

New Range

Foundry
is the best yet and we
it is worth having in —easy of management

ely

run no risk
line of stoves for all

Germain Street

MAISSON,

Gentlemen's Wear

TRINITY BLOCK.

Always Used

LINEN---

and Envelopes

a reasonable price.

Co., Ltd.

William Street.

ADVERTISE

City Market daily.

now vacated. For

AN Ltd.

139 Princess Street.

Southern Railway

ter SUNDAY, Oct. 3, 1909.

run daily, Sunday excepted.

East Ferry 7.30 a. m.

St. John's 7.45 a. m.

..... 12.30 p. m.

..... 1.45 p. m.

St. John's 6.30 p. m.

H. M. McLEAN, President.

Standard Time.

ing Classes

on for winter term.

October 1st.

3.30 to 9.30, Monday.

day and Friday.

is on application.

S. Kerr

Principal.

the Marine Engines

and Renewal for any make completely attended to.

Stenson & Co.,

St. John's, N. B.

OSTER & CO.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

St. John's, N. B.

ROBT. MAXWELL, Emery McLaughlin Co.
Mason and Builder, Valuator and Appraiser.
Brick, Lime, Stone
Tile, and Plaster
Workers.
General Jobbing Prompt and Neatly Office 18 Sydney Street.
Rm. 285 Union St. Tel. 823.

Butt & McCarthy,
MERCHANT TAILORS
68 Carmichael Street, Next Canadian Bank of Commerce.
ST. JOHN, N. B.

Buy and Use
SAUSAGES
They will Save You MADE BY JOHN HOPKINS
186 Union St. Phone 133.

Rich'd Sullivan & Co.
Wines and Liquors
Wholesale only
AGENTS FOR
WHITE HORSE CELLAR SCOTCH WHISKY, LAWSON'S LIQUEUR,
GEO. SAYER & CO'S FAMOUS COG.
NAC BRANDIE
PABST MILWAUKEE LAGER BEER.
44 & 46 Dock St.

HOTELS
The ROYAL
Saint John, N. B.
RAYMOND & DOWNEY,
PROPRIETORS

Victoria Hotel
21 and 27 King Street
ST. JOHN, N. B.
Electric passenger elevator and all modern improvements.
D. W. McCOMICK, Proprietor.

FIREMEN'S
RUBBER
BOOTS
Buy "Stouts" Patent
Snag Proof, Half Tip
Rubber Boots—the best in the world.
Will not crack or cut,
light and elastic.
Price $7.50 per pair.
Other makes $6.50, 5.50, 4.50.

Open evenings until 8.
Francis &
Vaughan,
19 KING STREET.

WITH THE JESTERS
THE ARTLESS ANSWER.

ARE THOSE
LEMONS
SOUND?
NO THEY ARE NOISELESS

THE TOP OF THE MORNING.
Mabel (gazing into the mirror).—"O, dear, I don't look myself at all this morning."
Madge—"What a splendid time to have your picture taken, dear."

THE GUILTY PARTY.
Maude—"What do you think. That bold, handsome Jack Gidday tried to flirt with me in church." Ethel—"Where was he sitting?"
Maude—"Three seats behind me."

IDENTICAL THOUGHTS.
Figg—"Do you and your wife ever think alike?" Fogg—"When I'm out late at the club we do. She keeps thinking what she'll say and so I do."

VERY DIFFERENT CASE.
Father (to bashful son).—"If you want the young lady, why don't you take courage and propose? How do you suppose I managed when I got married?"
Son—"O, yes, you married mother; but I've got to marry a strange girl."

IN 1912.
Paris Metropolitan Sky Police—"We must hurry up and get the sky swept. Here comes the president."—Bon Vivant.

