AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OLD PLAN OF MANAGEMENT.

LEWIS RICE, Proprietor, respectfully announces that he has resumed the old plan of management as it existed before the recent alteration. Trial of the European system in this Hotel, proves, that although the advantages are great, yet the plan is better adapted for the smaller class of hotels.

The accommodations and conveniences of the House are unsurpassed, and the recent improvements and alterations, for the comfort of guests, have nothing to be desired.

Keating's Cough Lozenges

A SAFE AND CERTAIN REMEDY
FOR Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness,
AND OTHER AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT AND CHEST.

IN INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, AND WINTER COUGH they are unfailing. Being free from every hurtful ingredient, they may be taken by the most delicate female or the youngest child; while the PECTIC SPEAKER and PROFESSIONAL SINGER will find them invaluable in allaying the hoarseness and irritation incidental to vocal exertion, and also a powerful auxiliary in the production of MELODIOUS ENUNCIATION.

Prepared and sold in Boxes and Tins of various sizes, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, &c., No. 79, St. Paul's Church Yard, London. Sold retail by all Druggists in the whole world.

N B.—To prevent spurious imitations, please to observe that the words "KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES" are engraven on the Government Stamp of each box, without which none are genuine.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONIAL.

31, Wine street, Bristol.

SIR,—It is with much pleasure I have to inform you of the benefit I received from your Lozenges. I was attacked with the typhus fever, during which time I had a violent cough, so that it kept me awake the greater part of the night. A friend persuaded me to try a box of your "COUGH LOZENGES" which I did and am happy to say that with only one box of your valuable compound I was quite free from cough.

You can make what use of this you please, for I think such valuable medicine ought not to go unnoticed.

I remain, Sir, your obedient Servant,
WM. T. TRUSCOTT.

HEALTH OR SICKNESS!

CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

The blood furnishes the material of every bone, muscle, gland and fibre in the human frame. When pure, it secures health in every organ; if necessarily produces disease. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS operate directly upon the elements of the stream of life, neutralizing the principle of disease, and thus radically curing the malady, whether located in the nerves, the stomach, the liver the bowels, the muscles, the skin, the brain, or any other part of the system.

USED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities

ALARMING DISORDERS.

Dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver, the source of infirmity and suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives, in all cases, however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, alterative and tonic; they relieve the bowels, purify the fluids, and invigorate the system and the constitution at the same time.

GENERAL WEAKNESS—NERVOUS COMPLAINTS.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and tonic properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking nerves and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

DELICATE FEMALES.

All irregularities and ailments incident to the delicate and sensitive organs of the sex are removed or prevented by a few doses of these mild, but infallible alteratives. No mother who regards her own or her children's health should fail to have them within her reach.

SCIENTIFIC ENDORSEMENTS.

The London "Lancet," the London "Medical Review," and the most eminent of the faculty in Great Britain, France and Germany, have eulogized the Pills and their inventor.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

Asthma	Female Complaints	Piles
Bowel Complaints	Fevers	Stone and Gravel
Coughs	Headache	Secondary
Colds	Indigestion	Symptoms
Chest Diseases	Influenza	Venereal Affections
Costiveness	Inflammation	Worms, of all kinds.
Dyspepsia	Indward Weakness
Diarrhœa	Liver Complaints
Dropsy
Debility

Fever and Ague. Lowness of spirits

Sold at the Manufactories of Professor Holloway, 80, Maiden Lane, New York, and 244 Strand, (near Temple Bar, London,) by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines throughout the United States and the civilized World, in boxes at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and 1$ each.

☞ There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each Box.

"A FRIEND IN NEED,"

A SEA SKETCH.

[BY STEVENS COBB, JR.]

"I consider a pirate," said Captain Wing, "as entirely without the pale of humanity; and under no circumstances would I allow one to escape me if I once had him within my power."

"There might be circumstances," remarked Capt. Shaw, who was a gray-haired veteran of the sea, "under which you would allow even a pirate to go free."

"Never!" returned Wing, emphatically.—"Had he ever been a pirate, and escaped justice till he fell into my hands, he should not escape it then."

"Well," said Capt. Shaw, "I never had but one pirate to fall into my hands, and I must confess that I not only let him go free, but lent him some assistance besides; and I think if you had been in my place you would have done just as I did."

