SIR ADAM'S PRIVATE STABLE WAS AIDED BY HYDRO FUNDS SETTELL CHARGES IN PROBE

Chairman's Former Secretary Says Roy Beck Toured On Board Money.

SELECTED HORSES

London Street Railway, L. and P. S. Ry. and McClarys Also Involved.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 4.—That Roy Beck, while an employee of the hydro commission, toured the country at hydro expense, selecting horses for Sir Adam's private stable, was one of the several sensational charges made yesterday by E. Clarence Settell at Judge Snider's probe into alleged hydro irregularities.

Settell, a former secretary to Sir Adam, was brought from jail to testify at the investigation. He is awaiting trial on a charge of fraudulently cashing a check for $25,000, belonging to the commission.

The London Street Railway, the London and Port Stanley Railway and the McClary Manufacturing Company of London, are all involved in the Settell charges.

The prisoner declared the hydro officials had been paid by the hydro for looking over the plant of the L. S. R. during arbitration proceedings. He also claimed that large sums of money were paid by the commission in respect to the early electrification of the Port Stanley line.

Enlarging on his charge that contracts had been let to the highest bidder, Settell declared that contracts for signs on the right-of-way were given the McClary firm in 1911, though it was the highest bidder. An interesting feature of Tuesday's proceedings was Settell's explanation of how he had come to keep tabs in his diary of the alleged misdeeds, dating fifteen years back.

Settell, in answer to questions by Hon. I. R. Lucan, through W. S. Brewster, K.C., that his original purpose in keeping a diary of alleged wrongdoing on the part of former Chief Engineer Sotham was that he had been able to help Sir Adam Beck in the event of serious disagreement between the two which Settell said he then foresaw. Later, he said, in reply to Judge Snider, the continuation of the diary down to recent times after the dismissal of Sotham had merely become a habit.

Sotham-Beck Jealousy.
"When I first came to the commission," Settell said today, "P. W. Sotham was chief engineer. There had always been a little underground jealousy between Sotham and the chairman. A certain individual was making notes of Bell Telephone Company accounts paid by the commission, in which probably there may have been some personal calls for Sir Adam. This man made notes and Sotham picked them out. They were picking out what they presumed would be personal charges against Sir Adam Beck to provide ammunition for Sotham in case of a break which was liable to come—ammunition to hold up against the chairman."

The commission resumes sittings tomorrow. Although announcement was forthcoming today from Queen's Park of a reduction from the original $30,000 to $15,000 in the bail bond for Settell, it was understood at the Settell investigation that bail will not be sought.

Letter Written in Haste.
E. C. Settell again took the stand when the inquiry resumed this afternoon. Speaking on his behalf, J. B. Cartwright, his counsel, stated that the letter on which the charges were based was written in haste and when he was in a disordered state of mind.

"Settell does not think at present he can be very much help to the inquiry until he refreshes his memory with reference to his notes," he stated.

"I think he should go as far as he can now," stated Judge Snider.

Dealing with the charge made by Settell that there was evidence of greed on the part of hydro employees, Settell expressed the opinion that the whole inquiry would show that.

Dealing with the charge made by him that $1,500 was paid to one W. M. Whitehead of Hamilton to get a by-law passed there, and the amount was paid through A. F. Lobb, Settell stated that he was a "political worker."

"Such payments would have to be made by the chairman," said Settell. Mr. Brewster—What makes you sure the chairman paid the money over?

Settell—No one else would have authority.
Judge Snider—Whitehead was not engaged in laying right-of-way?

Settell—No.

Judge Snider stated that this charge of Settell's was based solely on his suspicions.

The charge of Settell that McClary & Company of London received the contract for the erection of signs on hydro right-of-way in spite of the fact they were the highest bidder, was made by him on the basis of a note he had made at the time the contract was let.

Mr. Brewster—Why did you make a note of it?

Suspected Something Wrong.

"I thought there was something wrong about it," replied Settell. He stated he would look up his notes and refresh his memory on the point.

