An extraordinary offering of

Ladies' Fancy Neckwear

We have been fortunate in securing about one hundred dozen of the daintiest of neckwear at less than half the usual price. A manufacturer that has gone out of business was anxious to clear the lot and we were the lucky purchasers. You can get an idea of the wonderful value from those shown in our window.

FIFTEEN CENTS for your choice of Collars, many of which are worth 50 cents, and from that down to 25 cents.

Also a large lot of Colored Collars on sale at 25 cents. They are worth from 50 to 75 cents. You can get these in any color, including black and white and a vast variety of styles.

We are also showing a big range of Sleeve and Collar Lace Frilling, at 15 cents a yard, some of which is worth as high as 35 cents.

Some wider width of Fine Shadow Lace Frilling at 30 cents a yard, worth 60 cents.

THEIR BABY DEAD
Many friends will feel deeply for Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gunter, in the loss of their infant son, Frederick W., who died today. Burial took place this afternoon.

HAVE GONE HUNTING
William Vassie and Allen Thomas, accompanied by Henry C. Rankine, left last evening for the Nepisquit woods on a hunting trip.

VITAL STATISTICS
Twenty-one births, ten boys and eleven girls, were reported during the last week to Registrar J. B. Jones. Four marriages also were recorded.

FOOTBALL
In a football match played between the boys of the Albert school, West End, and the King Edward school, the West End footballers showed their superiority and did not allow their opponents to score once. The score stood 27 to 0.

CARLETON STREETS
Residents of the West Side complain of the condition of the sidewalks. One of these holes caused a woman to stumble a few days ago and she sustained a sprained ankle and threatens action against the city. The sidewalk in Charlotte street, West End, is also reported in a bad state.

CONGESTION AT GLASGOW
It was said today that the steamer Almora of the Dominion line had been unable to clear from Glasgow, Scot., today, as had been scheduled. Instead she will not leave until next Saturday, the 25th. The reason given was said to be that she had been late making port, and that the docks were somewhat congested, thus causing a delay.

LOCAL LABOR TOPICS

Investigation of Peters Street Collapse — Fair Wages Clause — For Safety in Work on Steamers

The Trades and Labor Council intend taking up with the city the matter of the collapse of the wooden building in Peters street this week, and have appointed a committee to interview the commissioners regarding the necessity of an investigation.

J. E. Tighe and J. L. Squire have been chosen to wait upon the common council in regard to the fair wage question, the intention being to urge the advisability of its insertion in city work contracts.

Another matter which will be gone into with the commissioner of harbors and ferries will be the question of compelling steamship companies to provide suitable and safe gangways and planks for use on their boats in port. This is a question against danger and will be dealt with before the winter port season opens.

Already the members of the council are preparing to make arrangements for the big trades and labor convention to be held here next year and a committee was appointed on Thursday night, at a meeting at which Mr. Squire will be taking the preliminary steps in regard to the matter.

COST HIM 90 CENTS

A Joke on The St. John Man Which Was Not Appreciated at The Time

A rare collection of native woodland birds and animals could have been had for the asking yesterday from a young clerk in a Prince Wm. street broker's office, and it is very likely that they would have been much more highly prized by a taxidermist than by the real recipient.

Not that the young man in question is not a lover of nature but he did not at all appreciate the gift thrust upon him by the express man (collect), even though he did appreciate the spirit which prompted its sending.

Some days previous a few of his friends had gone to the Miramichi on a hunting trip, and had promised to send him a choice brace of partridges, or possibly a few more. He waited expectantly for the coveted fowls, but they did not come. The promise of the birds had sharpened his taste for them, and he was becoming actually gloomy because of their non-arrival. He was just about concluding that there must be no game in the country, or that his friends were poor shots, when an express team drove to the door. His face lighted with the joy of anticipation and he readily paid the ninety cents collect charges and wasted no time in opening the box handed to him.

But sad to relate it was not partridges he had paid for. Instead of picking from within a few fine plump birds of this species, his hand brought forth a big owl. Then there were a few moose birds, two squirrels, a weasel, a woodpecker, and one or two other inhabitants of the wooded world. But there was no sign of partridge. He was rewarded later with the receipt of a few partridges and a choice moose-steak from his friends who had been quite successful on their trip.

FLEEING HEIRESS WALKED

MILES TO MARY LOVER

Montreal, Oct. 18.—A reluctant father and the "bless you my children" act took place at court proceedings here in the case of Reginald Leamy of Ottawa, who was to have appeared on a charge of abducting Elizabeth Phyllis Campbell, daughter of James B. Campbell, of Quebec, a minor, whose heiress to a fortune estimated at $75,000.

Miss Campbell left Montreal last week against her father's wishes to meet her lover in Ottawa, where they had arranged to be married. The irate parent caught her at Vaudeville and sought to detain her there. She, however, escaped through a trap door in the station floor and after walking for miles, selling her gold watch to get money for her trip, made her way to Ottawa by a round-about way and was married to Mr. Leamy as arranged. The young husband was then arrested on a charge of abduction, the withdrawal of which charge by the father enabled the young people to be reunited.

