

SAXONY GOES "RED" AS RADICALS UNITE

Gains by the Conservatives Wiped Out by a Coalition of the Extremists.

(Copyright, 1920, By Public Ledger.)
Berlin, Dec. 14.—Saxony was called "the red kingdom" of Germany under the old regime when the Socialists invariably carried the Diet election. Today it regained the right to that title.

Conservatives in all parts of Germany rejoiced over the gains made in the recent elections in Saxony and there was every indication that the result would be a split in the Socialist elements and that a somewhat reactionary administration not unlike that of Bavaria would be formed. They counted on being able to form a coalition of the middle parties—of sufficient strength to control the situation, but today comes the announcement that the Social Democrats, who are at present in power, and the Independent Socialists have agreed to buy the hatchet and that they have cornered enough votes to constitute a majority.

They have agreed to divide the cabinet positions, with Herr Buck, the present premier, probably retaining the post. The Communists and other extreme radicals refused to become partners in the coalition, but the former promised support.

In Accord With Moscow.

The success of the conservative, radical and socialist factions in overcoming their differences and offsetting the gains of the Centrists which along with the reactionaries have been increasing with every election since the revolutionary balloting for the constitutional assembly in 1919 has encouraged the members of these factions in Saxony to believe they can do likewise in the elections here in February. This action is a hard blow to the conservatives who interpreted their nation-wide gains as indicative of the possibility of sweeping the entire country in the near future.

The new Saxony government which is even more in accord with the dictates of Moscow than the last, includes a program of socialization of the chief means of production, particularly the mines, forests, railways, plants, the complete separation of church and state and the democratization of the school system.

On Top.
"I don't care what you say about the De Skyes, they are certainly the cream of society." At any rate, the milk of human kindness appears to be beneath them.—Boston Transcript.

Some h ng Free ManlyStrength

TO MY READER:

Whether you lack an abundant vigor, or if a free odor which will surely interest you, and through which you may easily profit from now on to the end of a ripe, healthy, advanced age, I have compiled a little treatise for self help (book form), which I am pleased to send absolutely free by mail in a perfectly plain sealed envelope to any man anywhere who writes for it. Over a million copies have already been thus distributed to those who wrote for them from all over the world. There is no obligation whatsoever involved in this offer, nothing which you are required to pay for in any way either now or in the future. It is just simply an out-and-out free proposal. In this little book of 72 pages, 8,000 words, and 30 half-tone photo reproductions, I have endeavored to give a straightforward talk to men, young and elderly, single and married, a concise compendium for self-reference, a perfectly plain discourse upon those important, personal matters relating to vital strength of man, the preservation of virility, its possible self-restoration, its legitimate use and its wanton abuses. Every man should be in possession of this book. One part describes a little druggist's mechanical vibrator which I make and distribute but whether or not you wish to see one of these vitalizers is for yourself to determine.

However aside from anything it contains in reference to my vibrator, the book should be read by all for its real worth. Therefore, please use free coupon below.

SANDEN, Author.
Reader, the whole world is today alive to the importance of a better general understanding of sex hygiene. The much-discussed science of eugenics is teaching the great mass of people that strong, healthy, roused parents beget equally sturdy children.

Manhood, no matter where or in what condition of life we find it, is the single power that most fascinates both men and women. The one who radiates this manly influence, this result of a vigorous, sturdy nerve force, is the one who forges to the front, while weaker people stand aside.

It is my opinion that any man may have for a complete restoration of his manhood and vigor if he but

LATVIA SHOPS FULL OF BALKAN WAR LOOT

Many Stores Remind One of An American Rummage Sale.

Latvia, Dec. 15.—The appearance of the shops here indicates that the Latvian traders have received some of the plunder taken by the various armies that have swept over the Baltic states. They are piled high with antique furniture from country estates. Statuary, silver and bronze ornaments, silverware and jewelry also abound in the commercial houses.

English dealers in antiques overran the Baltic states after they first trod themselves of the Bolsheviks, and they picked up much of the valuable furniture and the jewels, oriental rugs and old silver. Consequently the shops now offer fewer rare pieces than they did a year ago.

Much Second-Hand Stuff.

Besides the war loot, the shops carry an amazing lot of second-hand wares which were the property of persons impoverished by war who must now convert them into money. Luxuries went first, but now furs, fur coats and all sorts of wearing apparel are being sold in the shops. These stores look like American rummage sales.

It is common for prosperous-looking strangers who are inspecting shop windows to be approached by owners of rare old furniture or works of art who desire to offer their precious possessions at private sale without the humiliation of placing them on sale where their friends will recognize them.

The shops of Latvia are much the same as those in Riga, Vilnius and the cities of Estonia and Lithuania. Conditions were the same in Moscow and Petrograd until the Soviet government closed all the private shops, seized their stocks and forbade trade which was not conducted by the government.