"What's the matter?"
"I've just had a tooth pulled out."
"That's funny. I met you yesterday the other end of the town and you told me the same story."
"Yes, I got ten cents after it."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

Paris, Nov. 11.—At the conclusion of the Steinhilber case, Minister of Justice Barthou will propose certain changes of procedure in the trial court of France. The decision of the minister made known today was influenced largely by the criticism expressed in the United States and England of the method now in vogue through the operation of which the presiding judge appears in the role of prosecutor. M. Barthou has been much impressed by this foreign comment, and plans to take from the president of the court the duty and privilege of "interrogatoire," and confide
to the public prosecutor and the counsel for the defence the task of examining the accused and the witnesses.
He would restrict the prerogatives of the judge to a practice more in keeping with that of the courts of Anglo-Saxon countries. It is unlikely, however, that any effort will be made
to abolish the general method of court procedure in all Latin countries, through which the examining magistrate is an exhaustive preliminary investigation collects testimony often not strictly admissible under Anglo-Saxon rules of evidence, upon which the State establishes its case against the accused. It is the belief of many American lawyers here that in civil cases, which are not tried before a jury, the French method, permitting
the introduction of indirect evidence,
and even the opinion of witnesses,
frequently enables the judge to arrive at a conclusion more certainly just than does the method of similar courts in the United States and England.

A Cook's Loyalty
No servant ever fought more loyally
for her mistress than did Marietta Wolf, the cook in the Steinhilber household, who was yesterday as a witness in the trial of Mme. Steinhilber. When the judge had led her through a labyrinth of contradictory statements, he suddenly challenged the witness with this abstract from her original deposition: "When Mme. Steinhilber learned that her husband was dead she ejaculated, 'At last I am free!'" Without hesitation the servant
replied: "No; I have been misquoted. What Madame said was, 'At last I am alone!'"
The witness insisted that the wife
was devoted to her artist husband.
Next to the prisoner, Marietta Wolf excited the most interest in the court room as in the popular mind she is suspicious of holding the key to the mystery of the Steinhilber murder. She was the first witness today and a hush
of expectancy greeted her appearance on the stand. She was gowned in black and her attitude was somber as the clothes she wore. As a witness she was reticent and volunteered nothing. When pressed with specific questions by the judge she replied frequently, "I do not know" or "I do not remember." She could not, however, conceal her nervousness and she consulted frequently with the attorney for the defence. As a witness that Madame Steinhilber had known all of the Wolf children but Alexandre, whom she once accused. She admitted that her mistress addressed Alexandre by a familiar appellation, Judge De Valles with considerable difficulty induced the witness to describe the Steinhilber home and tell how Madame Steinhilber had leased "Green Lodge" in order that she might there receive her lovers. It was after she had expressed the opinion that Adolphe Steinhilber was a man of great very fond of both her husband and her step-mother and she volunteered
the further statement that Steinhilber occasionally took opium.

During the examination of the cook, Madame Steinhilber displayed great nervousness, frequently interrupting with passionate protests against the questions and the deductions made from the answer elicited. When Marietta Wolf was piled with questions especially damaging to the case of the defendant she found refuge in the plea that she had been too much upset by the crime to remember actively all the details of what immediately followed.

Marietta Wolf contradicted categorically the testimony given yesterday by the newspaper photographer Barby. The witness said that she had never stated, as Barby had said, that she would deny everything if Madame Steinhilber was arrested. The witness was confronted with Barby, but only repeated in his presence the denial she had made before. Several stormy scenes occurred during the afternoon.
At one point Madame Steinhilber interrupted angrily, and shouted defiantly that if it was true that she had received $1200 from her lover Chouard, the iron manufacturer, he had made a hundred times that amount from clients whom she had brought him.
The testimony of Marietta Wolf, like that of her son Alexandre, who followed her on the stand, was wholly favorable to the defendant. Alexandre admitted that the accused woman had been in the habit of addressing him as "thou" and that she had kissed him on New Year's Day. He offered the opinion that Madame Steinhilber had been led to accuse him through suggestions on the part of the police and the newspaper reporters.

Through the issuance of attachment feature

PROCEDURE
FRENCH COURTS
TO BE CHANGED

Minister of Justice to Move for Radical Changes in Methods of Court Proceedings --- A Cook's Loyalty.

