

CHAP.	PAGE
IX. OPERATIONS ON THE AXILLA AND THE SHOULDER.—Ligature of the axillary artery.—Amputation at the shoulder-joint.—Excision of the shoulder-joint.—Gunshot injuries of the shoulder-joint	187
X. EXCISION OF THE SCAPULA	228
XI. REMOVAL OF THE UPPER EXTREMITY, ARM, SCAPULA, AND GREATER PART OF THE CLAVICLE.—Interscapulo-thoracic amputation	234
XII. OPERATIONS ON THE CLAVICLE.—Removal of the clavicle	249

PART II

THE HEAD AND NECK

XIII. OPERATIONS ON THE SCALP.—Fibro-cellular growths, molluscum fibrosum, or pachydermatocoele of the scalp.—Aneurysm by anastomosis.—Operative interference in growth of the cranial bones and dura mater	244
XIV. TREPHINING.—Operative interference immediate or later in fractures of the skull.—Trephining in fractured skull.—Trephining for pus between the skull and dura mater.—Trephining for middle meningeal hæmorrhage.—Trephining and exploration of cerebral abscess due to injury.—Trephining for epilepsy and other later results of a cranial injury.—Operative interference in the case of foreign bodies in the brain	259
XV. CEREBRAL LOCALISATION IN REFERENCE TO OPERATIONS.—Operations for tumour of the brain.—Practical value of cerebral localisation.—Questions arising before operation on a cerebral growth.—Operative procedures on the brain, chiefly for the removal or the palliative treatment of growths.—Craniectomy for microcephalus, idiocy, &c.—Trephining in general paralysis of the insane, and in other forms of insanity.—Operative treatment of hydrocephalus.—Drainage of the ventricles	289
XVI. OPERATIONS ON THE EAR.—The radical mastoid operation.—Abscess in the brain.—Meningitis.—Operation for otitis media	330
XVII. OPERATIONS ON THE FACE.—Operations on the fifth nerve.—Removal of parotid growths.—Operations on the facial nerve.—Stretching the facial nerve.—Operative treatment of intractable facial paralysis of peripheral origin.—Restoration of Steno's duct.—Operative treatment of lupus.—Operative treatment of rodent ulcer.—Removal of parotid growths.—Practical points in the removal of parotid growths.—Operative treatment of naevi.—Operative methods of treatment	363
XVIII. EXCISION OF THE EYEBALL	406
XIX. OPERATIONS ON THE FRONTAL SINUSES	410