"It has been said, with some little show of justice, that as a nation we do not possess a love of High Art, though, as painters of Landscape Scenery, no other school approaches the English. But there is one branch of this department of Art, that may be considered exclusively English, the power of delineating the beauties of Nature in water colours. The greatest master of this branch of his profession, made the Southern Coast the principal field of his illustration, and in the present volume no less than forty subjects, nearly one-half of the whole, are from drawings by Mr. Turner. The remainder were furnished by Messrs. Collins, Owen, Prout, Westall, De Wint, Blore, Hakewill, Clennell, and others, who all have earned, and enjoy a well-merited celebrity, in this new and beautiful department of Art. The engravings, all in the line manner, are by Messrs. Cooke, Goodall, Finden, Wallis, Miller, Allen, Horsburgh, Freebairn, and Shaw."—Preface.