HOW MARIETTA WOLF
FOUGHT FOR MISTRESS

Paris, Nov. 11.—At the conclusion
of the Steinhilber case, Minister of Justice Barthou will propose certain
changes of procedure in the trial
court of France. The decision of
the minister made known today was
influenced largely by the criticism expressed in the United States and Eng-
land of the method now in vogue
through the operation of which the
presiding judge appears in the role of
prosecutor. M. Barthou has been
much impressed by this foreign comment, and plans to take from the president of the court the duty and privilege of "interrogatoire," and confide
to the public prosecutor and the counsel for the defence the task of examining the accused and the witnesses.
He would restrict the prerogatives
of the judge to a practice more in keeping with that of the courts of Anglo-Saxon countries. It is unlikely,
however, that any effort will be made
to abolish the general method of court
procedure in all Latin countries,
through which the examining magistrate is an exhaustive preliminary investigation collects testimony often not
strictly admissible under Anglo-Saxon
rules of evidence, upon which the State establishes its case against the accused. It is the belief of many American lawyers here that in civil
cases, which are not tried before a
jury, the French method, permitting
the introduction of indirect evidence,
and even the opinion of witnesses,
frequently enables the judge to arrive
at a conclusion more certainly just
than does the method of similar
courts in the United States and England.

A Cook's Loyalty
No servant ever fought more loyally
for her mistress than did Marietta
Wolf, the cook in the Steinhilber household, who was yesterday as a witness
in the trial of Mme. Steinhilber. When
the judge had led her through a lab-
yrinth of contradictory statements, he
suddenly challenged the witness with
this abstract from her original depo-
sition: "When Mme. Steinhilber learned
that her husband was dead she
ejaculated, 'At last I am free!'"
Without hesitation the servant
replied: "No; I have been mis-
quoted. What Madame said was, 'At last I am alone!'"
The witness insisted that the wife
was devoted to her artist husband.
Next to the prisoner, Marietta Wolf
excited the most interest in the court
room as in the popular mind she is
suspicious of holding the key to the
mystery of the Steinhilber murder. She
was the first witness today and a hush
of expectancy greeted her appearance
on the stand. She was gowned in
black and her attitude was somber
as the clothes she wore. As a witness
she was reticent and volunteered
nothing. When pressed with specific
questions by the judge she replied
frequently, "I do not know" or "I do
not remember." She could not, however, conceal her nervousness and
she consulted frequently with the attorney for the defence. As a witness
that Madame Steinhilber had known all
of the Wolf children but Alexandre,
whom she once accused. She admitted
that her mistress addressed Alexan-
dre by a familiar appellation, Judge De Valles with considerable
difficulty induced the witness to describe the Steinhilber home and tell how Madame Steinhilber had leased "Green
Lodge" in order that she might there
receive her lovers. It was after she had expressed the opinion that Adolphe Steinhilber was a man of great
very fond of both her husband and
her step-mother and she volunteered
the further statement that Steinhilber
occasionally took opium.

During the examination of the cook,
Madame Steinhilber displayed great
nervousness, frequently interrupting
with passionate protests against the
questions and the deductions made
from the answer elicited. When Marietta Wolf was piled with questions especially damaging to the case
of the defendant she found refuge in
the plea that she had been too much
upset by the crime to remember actively all the details of what immediately followed.

Marietta Wolf contradicted cate-
gorically the testimony given yester-
day by the newspaper photographer
Barby. The witness said that she had
never stated, as Barby had said, that
she would deny everything if Madame Steinhilber was arrested. The witness
was confronted with Barby, but only
repeated in his presence the denial
she had made before. Several stormy
scenes occurred during the afternoon.
At one point Madame Steinhilber interrupted angrily, and shouted defiantly
that if it was true that she had received $1200 from her lover Chouard,
the iron manufacturer, he had made
a hundred times that amount from
clients whom she had brought him.
The testimony of Marietta Wolf, like
that of her son Alexandre, who followed her on the stand, was wholly
favorable to the defendant. Alexandre
admitted that the accused woman had
been in the habit of addressing him
as "thou" and that she had kissed
him on New Year's Day. He offered
the opinion that Madame Steinhilber
had been led to accuse him through
suggestions on the part of the police
and the newspaper reporters.

