Jubilee Preparations - A Million Seats Line the Route of the Procession-Fall in the Prices - The Pope Writes a Pcem-Oscar Wilde's Letter.

Special London Cable Letter to The Advertiser. London, May 29 .- The Marquis of Salisbury gave a full-dress banquet to States ambassador, accompaied by Mrs. Hay, was among the members of the diplomette among the members of the diplomatic corps present.

Another successful party was Mrs.
Oppenheim's flower ball on Tuesday. It was marred, however, by the fact that the Duchess of Manchester, on leaving, fell and broke her ankle bone.

JUBILEE PREPARATIONS. The jubilee preparations at present are in a state of more or less chaos. The Queen has not finally approved the programme, but sightseers' stands are going up at every possible place from the basement to above the roofs. Many of the seats are only 20 wide and are on the faces of steen buildings. It is estimated that a million seats now line the route. The sale of seats, however, is not lively. Many of the stores along the Strand and elsewhere have not received a dations for viewing the procession, and prices are falling, as the arriving Americans are not eager to buy at top prices. A GENUINE FIRE SCARE A genuine fire scare prevails on account of the flimsy stands erected everywhere. An expert who was connected with the fire department for twenty years has written a letter to the newspapers pointing out the danfrom fire, and especially priceless treasures in the National Gallery, which is now surrounded by a

But, he continued, the time of the Ministers might just as well, and where than in listening to arguments which they had heard not once ba over and over again. It was hardly fair that the Government and Parlia-ment should be called upon to ans wer arguments which had been ans wered not once but several times aid ready. He had listened with a good deal of interest to the speech of Mr. Foster, and, although he had put his soul and heart into it, and had brought a deluge of words to bear, it would take no very strong arguments from him (the Premier) to show that the whole of Mr. Foster's contentions no foundation whatever. He had set up absurd propositions, which he asked the Government to take as arguments and answer. His first point was that the clause before the House might lead to serious complications, that : o more than one nation. He did not take the resolution as it was, but he objected to it on account of the consequences it might lead to. The fear which he had in his mind was that under this resolution the markets of Canada would be opened not only to Great Britain but possibly to many other countries as well. He had abandoned the argument that day which was set up the other day, that possibly the treaties which Great Britain had with Germany and Belgium might admit German and Belgian goods at the lower rate of duty. His chief argument that day was that there were four or five countries, Japan and China amongst others, with tariffs which mitted on the same terms as those the world generally, all over the unier. They saw only one nation which was in a position to take advantage of that tariff, and it was Great Britwere other countries. He knew of no Mr. Foster had done a thing which he had done more than once already this session and in previous sessions, particularly since the advent of the present Government to power. He had become very wary lest perhaps Liberal principles might be deviated from. Let Mr. Foster content his soul in peace. The Liberal party would look after the interests of the Liberal complishing a good deal during the summer, which he proposes to pass at hear.") Mr. Foster could look after the interests of his own party. Mr. Milis (Annapolis)-The Conservatives look after the interests of the

Mr. Laurier-The people did not think so on June 23. Continuing, he said Mr. Foster had come to the conclusion that there had been a de-parture from Liberal principles in giving to the Governor-General in council power to make treaties. If they were iving that power to the Gover eneral in council it would indeed be departure from Liberal principle of fact, and in taking that issue he laced himself in the judgment of the

NO NEW POWERS. * He called the attention of Mr. Fos er to the fact that the Governor-General in council claims no powers but powers which had been already on the statute book for more than one year and more than one Parliament. Section 6 of the last Customs Act, placed Ottawa, May 29.—There was an end- on the statute book when Mr. Foster of-the-session air about the House yesterday.
