RUSSIAN DRIVE OUT OF TRENCHES JAPANESE STILL ADVANCE EIGHT

Heavy Clashing near Chituencheng in Which Little Fellows
Meet with Stubborn Resistance.

Chicago, May 2.—(A.M.) News special from Kobe, Japan, says: "DETAILS OF THE HEAVY FIGHTING IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF CHITUENCHENG, RECEIVED HERE THIS MORNING, SAY THAT THE RUSSIANS MADE A MOST STUBBORN RESISTANCE TO THE JAPANESE ADVANCE, BUT WERE DRIVEN SUCCESSFULLY OUT OF SEVEN LINES OF TRENCHES."

This undoubtedly refers to subsequent engagements following the routing of the Russians on Sunday. The Japanese are pressing their retreating forces and are prepared to make the most of the discomfiture brought upon the Russian troops by the victory following six days of hard fighting on the north bank of the Yalu River. The fact that the victory has been followed up by another reverse for the Russians was signal and significant.

WILL FOLLOW IT UP.

London, May 2.—The latest despatches received here confirming the completeness of the Japanese victory on the Yalu could hardly have given greater satisfaction in Tokyo than they have in London. The editorials in the morning papers ring with admiration at the success of Gen. Kuroki's strategy in a manner indicating that Great Britain had been in considerable doubt of the capacity of her ally's troops when matched against the Russians. The Japanese are following up their victory, it is believed, that they will speedily drive the Russians out of Manchuria also.

Few further details have yet been received, but it seems that the Imperial Guards fought with the greatest bravery and sustained the brunt of the fighting, losing heavily. Some accounts

GEN. BARON KUROKI,
The Japanese Army Commander in the Yalu River Country.

It is evident that the Japanese success is largely due to the superiority of their artillery, the Russian guns being too light.

The Japanese victory has caused complete surprise in the European capitals and is expected to lead to difficulty in Russia's efforts to raise a loan.

Flight at Gensan.

An unconfirmed report of severe fighting between 30,000 Russians and a similar number of Japanese at Gensan is sent by The Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent, who says the Japanese were compelled to retire into Gensan, both sides losing heavily. Two Russian officers are said to have been among the wounded.

The Standard's Tientsin correspondent, cabling under date of May 2, states that the Japanese are making a lengthy dispatch to General Ma, commanding the Chinese troops, informing him that the occasion may arise for Russia to increase her forces in Sinnung, Chienyang and other places, and requesting him to withdraw the Chinese military and police. An answer, the correspondent says, is required within three days.

As an indication of General Kuroki's anxiety regarding the whereabouts of Japan's second army, The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent says that all the Russian troops stationed in Chanchow, Fuchow, Hanchow and other places have been dispatched along the coast to watch for a Japanese landing.

China Will But In.

According to the Shinkwaikuan correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, evidence is accumulating that China's neutrality is tottering. The Tang generals in Kirin and Fungting, the correspondent says, are urging the Peking government to adopt a strong policy against Russian aggression west of the Liao River. It is alleged that Yunnanhai is secretly making war preparations, and everything in the opinion of the correspondent, points towards China making a regular demonstration against either the Japanese or the Russians.

A special despatch from Port Arthur says that about 100 Chinese junk boats were observed on the horizon yesterday between the mouth of the Yalu and the Liaotung peninsula.

MAY HAVE LOST 2000.

St. Petersburg, May 2.—(A.M.) The interest of the public in the news of the fighting on the Yalu is at fever heat, especially since the last official report, which announced the fighting at Chingow, was given out. To the general disappointment, no further telegrams from Gen. Kuroki have been published by the war commission, nor will the censor pass press despatches wired from the front.

The absence of news led to the circulation of rumors. For instance, it was reported that Gen. Sasulitch would be relieved of his command and court-martialed for making a too strenuous stand on the right bank of the Yalu. As a matter of fact, while the war commission has not yet announced that Sasulitch, a telegram from Gen. Kuroki in view of the preparations which the Japanese were making to cross the Yalu, had begun to reinforce his troops on the Manchurian bank.

Another report says that the war office has been informed that the Russian casualties numbered 2000. Should this be true, it can be accepted as a certainty that the Russian plan of operations never contemplated such a sacrifice.

RUSSIAN REPORT OF FIGHT
OPPOSED BY 100,000 JAPS

Plans Will Not Be Changed by the Accidental Losses in Sunday's Route.

St. Petersburg, May 2, 8 p.m.—The Associated Press has obtained from the general staff an outline of the operations on the Yalu River during the past week. The Russian force, including the reserves, was composed of General Kashtalinsky's rifle division, General Mishchenko's Cossack division, and a brigade of artillery, the whole under General Sasulitch. The Russian lines were at Kulien-cheng (or Turenchen), opposite Wiju and Antung, both on the Fengwang-cheng road. A mile north of Kulien-cheng lies the Village of Potentisk, near a tributary of the Litzavena, five miles up, which is Chingow. On the opposite bank of the tributary is the Village of Litzavena. Opposite Potentisk stands Housan, with a dominating height. Still higher, on the right of the Yalu, is the Village of Ambike, at the confluence of the Alpike.