Through the issuance of attachment
feature

Paris, Nov. 11.—Shot through the stomach by some one in the underworld who had been nursing a grudge against him, Antonio Russo, alias Tony Ross, thirty years old, of
No. 206 East Ninety-second street,
of Harlem's real bad men, died yesterday afternoon in the Harlem hospital, where he was taken just before Monday midnight.

His assailant is unknown to the police and there doesn't seem to be much chance of it being arrested.
With his dying breath Russo execrated the two men who were with him at the time of the shooting.
"It was a corking good shot, all right," was one of the first things Russo said when he dropped. "They've been promising to get me for some time, and they've made good. Serves me right for leaving that cork off."

Refused to Tell.
At the station house in East 104th street, where he was taken first, and later at the hospital Russo kept repeating this over and over again.
When Captain Corcoran asked him
to tell the name of the man or men he suspected Russo just brought his teeth together with a snap and smiled
through his pain.

He had a police record that was not confined to this city but some way or other he always managed to escape imprisonment. Stories of the police were telling about him last night sound as if they might have been clipped bodily from the achievements of one of the oldtime road agents.

The police say Russo had more nerve than any dozen of the so-called east side bad men. For the most part he worked alone and he had such wicked performers as Paul Kol-ly, "Monk" Eastman and the other leaders giving him the right of line whenever he went by. The toughest
whenever he went by. The toughest joining in these circles last night when they learned of his death.

His Sense of Humor.
Other bad men never could appreciate his sense of humor. After they had put in a hard night's work earning their living by the sweat of their handbags, Russo had a playful habit of taking their plunder away from them. He was well aware of their enmity and went around Harlem looking like an arsenal. In addition to carrying himself with two big revolvers and a dirk, Russo always wore a coat of mail under his clothes. That was the coat he referred to when he fell. He left it off on Monday night.
Russo was in Ninety-seventh St.
when he was shot down. He was accompanied by Thomas Moran, alias
"Tom" McCarthy, twenty-four, of No.
155 East Ninety-second street, and Ralph Bontone, of No. 233
East Ninety-seventh street. According to the story told by Russo, which was corroborated by his companions,
the trio was just passing No. 218 East Ninety-seventh street, when Russo fell to the sidewalk and announced that he had been shot.

All three were taken to the station house and Russo was subsequently removed to the hospital. Moran and Russo were arraigned in the Harlem Police Court yesterday and held for further examination in default of $1.
None of the men had heard the sound of the shot or seen the flash
of the revolver, according to their stories.

SCIENTIST TELLS
OF UNKNOWN PLANET

Paris, Nov. 11.—M. Camille Flam-marion contributes an article to the European edition of the Herald on a planet of which mathematical calculations indicate its existence somewhere beyond the orbit of Neptune.

M. Flammarion's calculations in 1879 placed the orbit of this unknown world eight billion kilometres distant from the sun. Mr. Pickering's calculations last year place it at a distance of 7,722 million kilometres and give it a revolution around the sun once in 373 years.

By means of a diagram M. Flam-marion makes these stupendous distances comprehensible to the human mind.

As M. Flammarion has made a special study of Mars, I took the opportunity of asking him for an opinion on an alleged cataclysm with that planet which appears to have disquieted several American journals.

He laughed and said the reports of
a cataclysm are farcical.

Papers intended to recover certain goods lost to her by a department store in this city, the presence was revealed today in a fashionable apartment house of the woman who has been mentioned by Warriner as one of his alleged blackmailers. The woman, who is well known in this city and in Chicago, where she figured in a number of affairs, it is said,
has been occupying her present apartment for only a few days. Kept there a virtual prisoner, since the developments in connection with the Big Four shortage her identity, it is understood, was not known to other occupants of the place until today.

