DEATH OF HON. JOHN MCMILLAN.

The death of Hon. John McMillan, post office inspector of New Brunswick, which occurred at his residence, Sammer street, Portland, Sanday evening, will be heard with regret in this city, along the North Shore, and generally throughout the province. Mr. Mo-Millan had been in ill health for some months, and weeks ago it was seen that the end was approaching. He represented the county of Restigouche in the local assembly releatless murderers unhung. His example from 1857 down to Confederation, and held in succession the portfolios of Surveyor that his intelligence and experience make General and Post Master General, resigning him fully responsible for his orimes. He his seat in the assembly in 1867. He was should have a fair trial. But there is no appointed post office inspector for the New just room, in his case, for the application of Brunswick district August 7th, 1867, and discharged the duties of that responsible position with rare fidelity and personal zeal ment the prospect is dark for humanity, until stricken d wn by the illness which resulted in his death.

Three daughters and three sons survive him. Mr. McMillan was born 4th August, 1816.

Mr. McLellan took a very prominent part at home in organizing the splendid exhibits which New Brunswick has made. We may add that Mr. McLellan is one of the best known and largest St. John shippers of wood goods, more particu-larly to the United States, however, than to the United Kingdom, and is the soul of geniality. He recommended us recently to visit the Dominion, and to go through the log camps, "If," he remarked, "we were "personally conducted' by some gentieman who saw 'good is everything,' and levished bounti-ful and undeserved praises on the operations of the loggers, we should be offered the best seat in the camp, a three-legged stool with one or more legs broken possibly, 'the boys' would sing any number of songs, place their feet on our best trousers, take our 'becos, smoke our ples, and, in fact, posses themselves of all our belonging." instigation, and the extenuating circumstances are not perceptible to the naked eye Except that Geronimo has never had a white man's training, never enjoyed personal and friendly intercourse with many civilized people, and never offered to sell out his cause for cash, his case is not unlike that of the late Louis Riel. The latter was calculating and mercenary, the former is ferocious and brutal. Both were cruel and selfish. Probably Geronimo cannot be proved to have killed anybody. His crimes, like those of Riel, were of a military character, and his claim to the treatment usually accorded to belligerents is as good as that of the half-breed leader. Our American cousins took a deep interest in the fate of Riel. We were advised to spare him. We were invited to show to the civilized world that we knew how to be magnanimous. The fate of Riel was to be the measure of our enlightenment. Freedom, across the border, shricked when Riel fell, and the New York Herald intimated that Canada was justly entitled to the scorn of humanity. Remembering these things we turn with interest to read the plea which the Herald and its contemporaries have to make for Geronimo. Though the Herald's influence in Canada was not sufficient to savethe life of the civilized murderer, it should be sufficient to save poor, savage, Geronimo who has so long and so bravely withstood the United States armles, and has at last thrown himself on the mercy of his foes. We find the New York Herald's ap. peal for the Apache chief runs in this wise : "Geronimo is one of the most desperate and is a very dangerous one. No one doubts sickly sentimentality." As this paragraph seems to be in accord with general senti-

A Man Instantly Killed.

A few minutes before six o'clock Thursday evening a sad and fatal accident happened at the Negrotown Point breakwater. Two or three accidents of a more or less serious character have occurred at this place lately, but that of last evening has cast a gloom over the whole force of men employed on the work. It ap pears that about ten minutes to six o'clock some heavy stone were being holsted by the derrick, which broke, falling on a Norwegian workman named Neilsen, killing him instant. ly. The man standing about immediately came to the relief of the unfortunate man, but it was too late. The dead body was taken to the breakwater boarding house, and Coroner White notified. Neilsen was unmarried and about 35 years of age. So far as can be ascer-tained he has no relatives in this country.

Fishery Seizures.

ST. ANDREWS, Sept. 11.-Thursday last Capt. McLean, of the Dominson cruiser, Gen. Middleton, seized on the Eastern Wolf Island, a sixty fathom tuck seine of American make, supposed to be owned by an Eastport man, The seine was spread on the shore to dry. One Mitchell of Campobello, claims that he is the owner of the seine, and after its seizure went to the Collector of Customs on Campopello to enter and pay duty on a new part that was ever been paid on any portion of the seine-Irrespective of this, the seine is one that can-not legally be used in our fisheries. The Gen. Middleton arrived at St. Andrews Friday vening; he has reported the seizure to the lepartment at Ottawa, and will await instructions. Large quantities of sardine herring are caught in dip nets of St. Andrews harbor, during the past three or four moon light nights which have been readly disposed of at remunerative prices.

Partelow Mott, and that hereafser the business of this establishment will be conducted under the name of Willis, Mott & Co. The mill has a capacity for manufacturing 120 yards of all wool material per day, and in addition there is machinery for making rolls for domestic carding. When in full running order the mill gives employment to fifteen hands and manufactures all kinds of tweeds, homespuns, flannels, blankets, yarns, etc. The mechanical department of the mills will still continue to be under the immediate supervision of Alexander Willis, a native of Scotland, who after working several years at his business in his native place, came to Ame-rica, and has since had an extensive experience in the leading mills of Canada and the United States. He was the first to manufacture Ox-ford homespuns in the maritime provinces, and to this branch of the business he will devote the greater part of his attention. T. Partelow Mott is a young man well and favorably known in this community and needs no special intro-duction to the business public. In the past he has shown considerable business plate and Mr. Willis of the mechanical. the Goldan Grove woellen Willis, Mott & Co. The mill has a capacity for
