RECENT DEATHS

At the age of 78 years, Andrew Stephenson, formerly caretaker in the Church of England burying ground, died early this morning, after a lingering illness. He died at his residence, 92 St. Patrick street, where he had been confined to his bed for a very long time. He leaves three daughters to mourn—Misses Jennie and Frances and Mrs. McEwain, all of this city.

George Ryan died at his home in Redbank on January 27. He leaves his wife and two children.

The death of L. M. Wood formerly of Albert county, occurred recently in Shanghai, China. Mr. Wood was trade commissioner for the United States in China. In his younger days he conducted a weekly newspaper in Albert, the paper being known as the Maple Leaf. He went west about twenty years ago and engaged in literary work in Seattle. Mr. Wood was fifty-six years of age and leaves his wife and one daughter, Mrs. William R. Vaunders, of Seattle.

Alexander Munro, proprietor of the Brunswick House in Woodstock, died suddenly yesterday morning. He is survived by his wife and three sons.

Walter Percy died at his home, Tweedside, York county, on January 24. He was eighty-seven years of age and leaves six sons and three daughters.

GOETHALS NOT TO BE NEW YORK POLICE COMMISSIONER

Washington, Jan. 29.—Secretary of War Garrison announced today that Col. George W. Goethals had signified his intention of accepting the governorship of the Panama Canal zone to be conferred him by President Wilson. Mr. Garrison intimated that Colonel Goethals' acceptance was unqualified.

THE PORT OF ST. CROIX.

Beacon.—The St. Croix port scheme is moving forward. The progress may seem a little slow to some, but the accumulation of material is going on, the people of the locality are becoming more and more impressed with the importance of the project, and before long the combined boards of trade will be able to inaugurate an educational plan of campaign for the rest of Canada that ought to be productive of the best results.

New Island Shoots Up

Tokio, Jan. 29.—A new volcanic island five miles in circumference and 1000 feet in height has appeared three miles east by south of Tokajima Island, one of the Bonin group. Feil one per cent.

How to Buy City Real Estate, or How to Find Purchasers

Somebody Wants to Locate in Every Part of This City

City realty is the bed-rock of financial worth. It is an investment that presents liberal returns and steady appreciation in value. Owing to business demands, removals, deaths, settlements of estates and many other causes, there are always rare bargains to be picked up for cash or on terms. Many owners who are considering offers now would listen to your proposition if you were on hand.

Why not reach all those who have offers on the same day? Our Little Want Ads will reach the people you want to reach.

Also these columns open the way for quick sales to owners. It makes no difference what class of property you wish to buy or sell. There is always somebody waiting to talk business to you. It will cost you but a few pennies and will enable you to deal direct with principals, if you—

The Best Quality at a Reasonable Price

What Is Your Occupation?

There are many occupations where the eyes are used constantly for close work. With proper lighting and the eyes in good condition, a large amount of this kind of work may be done without injury to the eyes.

But if there is any eyestrain to begin with, such work aggravates it, in many cases, very rapidly. The result is often apparent in the worker's loss of efficiency. He works more slowly and his work is not up to standard in quality. Worse than this, working under such conditions for any length of time may injure the eyes permanently.

Relief from eye-strain, ease and comfort for your work, and security from permanent injury to your eyes are what our perfectly fitted glasses secure to you.

LADY ASHBURNHAM AT AN EARLY COURT

Formerly Miss Anderson Of Fredericton

LONDON SOCIETY NEWS

Tribute to Sir Frederick Williams Taylor—Lord Dufferin May Be Next Ambassador to Paris—News of Canadians

(Times Special Correspondence.)

London, Jan. 17.—The Lord Chamberlain's announcement that the court lists are already filled up for the whole of the season comes somewhat sooner than usual this year, showing that the number of applications for a summons, far from diminishing, is on the increase. Many more claims are to be presented if all those who desire to be presented to Their Majesties, attend.

Among the pretenses to be presented as a result of their husbands' accession to the family honors, is a Canadian Lady Ashburnham, formerly Miss Anderson, of Fredericton, N. B., who with her husband, the new Earl of Ashburnham, came to England last year. Lady Ashburnham, daughter of the late Lord Petre, whose claim to the peerage title only was established last year after being dormant for sixty years, is, too young to be presented at court for some years. Andrew, Baroness Petre, who successfully advocated the claims of her little girl, is a daughter of Professor W. R. Clark of Toronto. She married the fourteenth baron and since his death, six years ago, has lived a quiet life in Essex. It is understood, probably in connection with Lady Ashburnham's marriage, that she may visit Canada during the year.

