the stocking she was mending and looking reproachfully across the candle's dim pyramid of flame at ler husband. "There, Meade, I will say this for ye, of all the men-folk I ever came across you're the very worst for putting any understanding into. Not but you've your good points, and have been a middling bushand as bushands or " points, and have been a middling husband, as husbands go."

"Well, there, Martha, I can't say what sort of a wife you've a been, for I haven't had a many wives to try you agen," the miller replied, but I wish the deuce would fly off with your jam, I do. Anybody med think the world depended upon your jam."
