I have it on good authority that the Dominion government will appeal to the country soon after the close of the present session. An excellent excuse for doing so will be found in the Redistribution bill now before parliament. The usual course, following a decennial census, is for the administration to bring down a redistribution bill at the next ensuing session, and then dissolve parliament, so that those districts which have gained in population may have the benefit of the increased representation to which they are entitled. It is in the interest of the government to follow the established practice, as the new bill, based on the census of 1901, gives largely increased representation to Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, while reducing the number of members from Outario and the Maritime Provinces; and it so happens that the weak points in the armor of the administration are just there latter provinces, while the West, like Quebec, at present stands solid for the government. The Redistribution bill is not, however, the only reason, or even the chief reason,

My most serious attac the last five years. My most serious attack was four years ago, when I was completely incapacitated. I had terrible pains across my back, floating specks before my eyes and was in almost constant torment. I could not sit or stand with ease and was a wreck in health, having no appetite and lost greatly in flesh. I had taken medicine from five different doctors and also numerous other preparations to no purpose. I finally began to take Doan's Kidney Pills and before I had taken five boxes the trouble left me and I now feel boxes the trouble left me and I now feel better than I have for twenty years. Last year the Premaers of all the profinces, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, met in conference at Quebec, and discussed the burning question of Federal subsidies. Under the Canadian constitution each province receives a fixed sum from the Dominion treasury as an annual subsidy to supplement the local revenue, and the provincial governments had come to the conclusion that, in view of the Jargely increased Dominion revenue, these subsidies should be increased. At Quebec they decided among themselves what the respective increases should be, and subsequently laid their claims before the Federal authorities, who firmly—and as is generally thought here, very properly—refused to increase the subsidies. The unreasonableness of the proincial demands has been proved since by the fact that every one of the provinces shows a substantial surplus in local reve-
