

the one and ^{the} practice the other.

A series of hymns to be sung before and after the exercises have the result of impressing the minds of the attendants more deeply with the truths explained in the instructions and Catechisms.

There is first the Canticle on death, as explained in an early number of this volume; then one on Judgment, and what