In the Interest of the Colonies.

London, Aug. 25.—There are quite a few members in the Imperial House of Commons who were originally natives of the British possessions in Australia. These held a meeting the other day, and were joined by Mr. John Henniker Heaton, who had much land in Australia, and by Sir Charles Dikes, who, as author of "Greater Britain," also has been shown to be much interested in colonial affairs. The meeting, however, adjourned after an informal talk, without doing any business, because it was decided to ask the co-operation of such members as are interested in Canada, especially Edward Blake, and also those having interests in characteristics. In a word, the object is to form a "colonial party," whose aim it shall be to advance all colonial interests. Naturally, this project has created a good deal of comment in political circles. It is regarded as but another instance, however, of the growing power of the colonies, and their determination to have their interests sateguarded in the best manner possible. The plan that has been chosen is regarded as a very good one.

Commenting on the movement, the Standard, the organ of the Opposition, hopes that the formation of this party will lead to a better insight into colonial questions which are always cropping up.

BISMARCK FREES HIS MIND.

He Severely Lectures Kaiser William

Beelin, Aug. 25.—Prince Bismarck is still taking the waters at Kissingen. On Sunday last a party of 700 of his admirers from the Thuringia district in Central Germany arrived at Kissingen for the purpose of paying their respects to the aged exchancellor. This party upon its arrival was joined by 800 of the people visiting Kissingen, and all together proceeded to the villa occupied by Prince Bismarck and presented an address to him.

In his reply to this address Prince Bismarck dwelt strongly upon the subject of German unity. He said:

"Since 1871 we have been comparatively undisturbed by our French neighbors, whom Providence placed where they are for the purpose of keeping us awake. The days have long gone by when France regarded a campaign in Germany as a sort of pleasure excursion. France knows well enough now what we are made of.

"We must give up carping and caviling at the present state of things, with the object of making new arrangements. I refer to the semi-official utterances directed toward the attainment of a Greater Prussla." The National Liberals in 1848 in the German States outside of Prussia have proved that my policy was right.

"To those Prussians who are not content and who wish to put everybody else in their pockets, I say: 'You are real particularists. You do not recognize Germany outside of Prussia.

"I am sorry to see in the decline of my life the principles of the constitution being undermined by people who are trying to procure the centralization of the imperial power. Do you believe it would be an advantage if the eight Princes of Thuringia were replaced by an imperial governor? A German clings to his dynasties, and the dynasties, too, cling to Germany.

"All accusations against me are pure inventions. If I wished to combat the present Government I would make a tour of Germany and summon popular assemblles everywhere and thrash out all I had in my heart against the Government. My heart is no murderer's den. I have not learned to lie, even as a diplomat. The people now begin to see what I meant three years ago when I said here that the constitution ought to be the first object of care.

"I observe that the post of Imperial

"I observe that the post of Imperial "I observe that the post of Imperial Chancellor has been separated from the Presidency of the Prussian Council of Ministers. I also observe that at the recent conference of the Finance Ministers of the Several States at Frankfort the President's chair was occupied by the Secretary of the Imperial Treasury, who is a subordivate bureaucrat. This is unconstitutional.

"The Emperor and the Chancellor are "The Emperor and the Chancellor are only the executive organs of the Bundes: rath and Reichstag. Neither of them has a right to attempt more than to publish the laws enacted by these bodies.

"The Chancellor ought to have influence in the Bundesrath only by means of Prussian votes. It, apart therefrom, he takes the lead, and his secretaries are placed over the Ministers of the Federal States, a breach of the constitution results which must be opposed.

"An end must be put to this system. The constitution is good. It cost hard work and lives enough. It makes me anxious to see it meddled with. Everybody must do what he can to direct our policy into the right path. All the Diets ought to be more active in this respect. The national cause ought to be the first item of every Federal Legislature.

Prince Bismarck concluded by declaring that he had spoken out of the fullness of his heart. He had, he said, no connection with any newspaper. He paid his debts in the same coin that he was paid.