Divided by Islands. The whole course of the Yalu between Ambike and Antung is divided by islands, the largest, Sominde, facing Kuliencheng. The Japanese forces, the staff believes, approximated a hundred thousand men, of which four divisions, thirteen battalions and 56 guns were in action. The Japanese prepared for crossing the river by postin gall their available guns (of which the Russians say that Japanese had five times more than they) along the line facing Kuliencheng and Antung, and also landed from their warships 47 guns. This array of artillery eventually made Kuliencheng untenable. Under cover of powerful batteries north of Sominde, the Japanese crossed to Housan, occupying the height. As the latter position would have enabled them to direct a raking fire against the Russians at Kuliencheng, General Sasulitch ordered it to be retaken Friday. This was done, but on Saturday the Japanese under cover of a battery, reoccupied it, the defenders falling back across the Litzavena and continuing the fight with the Japanese, who were attempting to flank them from Chingow.

Retreated to Second Line. The Russian force at Antung and Kuliencheng had meanwhile retreated to its second line, a few miles westward. The whole Russian force, which yesterday formed a semi-circle, the horns of which were being gradually drawn in, prepared to fight to a position further west. This was the situation when the last Russian official reports were sent.

A member of the staff informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the issue ultimately turned probably on Sunday with the order to withdraw was given at the proper time. A slight delay at a critical moment might have enabled the Japanese to surround the Russian guns, killing horses and gunners and compelling the abandonment of the guns. But, if so, the Russian plans will not be changed by accidental losses. General Sasulitch would continue his retreat, and the Russian advance along the Fengwang-cheng road, which runs thru a hilly country, covered with heights and exactly suited to Russian tactics.

STREET RAILWAY CO. HAD "SECRET SERVICE" FUND

Comptroller Smith Says Mr. Moore
Looked After It—Will Examine Vouchers to Day.

The civic investigation yesterday elicited the fact that the Toronto Railway Company carried what is known as a secret service fund. This information was given by the company's comptroller, Mr. Smith, who gave evidence at the afternoon sitting of the investigation before Judge Winchester.

Mr. Smith said the secret service fund was under the control of Mr. Moore. Mr. Keating, the manager of the company, signed the vouchers, and he (witness) paid them. Some of the vouchers might explain in what manner the money had been expended, and some might not. Mr. Moore did not furnish a detailed statement to him of how the money was spent, witness knew nothing about any expenditure for election purposes, and none of the vouchers in his possession showed any of the company's funds had been used to further the election of any candidate or candidate.

Mr. Riddell arranged with Mr. Smith to pay a visit to the offices of the company this afternoon and examine the vouchers and books. Mr. Moore is out of town. He has been wired that a subpoena has been issued for him and will probably be here to-day or tomorrow.

Aldermen and Controllers to-Day. This morning the council will examine the controllers and aldermen in reference to their election expenses. They will also be asked if they know of any improperities having taken place at the last election.

Ex-Ald. J. Harvey Hall was the first witness to face Mr. Riddell yesterday. He admitted having worked in Richardson's interest. He had received $40 from Richardson, with which he had paid for a dinner at the Gladstone House and paid them at the rate of $2. He had not received any money from the Toronto Railway Company.

Ald. Ramsden denied that he had received any money from the Toronto corporations had offered to pay his election expenses in 1903. He further denied that he had received a cash advance in the interests of the Toronto Railway Company or the Consumers' Gas Company. He handed in a detailed statement showing that his election expenses this year amounted to $85. This was for scrutineers, printing, and distributing cards.

A man named Cobb, who had been working as a scrutineer for Controller Hubbard, admitted bringing a wrong man to the polling booth. Mr. Riddell warned him to be more careful in the future.

William Burns' Expenses. Ex-Controller Burns said his non-election had cost him about $300, which was divided among printers and scrutineers. He promised that he would have a detailed statement ready this morning.

D. Campbell, who is still at Ottawa, in an effort to bring about intervention, expresses hope that the government will grant the request that the Grand Trunk show no disposition to deal with the employees and give their demands a fair consideration.

UNITED CHRISTIAN PARTY.

St. Louis, Mo., May 2.—The national convention of the United Christian Party to-day adopted a platform, entitled "In Jesus' Name," declaring that the purpose of the Christian Party is to work and stand for Christ in His name, and to do so in the name of God, the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, and to do so in the name of the people who are the people of God.

