrick, father of Rev. Wm. Cullen, of Gambo; three sisters, Mary, Mrs. Hawco, both now residing in America; Mrs. Jno. Fitzgerald at home. A brother Capt. Peter, predeceased him but a short time ago. There were three other brothers lost at Labrador some years ago, in the pursuit of their avocation.

To each and all the writer with the public tenders heartfelt sympathy in this, their hour of great bereavement, and hope and prays that the God of all consolation may give them strength.

to bear their sorrow in a Christian-like spirit, humbly resigned to God's holy will. On Sunday, 11th inst., all that was mortal of the late James Cullen was placed in Mother Earth, there to await the great resurrection morn. May his soul rest in peace. His funeral was one of the largest seen in this town for some time, being attended by his numerous friends of all denominations from far and near, all testifying to the worth and popularity of the departed man.—COM.

Protect the Consumer

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—With keenest interest I have read and re-read a valued communication from "Taxpayer" published in the Daily News of 16th inst. Needless for me to mention, sir, I quite agree with his remarks whole and entire. As a taxpayer with heavy family ties I rightly am of the opinion that 35% duty is sufficient, without that burdensome 6c. per pound. After all even with 35% there are the usual 10% surtax and 5% sales tax to be encountered.

Some months ago it was current about town that there would be a reduction on such imported preserves but as yet nothing whatever has been done. Why? Personally, I believe that a decrease in duty would result in a substantial increase in consumption. Deduct six cents per pound from the average jams to-day and there is some difference. A consumer will pay forty-eight or forty-nine cents per pound of preserves where he cannot pay fifty-five. It is but reasonable to think so. As regards protecting home industries, are we not buying from the mother country after all? Why, in this respect there are numbers of American and other outside houses under the opinion that for this reason duties on English manufactured goods are somewhat lower than those on "outside products." At all events give the public a chance. Cut down this unpopular duty and at least try out the experiment for a term. Just take notice of the increase in importation subsequently the revenue. As "taxpayer" quotes "live and let live."

SAVED HER CHILD'S LIFE
WHEN HOPED SEEMED LOST.

There is rare human interest in the story of Mrs. Stanley Budgett of Bishop's Falls and pathos, too, although this time it has a happy ending. It follows in her own words:

"My youngest child was taken ill, and became so bad that I had to seek medical assistance. I was told it was a case of congestion of the lungs, and that my child had but a few hours to live. As I had already lost one of my children through the same illness, I felt extremely bad over the prospect of another loss, and determined to do all in my power to save my baby."

I sent to the store for some camphorated oil, and the druggist persuaded me to try a jar of Vicks Vaporub. I followed the directions on the jar, and after the first treatment, the child breathed much easier, and in a couple of days, was completely cured."

Blatant testimony this—of the effectiveness of Vicks for cold troubles—and testimony that needs no comment. It is because of just such cases, not at of them, of course, so crucial as this, that over 17 million jars of Vicks are sold yearly in the United States and Canada.

Vicks is simply rubbed over the throat and chest. It penetrates the skin and at the same time, its healing vapors are breathed in direct to the affected air passages. It is a severe cold indeed that can withstand this double direction action.

Paish Predicts
Another Big WarBRITISH FINANCIER FORESEES
GERMANY AND RUSSIA IN ALLIANCE.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Sir Geo. Paish, eminent British financial authority and publicist, told the Trans-Atlantic Society in an address to-day that unless Germany's reparation indemnity was reduced and the French left the Rhineland, another European war was inevitable.

"Unless a solution, just and reasonable to all is reached," declared Sir George, "France will stay in the Rhine territory until reparations are paid, and it is physically impossible for Germany to pay the original amount. This means eventually that Germany will try to drive the French out, and a new war will be on."

"Germany will not make the mistake she made the last time in having Russia as an enemy, but will have that nation as a friend. Germany and Russia will be able to overrun Europe and establish a military despotism."

The Dawes report did not entirely solve the reparations problem, but it improved the situation, the speaker said. He added that the United States

Bluebeard's 8th Wife

GLORIA SWANSON'S NEW TRIUMPH.

Gloria Swanson scored a decided triumph in her latest Paramount starring vehicle, "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," which opened at the Star Theatre last night.