While a resident of Chicago, the woman in question was defendant in
a criminal prosecution, in which she was charged with having attempted to shoot a man, the latter being also one of those named by Warriner in connection with the alleged blackmail
feature

PEERS WHO ARE ON THE NERVES
OF ENGLAND

The Dukes of the United Kingdom and Their Great Possessions---The Amount of Taxes They Pay.

Famous Bad Man is Shot Down in New York---"A Corking Good Shot" Declares Dying Man.

His SUPREME
SENSE OF HONOR

New York, Nov. 11.—Shot through
the stomach by some one in the un-
derworld who had been nursing a
grudge against him, Antonio Russo,
alias Tony Ross, thirty years old, of
No. 206 East Ninety-second street,
of Harlem's real bad men, died yesterday afternoon in the Harlem hospital, where he was taken just before Monday midnight.

His assailant is unknown to the police and there doesn't seem to be
much chance of it being arrested.
With his dying breath Russo ex-
ecrated the two men who were with him
at the time of the shooting.
"It was a corking good shot, all
right," was one of the first things Russo said when he dropped. "They've
been promising to get me for some time, and they've made good. Serves
me right for leaving that cork off."

Refused to Tell.
At the station house in East 104th
street, where he was taken first, and
later at the hospital Russo kept repeating this over and over again.
When Captain Corcoran asked him
to tell the name of the man or men he
suspected Russo just brought his
teeth together with a snap and smiled
through his pain.

He had a police record that was not
confined to this city but some way or
other he always managed to escape
imprisonment. Stories of the police
were telling about him last night
sound as if they might have been
clipped bodily from the achievements
of one of the oldtime road agents.

The police say Russo had more
nerve than any dozen of the so-called
east side bad men. For the most
part he worked alone and he had
such wicked performers as Paul Kol-
ly, "Monk" Eastman and the other
leaders giving him the right of line
whenever he went by. The toughest
whenever he went by. The toughest
joining in these circles last night
when they learned of his death.

His Sense of Humor.
Other bad men never could appreciate his sense of humor. After they had put in a hard night's work earning their living by the sweat of their
handbags, Russo had a playful habit
of taking their plunder away from
them. He was well aware of their
enmity and went around Harlem looking like an arsenal. In addition to
carrying himself with two big revolvers and a dirk, Russo always wore a
coat of mail under his clothes. That
was the coat he referred to when he
fell. He left it off on Monday night.
Russo was in Ninety-seventh St.
when he was shot down. He was accompanied by Thomas Moran, alias
"Tom" McCarthy, twenty-four, of No.
155 East Ninety-second street, and
Ralph Bontone, of No. 233
East Ninety-seventh street. According to the story told by Russo, which
was corroborated by his companions,
the trio was just passing No. 218
East Ninety-seventh street, when Rus-
so fell to the sidewalk and announced
that he had been shot.

All three were taken to the station
house and Russo was subsequently removed to the hospital. Moran and Russo were arraigned in the Harlem
Police Court yesterday and held for
further examination in default of $1.
None of the men had heard the
sound of the shot or seen the flash
of the revolver, according to
their stories.

SCIENTIST TELLS
OF UNKNOWN PLANET

Paris, Nov. 11.—M. Camille Flam-
marion contributes an article to the European edition of the Herald on a
planet of which mathematical calculations indicate its existence some-
where beyond the orbit of Neptune.

M. Flammarion's calculations in 1879 placed the orbit of this unknown
world eight billion kilometres distant
from the sun. Mr. Pickering's calculations last year place it at a distance
of 7,722 million kilometres and give it
a revolution around the sun once in 373 years.

By means of a diagram M. Flam-
marion makes these stupendous distances comprehensible to the human mind.

As M. Flammarion has made a special study of Mars, I took the opportunity of asking him for an opinion on an alleged cataclysm with that
planet which appears to have dis-
quieted several American journals.

He laughed and said the reports of
a cataclysm are farcical.