The Princess of Cochin Behar is also, I am told, to pay a visit to Canada this summer. She married the son of Sir Charles and Lady Mander, and in that way has close associations with Canada. Every Mander claim to the peerage title, a former M. P. for Halifax, N. S. She is frequently the hostess of Canadian friends who visit this country. Lady Mander possesses some beautiful diamonds which were presented to her by the citizens of Wolverhampton when her husband relinquished the peerage. She is an extensive traveler and exceedingly well read. The Mahabharat of Cochin Behar is a very remarkable figure, and has done much to advance the cause of India, particularly in the matter of education. Her husband was an intimate friend of King Edward and a great sportsman. He was succeeded by his eldest son, who died a few months ago, and the second son is now ruler and married to Princess Indira of India.

Tribute to Sir Frederick Williams Taylor

A remarkable tribute was paid to Sir Frederick Williams Taylor at a farewell dinner at the Savoy Hotel organized by J. G. Collier, C. M. G., and the managers of the Canadian banks in London. Every British bank of note, including the Bank of England, was represented, as well as the most prominent British and international houses in London. Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, with his daughter, Miss Brenda, will sail on the Olympic next week.

On the same steamer, Hon. Adam Beck of the Ontario cabinet will return home. The few months he has passed in his country home in Derbyshire have been largely spent in the hunting field. He has attended almost every meet of the Meynell Hunt and his health has been benefited by the change of air.

The departure of Sir Frederick Williams Taylor reminds us of the prominent position occupied by Canadians in the every sphere of activity in this country. Whether it be in the house of parliament, at the bar, in the city, or in medicine and surgery, we find Canadians distinguishing themselves in Harley street there are as many as five sons of the dominion acknowledged specialists in the various branches of their profession. One of the oldest churches in London and one of the few which escaped the Great Fire, is that of St. Andrew's Undershaft in charge of the Canadian, Rev. Dr. W. W. Perin, formerly Bishop of Columbia and now Bishop of Willsden. Canadian visitors to London will find a visit to this ancient church of considerable interest. The name is derived from the custom of having the old English Maypole erected outside the doors of the church.

Two Lady Ashburnhams? The Dufferins to Paris?

King George and Queen Mary are anxious to make their state visit to Paris while Sir Francis Bertie and his wife are still at the British embassy. It is known that the English ambassador, who is by no means young, wishes to retire. Directly the royal visit is over he and Bertie will be glad to be out of public life. She is an aristocrat to her finger-tips and has always been careful in admitting comparative strangers to her visiting list. Some years ago two women who were seen at the Moulin Rouge were subsequently cut out of Bertie's visiting list though it appears to this day they do not know why.

It seems they were curious to see everything in Paris and induced some of their male friends to accompany them to the music hall. The performance happened just then to be a particularly objectionable one and one of the secretaries of the embassy who was present caught sight of the two adventurous ladies and told Lady Bertie, who has always been a bit of a martinet in matters of that kind. These women still reside in Paris and will not be sorry when the Bertie say good-bye to the gay city. When a new ambassador comes they will be re-admitted for they are quite in the odor of Christian sanctity though not in diplomatic.

Lord and Lady Dufferin are mentioned as possible successors to the Berties. They would have a great welcome. The older people remember well the late Lord Dufferin and his sons, one of whom is the present peer. They are all favorites in Paris, where Lady Dufferin is also a very familiar figure. The marchioness told the writer recently

LONDON BOHEMIAN HOME HAS BEEN FADING AWAY

(Times Special Correspondence.)
London, Jan. 17.—"Rule" has fallen on evil days. Like many other famous homes of bohemianism in London it has found it impossible to thrive in the changed conditions. Although the outgoing proprietor blames "iniquitous legislation" there is no doubt that the glory of the old place, which in its day sheltered Thackeray, Voltaire, Wilkie Collins and Dickens as well as most of the great figures of the stage, has departed, and with it the profitable trade that follows in the wake of celebrities.