PURCHASED TIMBER LIMITS
W. H. Miller of Campbellton has purchased the J. D. Sowerby & Co's timber limits on the Esquimaux and vicinity, some fifty-three miles. The price paid is said to be in the vicinity of $36,000.

TAGGERS MEET GOOD RECEPTION

People Giving Cheerfully Today to Assist in a Good Work

If there was anybody about the city who did not get a tag today it was not the fault of the energetic body of young ladies working in the interests of the Monastery of the Good Shepherd, who were in every street with a bundle of tags in one hand and a small nickel bank in the other. They were given a very cheering reception and the expectation is that they will succeed in obtaining a handsome sum.

They were on hand early this morning, assembling about eight o'clock in Keith's street, and soon leaving for the districts assigned to them. The organization was well carried out and there was not a street in the city of any consequence which did not have its bevy of lively young workers busy collecting for a worthy cause. The leaders of the campaign directed the movements from headquarters and also went about the city in automobiles to keep in touch with the outposts. Committees also went to Carleton, Fairville, and other parts, and went as well to industrial establishments where they distributed their tags to the men employed there.

At noon luncheon was served in Keith's and it was very welcome after the tiring efforts of the morning. Up to two o'clock the members of the committee took turns at having lunch until all were served, and then went out on duty again. They will remain at work until five o'clock this afternoon when it is hoped that a fine sum of money will have been collected for their efforts. Many of the young ladies engaged in the work of tagging this morning had their banks filled more than once. There were a few donations of very substantial amounts, some "greenbacks" finding their way into the nickel boxes. On all sides there seemed a hearty willingness to contribute and many people were tagged several times.

APPLICATION REFUSED

Judgment in Case of Senator Domville vs. Central Railway Co. of Canada Means Suit Will Go On

In the case of Senator James Domville vs. The Central Railway Company of Canada, Mr. Justice McKeown gave judgment this morning on the application of the defendant to set aside an order granting to the plaintiff a writ of injunction. His Honor refused the application. The case arose from a judgment of the court in 1907, which, in 1907, the company of its own volition decided to pay its president, the plaintiff in this case, out of the proceeds of a bond issue for services rendered on behalf of the company for a year and a half years preceding that date. D. Mullin, K.C., is for the plaintiff, and F. R. Taylor for the defendant.

DIOCESE OF ST. JOHN

Rumors of Some Changes But Nothing Yet Decided On

The Fredericton Gleaner says: "The transfer of Rev. C. J. McLaughlin of this city to St. John, is a part of a programme for extensive changes in the Roman Catholic diocese of St. John, is the information which comes to The Gleaner from a reliable source."

"The changes will, it is said, be announced not later than November 1st, but it is believed that they are now pretty well arranged, and some four or five priests will be involved. If Rev. Fr. McLaughlin goes to St. John it will be to assume the editorial direction of the New Freeman, the official Roman Catholic publication. He has been offered the position."

"It is understood that arrangements have been going on for some time for Rev. Fr. McLaughlin to become the editor of the New Freeman. Rev. Fr. O'Keefe, the president editor, having expressed a desire to take a parish. Rev. Fr. O'Keefe is a former newspaper man, having been engaged with the Montreal Gazette before entering the priesthood. "One of the transfers expected to be announced in a short time by Bishop LeBlanc is that of Rev. Fr. Cormier, now stationed at Kingsclear, to a parish on the North Shore. This change is said to have been decided upon, but just how soon it will take place is not definitely known."

While this is an interesting rumor, it can be said that there has been nothing as yet decided upon further than that there will be some changes in the diocese.

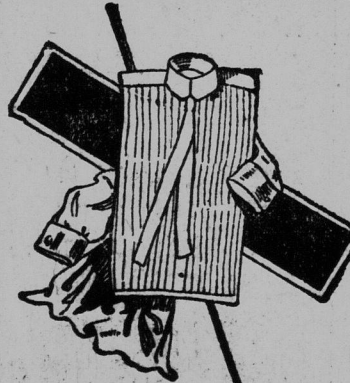

MAKE ST. JOHN PEOPLE PAY ON I. C. R. FOR CUT RATES IN C. P. R. AGREEMENT?

Some of the citizens who have been wondering how the Intercolonial Railway would make up the loss caused by hauling C. P. R. traffic too cheaply received a hint of the method when they went to the I. C. R. ticket office to get excursion tickets for Thanksgiving.

It has hitherto been possible to get a return ticket for one fare to cover more than one day, as for example, to get on Saturday good until Tuesday, where the holiday fell on Monday. This has been changed. Only tickets bought and used on Monday next can be got at one fare. Those purchased on day and good until Monday or Tuesday cost a fare and a third. It therefore costs more to have a holiday along the I. C. R. unless you spend part of that day on the train, going and coming.

The I. C. R. may be able to give the C. P. R. cheaper rates than heretofore, but it is raising the rates on its local patrons, the people who are part owners of the line.
