BATTALIONS LEAVE EQUIPMENT BEHIND

Motor Trucks and Field Kitchens Of No Use

Officers Confronted With Circulars Received by Men on Farms Telling Them They Are Needed There—'What Can We Do?'

(Toronto Globe.)
The departure of the 198th Battalion from Toronto reveals again the peculiar methods of the government in throwing upon the unit itself expense that should be borne by Ottawa. No battalion in Canada is supplied with either auto trucks or field kitchens. The reason is that they are not allowed to take them to England as regimental horse transport and the A. S. C. look after all haulage of material overseas. Nevertheless in Canada, for the proper training of a battalion, auto trucks are almost indispensable, and as the government does not supply them the battalion has to get them at its own cost. When the battalion moves away, the trucks are left behind, and probably disposed of at very low figures. It follows that generous friends and officers willing to go into their pockets are called upon to stand an expense which should rightly fall on the government.

Tell Boys to Stay on Farms.

Recruiting officials who work in rural communities must have come to the conclusion that the Departments of Agriculture at Ottawa and Toronto do not stir up any enthusiasm among the farming class for them to become soldiers. "We go out among the farmers and try to get men," said one officer who has had experience, to The Globe yesterday, "and when we ask what we think is an eligible young man to sign up, he pulls out a circular sent to him by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa or Toronto, which urges him to stay on the farm and produce more. He hands this to us, and tells us that he is doing as much as a fighting man, and probably more. We run against that sort of thing everywhere, and what can we do? Yet men are needed in the army, and there are still eligible men in rural communities who could be spared, but when the government tells them to stay on the farm, of course they stay."

RECENT DEATHS

Cyrus Black McCready.

Apothecary, March 2—At an early hour this morning, the death of Cyrus Black McCready occurred at his home here. He was born in Penobscot in April, 1846, and was therefore in his sixty-ninth year. He was a son of the late Caleb and Louisa McCready, his mother being formerly Miss Louisa Freese. He was of Loyalist descent, his grandfather having been one of the United Empire Loyalists who settled in Kings county and established the well-known and honored McCready family. Mr. McCready has been a resident of Kings county through his entire life, and was formerly a successful farmer of Lower Millstream, until the later years, when he moved to this village, since then leading a comparatively retired life, though still having interests as a milk dealer.

Last autumn, he and his wife, moved into their residence, which had just been completed in Church street, and were preparing to enjoy the evening of life in comparative ease.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, Alfred H. McCready, Sackville, editor of the Sackville Post; Beverly, a druggist of Haynes City, Florida; Roy H. McCready, Bangor, an official of the Bangor and Aroostook Railway; Harry L. of Boston, who represents the Singer Sewing Machine Co. and who was about to leave on a business trip to Japan, but hearing of his father's illness, fortunately arrived home on Wednesday night, and with R. H. McCready was at his father's bedside at the last. One sister, Mrs. J. Wallace Taylor, of Salisbury, and three brothers, Samuel F. McCready, Vancouver; Ford McCready, Sackville, and Elias McCready, Penobscot, also survive, besides a number of nephews.

The funeral took place at his late residence at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. L. H. Jewett officiating. There was a service at the home and interment took place in the Berwick cemetery. The burial service of the Independent Order of Foresters was read at the graveside, and the pall bearers were brother foresters.

James Kerr.

The death of James Kerr occurred at his home, East Pembroke (Mass.), March 2, after an illness of several weeks. He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1838. In 1880 Mr. and Mrs. Kerr with their children came from Scotland to New Brunswick. They purchased a farm at Mount Middleton, Kings county, where they resided for many years. Later Mr. Kerr was well known in St. John as manager of the Sussex Milk Co., which position he held for a long period. Six years ago he and his wife removed to Massachusetts, where their daughters reside.

Mrs. Kerr died one year ago. Four children survive—Miss Mary Kerr, at home; Mrs. Augustus Turner, North Pembroke (Mass.); Miss Janet Kerr, Boston (Mass.); and William Kerr, of Hartland (N. B.). Mr. Kerr was a member of the Presbyterian church, and a man of sterling principles. Many friends in St. John and in Kings county will regret to hear of his death.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN NOVA SCOTIA

The following resolutions have been sent by the Halifax Women's Council to Premier Murray, and every member of the legislature now in session:

"Resolved—That the Local Council of Women of Halifax is of the opinion that the right of suffrage should be extended to all women in this province, under the same conditions as those now required for the exercise of the right to vote at provincial elections by men; and further:

"Resolved—That the Local Council of Women of Halifax respectfully urges upon the provincial legislature now in session in this city, the duty and propriety of extending to the women of this province the same recognition of their right to full citizenship and service as has been already accorded to the women of Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and is in contemplation for the women of Ontario, viz.:

"The extension of the parliamentary franchise to all duly qualified adults, without regard to sex."

A vigorous effort is being made to get a woman suffrage bill adopted by the Nova Scotia legislature at the present session.

DEATHS OF MOTHERS.

More women fifteen to forty-five years of age die in the United States from conditions incident to maternity than from any other cause except tuberculosis. And since 1900, while the death rates from tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria and certain other preventable diseases have been greatly reduced, the available figures for the death rates from conditions incident to maternity show no decrease in the proportion of mothers whose lives are sacrificed yearly to ignorance and improper care in child-birth.

These facts and their causes, with a detailed study of maternal death rates in the United States and foreign countries, are set forth in a bulletin on Maternal Mortality by Dr. Grace L. Meigs, which has just been issued by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Dr. Meigs emphasizes the inseparable connection between the life and health of the mother and the life and health of her baby. She points out that the 15,000 maternal deaths which occur annually in the United States are largely preventable; that these 15,000 deaths are merely a rough index of unmeasured preventable illness among mothers; and that the protection of mothers is essential to the saving of babies' lives.