"I can't think so," persisted the other. "However I can judge if you tell me the circumstances."

"You shall have them," replied Shaw. "It is now about twenty years since I commanded the old ship Sampler. My second voyage in her was around the world. I went to India, and there home by the way of the Sandwich Islands and Cape Horn. While lying at Honolulu an American sailor came on board the ship and asked for an opportunity to work his passage home. He gave his name as Charles Bugbee, and said that he had been cast away upon one of the Islands six months before, and had made his way to Honolulu upon a raft, all his companions having died from starvation. He was a good looking man, not over thirty years of age, and as I had lost two men during the cruise, I was in need of help. I was confident from his manner, that he was not telling me the truth about the shipwreck. I was inclined to believe that he had deserted from some whaleman but I did not press him very closely, for, as I just said, I wanted his services; so I took him, and gave him a berth.

"I never saw a better seaman than Bugbee proved to be. He was the first man on deck when all hands were called; utterly fearless in storm; prompt to do his duty in every respect; and thoroughly posted up in his profession. Towards me and my officers his deportment was courteous and respectful in the extreme, but he did not seem to feel at home with the men. He seldom joined in any of their sports, nor did he laugh or jest with them. At times he was silent and thoughtful, spending whole hours by himself in a sort of moody meditation. Of course, I wondered much at this, and on one or two occasions approached him upon the subject, but he avoided it so quickly and decidedly that I made up my mind to let him keep his own secrets."

One day my mate came down into the cabin and informed me that Bugbee's secret had been discovered. He was a pirate, who had escaped about a year before from the authorities at Charleston, South Carolina. I asked him if there was any certainty of this.

"Yes," said the mate, "we are perfectly sure of it. Three of the men have seen him before.—About a year ago a pirate schooner was captured off the Bermudas, and carried into Charleston, and a young man, named John Lewis was captain of her. He, with eight of his crew was thrown into prison, but on the very first night he contrived to make his escape. The rest of them were tried, and six of them were hanged; but Lewis could not be found. It was supposed that some outside help must have been offered him. However, he has turned up now, and this Charles Bugbee is the man."

The circumstances of the capture of the pirates and escape of their captain was fresh in my memory, and I was not a little startled when I thus learned that the buccaneer chieftain was on board. I knew that his course was a bloody one, and that his crimes had been many and hard. But I meant to be assured. I sent for three men who had recognized Lewis, and they were positive. They were not only in Charleston when the pirates were brought in, but one of them had helped to capture them. I made some further inquiries, and was very soon satisfied that my new man was indeed the pirate. It was a positive fact of which there could be no possible doubt.

"And now what was I to do? The mate said 'let's secure him at once, and keep him prisoner till we can deliver him up;' and so thought some of the others; but I did not feel in that mood.—I was short-handed as it was, and we did his help; and then he was worth any two men I had. I reflected upon the matter and finally resolved to let him remain as he was until he reached port, and then I meant to deliver him up. I could watch him, if there was any necessity for it, tho' I was fully convinced that he meant no harm to us. So I told my mate that we would let Bugbee work on as he had done, and see that he was delivered up to justice as soon as we got home.—This may not have been in accordance with the idea of strict propriety, but it was under the circumstances the best I could do. The men promised they would say nothing to him of the discovery we had made, for I did not wish him to know it.

"But he must very soon have seen that he was more than suspected. He could not fail to observe that the men eyed him with uncommon interest, and that even I had changed in my bearing towards him. He did not betray any symptoms of anger. He performed all his duties as before, only becoming more and more thoughtful and silent.

"We had doubled the Horn, and passed the Falkland Islands, when we met with a change of weather as sudden as it was severe. At sundown I noticed that the breeze was breaking up, and that the barometer was setting in fully. I knew that a storm was brewing, and I prepared my ship accordingly. By ten o'clock that night I had the top-gallant masts on deck, and was laying-to under close-reefed topsails, with the bows under water half its time. Before morning the foretopsail was split to ribbons, and the spanker gone. The gale was from the south'ard eastward, and it blew as I had never seen it blow before. I had felt as heavy a wind, but not one that lasted so long. When daylight came we found the heavens
