ALLIARDS

Would Pay $200 for Cue.
Ralph Greenleaf, the world's professional pocket billiard champion, has lost a cue. Returning after playing an exhibition match at the Lawer Brothers Academy in Brooklyn recently he became separated from his stick and doesn't know just where. Although it is worth only about $15 he has offered a reward of $200 for its return.

The young champion priced his cue almost as much as he does his title. It was the cue that he has used ever since he was nine years old. When he first began to show ability as a player his father presented him with the cue, so that might be said that Greenleaf practically learned to play with it. In making an announcement Greenleaf called attention to the fact that his name is inscribed on a plate on the butt of the cue.

Mahoney of the Riverside Golf & Country Club were entertained at a golf links in Galt, Ont., last Saturday. Mr. Mahoney put up two games of thirty seven.

BASKETBALL

High School Practice.
The high school basketball team had their first practice last evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The team will be backed up this year by the High Y club in the Y. M. C. A., owing to its being a purely high school organization, the High School Athletic Club has felt called upon to support it.

JWELING

Amherst to Meet All Corners.
(Amherst Echo.)
It is the intention of the management to arrange a series of inter-town and y matches as the season gets under way. His town can boast of some pretty able wiers, and we have a hunch that they'll be able to make the other towns do me tall rolling to beat them. The at big match will be between St. John d Halifax in Amherst around November 15.

Wellington League.
In the Wellington League last evening the Troadero Club and the Cora Company's team each won two nts. The former's pinfall was 1228 ad the latter's 1296.

Y. M. C. I. League.
In the Y. M. C. I. house league last evening the Sparrows took three points on the Swans. The winners had 1288 r a total pinfall and the losers 1269.

(Halifax Echo.)
The friendly meeting, or rather quiet ik, between representatives of local hletic bodies and the Nova Scotia embers of the M. P. B. A. A. U., which ok place at the Y. M. C. A. Monday ternoon did not develop anything new the way of solving the formation of provincial hockey league with the ex- tion of the generous offer of Messrs. orton & Thompson to donate a large oply to be competed for and to be com- enable of the amateur championship of re province.

A. W. Cover, in opening the meeting, aded that the M. P. B. A. A. U. had een steadily growing until at the pres- ent moment it had on its books over 2- 0 registered amateur athletes. SCOUT COUNCIL HOLDS SESSION

Important Matters Gone Into at Meeting Last Night—Distinguished Visitors.

The fall meeting of the New Brunswick council of the Boy Scouts Association, held last evening in their offices, Prince William street, with A. C. Skelton, provincial commissioner, in the chair, was honored by the presence of John A. Stiles of Ottawa, assistant chief commissioner for Canada, and G. Ross Marshall, provincial president of the Nova Scotia council, John H. Tolson, Frederickton, P. S. Watson, district commissioner, Devon; F. Hargreaves, assistant commissioner, Sussex, and C. T. Wetmore, scout master, Rothesay, were outside members of the council present.

A committee was appointed to consider to what extent the work should be developed next year and to take what action was thought necessary and report to the annual meeting in January. The Dominion government is anxious to preserve the location of historical sites and it was decided last night that the boy scouts should co-operate in this matter. Time put in on this work will count on time served for their community service badges.

The budget for next year was discussed. For the purpose of spreading health propaganda and other work of like nature it was decided that the Boy Scouts should offer their services to the N. B. health department. It was one of the best meetings ever held by the provincial council.

A PICKER BY TRADE

Whenever the hop-picking season comes round we are reminded of the convict that Capt. Spencer, senior prison missionary of the Church Army, once visited in his cell. "Well, my man," said the captain, "and what do you do when you are out of prison?" "Well," said the convict in a philosophical manner, "in Spring I pick pees, in Summer I pick fruit, in Autumn I pick hops, in Winter I pick pockets."

"And what happens then?" asked the missionary. "Then," continued the convict, "I come in here and pick oakum."

openly known as professionals were outside the jurisdiction of the association.

He explained that there was no such thing as an athlete being listed as an independent. He was either out and out professional or amateur. The meeting was of a strictly informal nature and had representatives present from the Imperial Amateur Athletic Association, Dalhousie and Crescents as well as the M. P. B. A. U. members.

The meeting did not take any definite steps in the hockey matter as it was thought this was entirely the province of those who would form the league. It was, however, suggested that whatever constitution laid down by the hockeyists should embody a residence clause calling members of teams to be bona fide residents of the place for which they played for a period of at least thirty days prior to the opening of the hockey season. The M. P. B. A. U. took some further evidence on the case of a local suspension which they will deal with later.

ALFREDO DE ORO TO TRY COMEBACK

Was Former Three-Cushion and Pocket Billiard Champion and was Titled "Old Master."

The announcement that Alfredo de Oro intends to come out of retirement and play in the national three-cushion billiard tournament at Chicago next month will be welcome news to the followers of the sport everywhere, says the New York Times. For a span of a great many years, until he quit public competition a little more than a year and a half ago, de Oro was one of the most brilliant lights in the cue constellation. His expertness at the angle game and at pocket billiards earned for him the sobriquet of "Old Master."

Once he held both the three-cushion and the pocket billiard championships at the same time. At various other periods during his career he held one or the other of the titles. A year ago last spring he announced his retirement from public competition. His decision was reached after Robert Cannell had beaten him in a three-cushion championship match in this city. Since that time the veteran Cuban has steadfastly refrained from playing in anything but private matches. These were played purely for the love of the sport. This season, however, the lure of the green cloth was too strong to be longer resisted. De Oro began practicing, and when he found that his strokes were just as good as ever he determined to launch an offensive by which he hopes again to attain the billiard heights. Before going west it is probable that de Oro will give himself a formal workout in public. At this writing he is seriously considering playing a 300-point match in New York against Ralph Greenleaf, the world's pocket billiard champion. Until this was learned it was not generally known that Greenleaf was a three-cushion player—that is, it was not known that he took the game seriously. It was thought that he played it just as Willie Hoppe, the billiard king, has played it, purely for amusement. It has developed, however, that Greenleaf is quite adept at the angle game. In this way, then, this exhibition will serve a two-fold purpose. In the first place it will show whether de Oro still maintains the mastery of the ivories that was once his, and it will show Greenleaf in an entirely new role. Perhaps Greenleaf entertains ideas of some day holding both titles as de Oro once did. The match should serve to establish the pocket billiard champion's status as a career player.

David McAndless, the former national amateur ball-line billiard champion, has left for San Francisco to engage in the preliminary round of the national championship tournament there. The players who finish first in this event will qualify to play Willie Hoppe in the city for the title. McAndless turned professional two weeks ago. He is the third former amateur champion to go in quest of the professional title in recent years. His predecessors were Calvin Demarest and Joseph Mayer. Neither of them succeeded. McAndless will have to show greatly improved form over what he displayed in his recent amateur matches in this city if he is to earn the right to play against Hoppe.

GROW GLASS FLOWERS.

Perhaps, before very long, instead of bouquets of flowers being presented to our famous ladies upon occasions of ceremony, it will become the custom to present bouquets of glass.

Glass flowers for table decoration are becoming more and more popular, for, while the necessary brilliancy of coloring can be embodied in these glass flowers, they do not fade as do real flowers, and therefore do not need renewing, unless a breakage occurs. An extension to the use of glass bouquets is only a step.

Not only is glass extending its use from the decorative point of view, but it is also finding wider scope. The very latest use to which glass has been put is in the manufacture of baths of colored glass, which will harmonize with the scheme of decoration favored in the bathroom.
