EDITORIAL NOTE

Canada and the United Nations is intended to be a current work of reference, useful, it is hoped, to students of public affairs in Canada and abroad who may not have access to the primary sources themselves. Special attention is given to Canadian policy as it was stated at the United Nations. Limitations of space prevent the reprinting of the full texts of the more important Canadian speeches explaining policy, but many of these texts are available in the two documentary series put out by the Department of External Affairs and listed in Appendix IX. Readers who are not familiar with the structure and functions of the United Nations, its subsidiary bodies and its Specialized Agencies, may find it helpful to refer to the material in the nine Appendices at the end of this volume. A chart, reprinted by courtesy of the Department of Public Information of the United Nations, shows the principal United Nations bodies and their relationship with each other.

The present volume is the ninth in the Canada and the United Nations series; it deals with events of the 18-month period July 1, 1954 to December 31, 1955. During this period, the General Assembly held its ninth session (September 21 - December 17, 1954), and its tenth session (September 20 - December 20, 1955), and the Economic and Social Council its eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth sessions.