"Rule" was the celebrated "Oysteriana" of Thackeray and probably is the best known oyster restaurant in the world. Here came Voltaire and among the men who frequented it in its heyday were famous sporting dukes and lesser fry of the British nobility. Around its familiar walls hang a wonderful collection of playbills, mementoes of the time when Charles Mathews, Charles Kean, John Philip Kemble and others passed in and out of its swinging doors. In those days the Strand was the centre of theatrical London, but for upwards of a generation now there has been a steady movement in a north-westerly direction and Maiden Lane, wherein "Rule" is situated, can now boast of only the stage door of the Adelphi and the offices of a few of the music-hall agents.

that nothing would please her better than to live in Paris again.

Of Age This Year

One of the young men who is very much in the public eye just now is Lord Titchfield, the heir to the Duke of Portland, because of the fact that his majority will be reached this year and because of his friendship with the Prince of Wales. He has the genial manners of the Cavendish-Bentleys, and lately he has been dancing a good deal at country houses with Lord Curzon's debutante daughter, the Hon. Mary, who, if not as beautiful as her late mother, is as witty as her father.

She does not see eye to eye with her father, but for all that they are most devoted to each other. She recently gave Lord Titchfield a long lecture on what a landlady should be. She says she intends to keep all her money in her own hands "if" she marries and she has great schemes for the "lifting" of the masses. She and her sisters have been begging the father to take them to Switzerland for the sports and it transpires that Lord Titchfield and the prince were also anxious to be in the same quarter if only their respective parents were willing. But they were not.

The Hon. Mary is to wear her mother's bridal veil to decorate her court train at her coming out. It is of historic lace and was once in the collection of Queen Marie Antoinette. The gown however, will be simplicity itself in pure white satin with an inner drapery of palest green silk which the French are so fond of using when they want to produce a certain tone of white becoming to very young girls. I am told she is to wear several of her late mother's jewels, notably her pearl necklace, which she received as a gift from the late Lord Curzon and her mother's death and it was only this week that the pearls were removed to adorn her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Allan have returned from Switzerland. The Archbishop and Mrs. Hohen of Calgary have arrived to spend a few weeks in Cornwall. Mr. Johnson of Ottawa is staying with friends in Barsbury.

G. P. O'Halloran, deputy minister of agriculture, Ottawa, and Mrs. O'Halloran are staying in London. They will leave soon for the continent.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Parsons of Saskatchewan have left for the south of France. Mackay Edgar of Montreal has been entertaining several guests at Redensham Hall, Suffolk, for shooting. He is well known in sporting circles as the winner of the international motor boat trophy in London from Paris. Miss McLennan has recently acquired an estate in Wales.

John McLennan and Miss Katherine McLennan of Vancouver, have arrived in London from Paris. Miss McLennan will study in the College of Art here.

Hector J. Lelievre of Montreal has returned from Paris and sails for home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnston of Ottawa and Miss Johnston are in London after a short stay in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Moody of Vancouver are staying at the Savoy Hotel.

After consulting with prominent London bankers last summer, Judge Laumont and Attorney-General Turgeon of Saskatchewan (the latter a New Brunswicker), interviewed John Burns, president of the British Local Government Board, the permanent official of that department fully informed them of the system of the department and the powers which it exercised over the borrowing and finances of English municipalities. The passing of the legislation is interesting as illustrating how advice by people on this side may bring about improvements. It is nearly two years since I recorded the opinion of a London banker that a measure of this nature would be beneficial, and since that time the advice has been repeated in many quarters. The opinion is expressed that the other provinces will find it advantageous to introduce legislation of a similar nature.

The various opinions that the measure does not go far enough were summarized by a Canadian banker who said that, though the measure was welcomed by those who are concerned in placing Canadian municipal issues on the London market, as a considerable step forward, which it was hoped the other provinces would adopt, it did not fully satisfy the desires of those who wished to prevent the overlapping of issues made upon an unsympathetic basis at inconvenient times.

"The text of the measure is not yet available," he said, "so far as I can understand the summarized reports which have reached us, it does not touch some important points. One of the great obstacles to the successful flotation of municipal issues is the irregular periods of issues, and the varying terms upon which they are offered to the London market. If all the municipalities gave to the board of control notice of their requirements during the year and the terms and time of issue were dictated by that board, it would prevent issues from towns and cities in the province following each other too quickly, and be a guarantee that the flotations were made upon a well thought out basis."

Saskatchewan Local Government Board. Welcomed in England

London, Jan. 14.—News of the legislation placed by the Saskatchewan Government for the creation of a local government board has been well received here, but in the opinion of many it does not go far enough.