Mr. Lucas—What was the reason for keeping these notes?

"When I came to the commission I found that there was jealousy between Sotham and Sir Adam Beck," stated Settell. "One was getting all the limelight. I saw that a certain individual was checking up on Sir Adam and telling Sotham of private

When I saw that I started to take a few notes myself to protect Sir Adam. That is how it started. As Sotham and Sotham kept getting weaker, but another man got stronger, and as he got stronger I got weaker, and I kept on taking notes. Later Sir Adam called me in to his office and asked me if I had anything on Sotham. I said I had and in half an hour he was out of the building."

Mr. Lucas—Did you keep these notes to "frame" Sir Adam Beck?

Settell—No, I kept them because I got the habit.

Dealing with the charge that Roy Beck, while an employee of the commission, had toured the country at hydro expense, selecting horses for Sir Adam's private stable, Settell stated that he had done this to his knowledge for five weeks on one occasion.

Mr. Lucas—How does he know all that?

Settell—Roy Beck told me. Officials of the hydro had been paid by the hydro for looking over the plant of the London street railway during the arbitration proceedings.

Mr. Brewster—On what grounds do you make these charges?

Settell—Chiefly suspicion, but I think the expense vouchers will bear me out.

Detectives Were Paid, Too.
Explaining his charge that an amount of money was charged to radial purposes when it was really payment to a detective agency for watching Home Smith's house, Settell produced his personal notes on the subject, and the detective's report on the vigil kept outside the house, the report giving details of several visitors to the house.

Mr. Brewster—Why was it charged to one of the radials?

Settell—I guess they were ashamed of their actions.

DEEPENING OF PIKE STREAM IS LIKELY

Twenty-Five Farmers Sign Dingman's Creek Petition—Floods Fams.

A petition signed by 25 farmers whose farms adjoin Dingman's creek, asking that the stream be cleaned out, received favorable consideration by the Westminster township council yesterday afternoon, and the old creek "where the big pike swim" will be deeper than ever next spring.

The farmers, headed by William Wood of White Oak, stated that there was so much rubbish in the creek at the present time that their lands were flooded after every big storm. The work will be done under the drainage act.

No action was taken on the appeal of Andrew Elliott regarding the McNeven drain east of Pond Mills on the second concession, despite the arguments of Mr. Elliott that the drain was not in the proper place.

The report of the township engineer, Fred Bell, on the Thornton creek, was accepted and a court of appeal was set for November 25.

The reeve and Deputy Reeve William Boler were appointed to attend the gathering of the Western Ontario united boards of trade, to be held next week.

THREE BUILDINGS LOST IN WESTMINSTER FIRE

Barn, Drivshed and Granary On Farm of A. Norton Destroyed.

One of the oldest barns in Westminster township was destroyed by fire last night shortly after 11 o'clock. A drivshed and granary were also prey to the flames.

The barn which is on the old Teeple homestead on the seventh concession, west of the Lambeth highway, was owned by Austin Norton. The house on the property is leased by County Constable Philip Lawson.

Three pigs were in the barn at the time of the fire, and two of these were burned to death.

The barn was one of the landmarks of the township. Mr. Teeple, who formerly lived on the farm, and who had the barn built, said that it cost him seventeen cords of wood for the labor employed in the building of the barn.

Mr. Lawson stated that he had gone to bed shortly before 11 o'clock, and that everything around the place seemed all right at that time.

Hundreds of people from London witnessed the fire. It is not known whether the loss was covered by insurance or not.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 4.—Argonauts may have got some favorable breaks in the last few minutes against Hamilton here on Saturday, but the club was handed a heavy blow today when it became known that one of the officials who had collected the money paid for tickets in the downtown offices, had lost an envelope containing $1,000 in ten and twenty dollar bills.

If the money is not found the Argos club will receive a staggering blow, but the officials believe that the finder will return it, and they offered a big reward for its recovery.
