Robert Murdock, the veteran, is now lying in Port Arthur Hospital, wound-ed, with a charge of shooting to kill ugainst him, and his victim. George Besant, is in the Marine Hospital, and may lose his right arm. It appears that Besant went to Mur-dock's cabin to ask him to drive a horse next day, and was greeted with a shot from a Winchester rifle. An-other shot followed which shattered his arm. In running for shelter he was pursued by Murdock, who con-tinued firing. Herman Yoke, the elev-en-year-old son of a neighbor, snatch-ed the gun from Murdock. He then returned to his cabin, but reappeared about four o'clock the next morning and began firing again. Later he went to the railway station, and after wait-ing awhile, placed the butt of the gun on the platform, pulled the trigger with his toe, and received a builet in the head. He fell unconscious, the ball grazing the brain. He was tak-en in hand by Constable Symons and Dr. Pratt, Port Arthur, who hurried him to the hospital, using a hand car for the last 21 miles, which was cover-ed in one hour and fifty-five minutes. remote from Port Arthur, with a fur
