THE TRADE REVIEW
 AND
Intercolonial Journal of Commerce.
 MONTREAL, FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1869.

We have furnished accounts to nearly all subscribers to the TRADE REVIEW, for arrears to Dec. 31, 1868, and for advance subscription for 1869, at the reduced rate of One Dollar. Many have remitted already. Those who have not yet done so, will confer a favor by remitting the amounts due at their earliest convenience.

We regret to have to chronicle the sudden death of J. Henry Evans, Esq., which took place last Sunday night. Mr. Evans, well known as a wholesale hardware merchant, was an old resident of Montreal, and liked and respected by all who knew him.

The failure of the firm of Smyth & Edminson, of this city, wholesale manufacturers of boots and shoes, is announced, they having made an assignment. It is believed that the creditors will not be very heavy losers, but that the estate will turn out well.

Canfield Dorwin, senior partner of the firm of C.
 Dorwin & Co., brokers, has absconded, in view it is said of imminence of insolvency and unwillingness to meet his creditors. It is also stated that he took with him $3,000 in cash. The junior partner, Mr. R.
 L. Gault, is we believe a heavy loser, and deserves much sympathy in the matter. The amount of the firm's liabilities is $100,000, much of it for deposits, on which a high rate of interest was paid, and the indirect liabilities at $140,000 for re-discounts, embracing also it is said a large amount of purely accommodation paper.

COTTON CROP OF THE SOUTH.
 THE cotton crop of the Southern States, which was almost entirely destroyed during the late rebellion, is rapidly increasing again. This is fortunate for the people of all parts of the Union, and must soon swell largely their exports to foreign countries. According to the New Orleans press—which we suppose can be relied upon—much larger quantities of cotton have been received there lately than during last year.
 The following figures are given:— Received to 1st Sept., 1869..... 669,000 bales
 " 24th Feb., 1869..... 771,000 "

The planters in Louisiana were more successful with their last crop than in some other States, and it is calculated that at least 900,000 bales will be received at New Orleans before the 1st of September next. The total value of the crop throughout the whole of the Cotton States is set down at $200,000,000. This is a very large sum, but where the vast tract of country is considered, and the immense yield there was of cotton before the war, the estimate does not seem unreasonable. Very rapid progress in the extent of the cotton crop of the South, will, no doubt, take place during the next five years. Slave labour is no longer available, but the blacks, as a general rule, are willing to accept quite moderate wages, and we fully believe that, in a comparatively short space of time, free labour on their part will pay the planters as well as when the latter had a proprietary interest in "human chattels."
 The South will, however, no longer have the cotton market almost entirely in its own hands. Great Britain and other manufacturing nations, which use so much of the raw article, will continue to import largely from Egypt, India, and other eastern countries which have recently turned their attention to its cultivation. These countries will, in all probability, yet manage to give Southern cotton-growers very active opposition.

The improvement of the position of the Northern States, very much depends on the increase of the cotton crop and the restoration of peace and order throughout the South. "Cotton was King," indeed, at one time, for that product made up at least two-thirds of the entire exports of the nation. Before five years, we believe the Gulf States will be once more as prosperous as at any previous part of their history, and the immense internal trade of New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, with the South, will again spring into existence. It will be a fortunate event for the entire Republic when the cotton States, by their greatly diminished question of their national indebtedness, and lighten the burdens which press upon the people.
 The whole world may be said to be interested in Southern cotton-raising. The demand for cotton augments, and the more that is grown the cheaper will the people be able to obtain it. A reduction from the prices going for several years past, will come very acceptable.
