LEND TO THE NATION.

"The world is watching us. The question is being asked: What of Canada? Is her spirit as high, her resolution as indomitable, her will to win as steadfast as in the days—now, please God, past forever—when disappointment, agony and bitterness of hope deferred were her almost daily lot? Remember, your particular Victory Loan subscription of a hundred, a thousand or a hundred thousand dollars will hasten peace by some fraction of time—veritable, however brief."

In this striking way Winnipeg Finance puts the case. It also quotes President Wilson, who said of the American Liberty Loan:

"Recent events have enhanced, not lessened, the importance of this loan. The best thing that could happen would be that the loan should not only be fully subscribed, but very greatly over-subscribed."

That loan was over-subscribed by a very large amount. It is up to Canada to do as much with the Victory Loan.

St. John made a splendid beginning yesterday. Whether it be much or little, every citizen who can do so should have a share in the great national task. To quote again from Canadian Finance:

"Having put her hand to the plow Canada at home will not now turn back—any more than Canada's sons abroad will stay their efforts till complete victory is won. As the finance minister reminds us, a nation at war must make tremendous expenditures in cash to keep up her armies and supply them with munitions, food and clothing."

Canada must finance many millions of dollars of export trade in food, munitions and supplies which Britain and our Allies must have on credit. For these purposes Canada must borrow hundreds of millions of dollars. And this money must be borrowed from the people of Canada.

It cannot be too frequently iterated that the national safety, the national honor and the national well-being require that each and every Canadian shall do his duty by lending to the nation every cent he can spare for this purpose.

The fact that there are at least a hundred families in this city today, not all of them poor, but all alike in need of either constant nurses or daily visits from women with some knowledge of nursing; and that none of them have yet received the needed assistance, cannot but impress the women who are well and free to render aid with a sense of their duty and responsibility. A great deal depends upon what is done immediately. The epidemic is at its height. Now is the time to check its ravages, and the task lies at the door of those who are well.

The offer made yesterday on behalf of a number of returned soldiers, who have seen the inside of more than one hospital, and who are willing to do what they can to assist, is greatly to their credit.

Very pathetic stories of illness and bereavement come from many parts of the province, and from some parts of this city as well. The earnest women who met in conference yesterday realize the seriousness of the situation, and it cannot be doubted that good results will follow.

Canada will give the Kaiser another job with the Victory Loan. He wanted Canada for one of his princelings. He wanted its boundless resources to exploit for the benefit of Germany. If he could win, of what value would be the wealth or the opportunity of any Canadian?

THE EPIDEMIC.

The emergency meeting of women called by Hon. Dr. Roberts yesterday in the Veterans' Hall had a very practical outcome that should aid very materially in meeting the critical situation that exists all over the province as a result of the influenza epidemic. The Red Cross branches and the Women's Institutes cover the province fairly well. They are already organized and can act at once. There must be, as Dr. Roberts pointed out, people in every community who are well, and who could give aid to those who are ill. It is a question of organization, of having some one at the head in each locality to whom a doctor could appeal with some hope of getting the required assistance. It is not a question of getting a trained nurse, for that is in the majority of cases impossible, but of getting somebody with a little knowledge of nursing who is not afraid to lend a hand. There must be many such persons who will respond when the need is presented through the agency of the Red Cross and the Women's Institutes.

And there is no time to lose. As Dr. Roberts pointed out, what is done within the next forty-eight or seventy-two hours may have a notable effect in checking the spread of the disease. He put the case admirably. Our neighbors are sick and dying, and we should not be open to the reproach expressed in the phrase "naughty, inhumanity to man."

When the people in each county and locality get to work with their own organization they can do a great and needed work, and relieve the pressure on this city, to which come so many appeals for help that can ill be spared.

The fact that there are at least a hundred families in this city today, not all of them poor, but all alike in need of either constant nurses or daily visits from women with some knowledge of nursing; and that none of them have yet received the needed assistance, cannot but impress the women who are well and free to render aid with a sense of their duty and responsibility. ### THE BELFRY OF BRUGES.

In the market place of Bruges stands the belfry old and brown. Thrice consumed and thrice rebuilder still it watched o'er the town.

Thick with towns and hamlets studded, and with streams and vapours grey, Like a shield embossed with silver, round and vast the landscape lay.

From their nests beneath the rafters sang the swallows wild and high; And the world, beneath me sleeping, seemed more distant than the sky.

Then most musical and solemn, bringing back the olden times, With their strange, unearthly changes, rang the melancholy chiming.

Like the psalms from some old cloister, when the sun shone in the choir, And the great bell tolled among them like the chiming of a friar.

Visions of the day departed, shadowy phantoms filled my brain; They who lived in history only seemed to walk the earth again.

All the Foresters of Flanders—mighty Baldwin Bras de Fer, Lyderick du Buc de Fer, Lyderick du Buc de Fer, Lyderick du Buc de Fer.

I beheld the peasants splendid that adorned those days of old; Stately dames, like queens attended, knights who bore the fleece of gold.

Lombard and Venetian merchants with deep-laden argosies; Ministers from twenty nations; more than royal pomp and ease.

I beheld the Flemish weavers, with Marching homeward from the bloody battle of the Spurs of Gold.

Saw the fight at Minnewater, saw the White Hoods moving west, Saw great Arvedale victorious scale the Golden Dragon's nest.

And again the whistled Spangard all the land with terror smote; And again the loud skurum sounded from the tocsin's throat.

Till the bell of Ghent responded o'er the land and dyke of sand, "I am Roland! I am Roland! there is victory in the land."

This poem written many years ago by Longfellow, has a wonderful significance at the present time.

Great Headwork.

A Yorkshire farmer who had been on a jury quite a number of times was asked who influenced him most, the lawyers, the witnesses, or the judge. This was his reply—"I'll tell you, sir, 'ow I makes up my mind. I'm a plain man, and a resolute man, and I'm influenced by anything the lawyers say, nor by what the witnesses say; no, nor by what the judge says. I just looks at the man in the dock and I says, 'if he ain't done nothin', why's he there?' and I brings 'em all in guilty."