Roseland, B. C., May 2.—Mrs. Peter Clare, wife of a respected mining living off Nickel Plate Flat, was fatally shot by accident in her own home Sunday evening. One of the family, Michael P. Villeneuve, was experimenting with a Winchester repeating rifle, and a bullet went thru the door of Clare's house, striking Mrs. Clare in the right hip, penetrating the bone and lodging in the abdomen. An operation was performed this afternoon at the general hospital, but the patient is in a critical condition and is not likely to outlive the night. The fatal shot was fired by the family, who is prostrated over the accident.

A FALSE REPORT.

A Yarn That Is Rife in the City

Every day people are being told that others who profess to know that the well-known dairy firm of S. Price & Sons, Ltd., has been transferred to another company in the same business. Upon enquiry the firm state that the only change that has been made is the formation of a limited liability company amongst themselves. A jaunt to the provincial buildings revealed the fact that the charter was granted to five members of the family and to no one else whatever.

London, May 2.—The Glasgow Herald attacks the house of lords and Lords Marlborough and Muskerry particularly for their ignorance in the matter of the Scotia salvage case. If instead of the government departments the Anchor Line had been consulted, it would have been found that the Canadian government would have made handsome reparations months ago. It is unfair to the Canadian government that it should be allowed to lie under the imputation of dishonesty.

Philadelphia, May 2.—The Canadian Improvement Company, which is financing the reorganization of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, has granted an extension of its option, which would have expired to-morrow, in order that all the creditors of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company may have another opportunity to transfer their interests to the Canadian company. All the New York banks interested in the Speyer loan have consented to the extension, and the Philadelphia banks will do the same to-morrow. An attorney for the organization committee said to-night that the reorganization plan will be declared operative probably this week, and that those stockholders who have not yet paid their assessments under the new plan will be given two weeks to do so.

OUR MAN AWAY OUT WEST
AT LIMIT OF WHEAT BELT

Something of the Possibilities of the Territories, Famed in Song and Story.

FROM G. C. PORTER.

Regina, N.W.T., May 2.—(Staff Correspondence.)—This is the western limit of the great wheat belt. It is 350 miles from Winnipeg. Thruout its length and for 200 miles north and half the distance south stretches that section that has made the Dominion famous for the grain it supplies the world. Last year there were 1,015,570 acres cultivated in this vast tableland. From here came the 110,000,000 bushels of grain last year, valued at $55,000,000. In 1902 the product of these immense farms reached 100,000,000 bushels, with an aggregate value of $44,000,000. These figures convey a vague idea of the material Canada is adding annually to the sum of this is growth north of the 50th parallel, a portion of the earth long declared by scientific minds to be worthless for the production of human food. And yet the grain-growing resources of the west have scarcely been touched. The fringe has merely been raked over. This is the territory famed in song and story as the "granary of the empire." But the great west has a surplus of other things besides wheat and figures of speech. The exploitation of Canada's wheat lands is the best known feature of the western development, but 'tis written that man shall not live by bread alone.

From Regina, where the wheat grows thick and disappears, to Calgary, is 500 miles. The subsoil undergoes a change and wild grass is abundant. This rolling country, 500 miles square, extending to the foothills of the Rockies, is the live stock region of British America. This is the region that is destined to supply the empire with the red beef it consumes, with its cavalry and its draft horses, to say nothing of mutton and wool. The extent of the progress in this direction has been partially overshadowed by the tremendous grain production further east, but conditions are approaching that will force orators to coin a new phrase to fully describe this new contribution to British foodstuffs.

If Ontario manufacturers are interested in the great problem of reducing the northwest grain supply to flour, the farmers and stock growers of the province are equally interested in supplying breeding animals here. This is an aspect of the west's development that appeals instantly to the casual observer—the close connection between the two extremes of the Dominion. Toronto is 2000 miles away, a week's journey by express train, and yet the interests of Ontario and her metropolis are so closely identified with the progress of this section that thousands of telegrams pass daily in business transactions. Probably more direct is the interest of the rural districts of the two in the live stock industry, for a delayed express brought in 25 traveling men to Regina Tuesday morning, representing the manufacturers of Ontario.

Live Stock Interchange.

While the wheat of the west is rushed thru to seaports as fast as transportation permits, there is a curious exchange in the live stock relations of the west and the east. Those ranchers must bring their young stock and their blooded breeding animals from Ontario. This is the season when many trainloads of yearlings are purchased from the farmers and dairymen from that part of Canada, are being brought back these ranchers to back their good quality markets for $15 around Newmarket commands $21 to $250 when

CONDENSED THE GOVERNMENT.

St. Thomas, May 2.—The beekeepers of Elgin have passed a resolution putting themselves on record as condemning the policy of the Ontario government in bonusing the sugar beet industry to the detriment of the honey industry, which produces a food much superior to sugar, to say nothing of the value of the bees to the fruit growers as fertilizers of blossoms.

Spring Derby Hags.

There's a great range of style in the spring Derbys this year. Probably the most original in brown felt have received the largest call. The general health of the Derby is good, and there is a full line, have appeared to back their good quality. Prices range from $2.50 to $5.