Papers intended to recover certain
goods lost to her by a department
store in this city, the presence was
revealed today in a fashionable apartment house of the woman who has
been mentioned by Warriner as one
of his alleged blackmailers. The woman, who is well known in this city
and in Chicago, where she figured in
a number of affairs, it is said,
has been occupying her present apartment for only a few days. Kept there
a virtual prisoner, since the developments in connection with the Big Four shortage her identity, it is understood, was not known to other occupants of the place until today.

While a resident of Chicago, the
woman in question was defendant in
a criminal prosecution, in which she
was charged with having attempted
to shoot a man, the latter being also
one of those named by Warriner in connection with the alleged blackmail
feature

Paris, Nov. 11.—Shot through
the stomach by some one in the underworld who had been nursing a
grudge against him, Antonio Russo,
alias Tony Ross, thirty years old, of
No. 206 East Ninety-second street,
of Harlem's real bad men, died yesterday afternoon in the Harlem hospital, where he was taken just before Monday midnight.

His assailant is unknown to the police and there doesn't seem to be
much chance of it being arrested.
With his dying breath Russo ex-
ecrated the two men who were with him
at the time of the shooting.
"It was a corking good shot, all
right," was one of the first things Russo said when he dropped. "They've
been promising to get me for some time, and they've made good. Serves
me right for leaving that cork off."

Refused to Tell.
At the station house in East 104th
street, where he was taken first, and
later at the hospital Russo kept repeating this over and over again.
When Captain Corcoran asked him
to tell the name of the man or men he
suspected Russo just brought his
teeth together with a snap and smiled
through his pain.

He had a police record that was not
confined to this city but some way or
other he always managed to escape
imprisonment. Stories of the police
were telling about him last night
sound as if they might have been
clipped bodily from the achievements
of one of the oldtime road agents.

The police say Russo had more
nerve than any dozen of the so-called
east side bad men. For the most
part he worked alone and he had
such wicked performers as Paul Kol-
ly, "Monk" Eastman and the other
leaders giving him the right of line
whenever he went by. The toughest
whenever he went by. The toughest
joining in these circles last night
when they learned of his death.

'Tis Said
that opportunity knocks once at every door. Some grasp it,—and succeed.

Rubber and Overshoe prices will be much higher this winter. You are sure to need them and by purchasing Now you will save money.

This is Your Opportunity

WE SELL THE
MERCHANT BRAND
(The Pride Of Canada.)
OF RUBBERS, RUBBER
BOOTS AND OVERSHOES

There are none better and few equals in appearance, fitting and wearing qualities. Rubbers and Overshoes properly fitted give the best satisfaction. Come here and be fitted.

FOOT
FITTERS
McRobbie
94 KING
STREET

- PROGRESSIVE -
FARMERS ARE EXTENSIVELY USING THE Stickney Gasoline Engine
GEO. J. BARRETT,
Fredericton, St. John.

Store open till 9 p. m.
Thursday, Sept. 23, 1909.

Men's Patent Boots

Blucher Cut, Swing Last, Natty Toe, Dull Calf
Ankles.

Price Per Pair $3.00
"Union Made." A boot with lots of snap.

PERCY J. STEEL, Foot Furnisher, 519-521 Main Street.

TRY US for your ELECTRICAL NEEDS
Supplies of all kinds, Lamps, Fixtures, Shades, etc.

ALEX W. THORNE,
Electrical Contractors.
678 Main street, Phone Main 2344-11.

ASEPTO
SOAP POWDER
Give the Dishes and Pans an "Antiseptic" Wash

Your dishes and pans will be sweeter and cleaner when washed with ASEPTO in place of soap. ASEPTO does the work quicker and better and contains a germicide that destroys all disease germs. Especially should this antiseptic powder ASEPTO be used to clean a dish or jar which has contained meat, fruit or vegetables that have "gone wrong." ASEPTO costs but a package—is the only washing compound that will not burn the hands—and is odorless.

Manufactured by THE ASEPTO MANUFACTURING CO., St. John, N.B.

HUTCHINGS & CO.,
BEDDING MANUFACTURERS
WIRE MATTRESSES, MATTRESSES, IRON BEDSTEADS, FEATHER
PILLOWS etc.