This is a story of a French girl who marries an American multi-millionaire "Bluebeard" who has already divorced seven wives. Miss Swanson, however, in the role of Mona de Briac, determines she will never be John Brandon's (Huntley Gordon) eighth wife. She tantalizes him until he is almost frantic. Mona decides to give her husband ample grounds for a divorce. But Brandon who loves his wife checkmates her and all misunderstandings are cleared away with love triumphant at the finish.

Miss Swanson is charming in this production while Huntley Gordon is quite effective as a modern "Bluebeard." Others in the supporting cast include Charles Greene, Lianne Salvor, Paul Weigel, Frank R. Butler, Robert Agnew and Irene Dalton.

The Choice of Most Women

Pearline washing powder is selected by many women who know what a real good washing powder is. Pearline costs only ten cents a package and saves dollars in toil and labor. Years ago Pearline was the favorite—it is still the favorite with all its numerous users. Your grocer knows that Pearline is considered the best of all washing powders and this is why he will recommend it every time you ask his opinion. For cleaning pots, pans, kettles, etc., there is nothing like Pearline. For all washing or scrubbing a little Pearline added to the water makes the work much easier. Every woman should use Pearline. Ask your grocer for Pearline.—oct4,1n,1f

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE INSULTING FLATTERER.

Don't you hate gross flattery? It's such an insult to one's intelligence and to one's decency?

Like everyone else I like to have my ego stroked the right way.

I don't like to have people offer gross compliments that are insulting in their obvious untruth.

And isn't that what people who offer gross flattery do say?

But You're Not a Fool.

You go into a shop to try on a frock and the saleswoman raves over each one she puts on: "That is perfectly charming and so few people could wear it, but you have just the figure, (when, not being blind, you can see the fatal blemish in the back that says you can't possibly wear it) or "these new cranberry shades are trying to come, but with your lovely complexion you can carry them off perfectly. I think that dress is simply exquisite on you" (when you know just as well as she does that you are so sallow you can't possibly wear that cranberry, and that the gown is exquisite, but not on you).

You feel like saying to her: "Don't bother to talk like that to me. I am not a fool," but because you are too wellbred, and too timid or inhibited, or because it's too much bother, you let her rave. That, I think, is another time where it would be kinder to obey that impulse. For such a woman is not the successful type of saleswoman, indeed I am happy to say that her type seems to be passing. If same method is adopted, except that the charges may be greater and may require special planning. I have cleared thousands of stumps at an almost nominal cost in England and Scotland. Fruit trees which have made no growth, owing to bad planting or unsuitable soil, when replanted by explosives have made excellent progress.

There were large quantities of explosive in this country after the war, and there may still be supplies available, but I feel sure it would be in our interests to thoroughly test the above methods, as they would assuredly assist in quickly filling up the bare spaces. It is to be hoped that many of our new roads will be planted with trees, and now is a favourable time to use explosive for the purpose before they are lined with habitations. The trees will all grow, and will require less care and attention.—H. H. Stockfield in Review of Reviews.

Codfish—The market in Italy since the war has been strong in codfish. It has again declined, but is still a good deal better than it was a few weeks ago. We also learn that a good deal of codfish is being exported from the coast of Labrador to the United States. It is now the season of codfish, and the quality of the fish is of a high order. It is attributed to the fact that the fish is never frozen, and is sold in the water. It is a good deal better than the fish sold in the United States, and is a good deal better than the fish sold in the United States.

Everything pointing to the new season worth mentioning by us at once.

Cod Liver Oil—Norway has been in indication of a new season. The buyers are anxious to make a purchase when the price is low. This is a good time to buy, as the price is low. The price is low, and the quality is good. The price is low, and the quality is good.

The principal factor in the making of any of the month of May from London is the advance in price of the fish. This is a good time to buy, as the price is low. The price is low, and the quality is good. The price is low, and the quality is good.

It is a fine art to pay a graceful compliment. Even flattery (I take it the difference between flattery and complimenting is that flattery isn't supposed to be wholly sincere) can be done gracefully and skillfully. One selects the quality which the person to be flattered has some reason to think he possesses, and expresses one's admiration of it, always taking care not to be fulsome. But indiscriminate flattery—well, I once heard someone say about a woman who was flattered by her friends by flattering them barefacedly and fulsomely:

"Sophie makes me so mad. I know I may be a fool, but I hate to have her think I'm a darn fool."
