PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

A Stormy Scene—Anglin Greeted with Groans—He Empties Himself and Nearly Empties the House—The Government Triumph by 31 Majority—Opposition Members of the Committee Declaring their Verdict in Advance.

OTTAWA, May 7.

Mr. Ross followed, arguing that if the Government had time they might work out of this difficulty, remaining longer in power. He wanted an opportunity to put them out. Many believed Huntington's charges true.

Mr. Blain tried to speak. [Loud cries of Question amid general confusion.] He said if the Government were not guilty of Huntington's charges they were had enough to be guilty. He thought the enquiry should go on.

Mr. Wood said he would not say anything who did not fear God, and he did not but made a stumpy speech, reviewing the history of the elections in Ontario. He thought the Government should be in a position that the breath of scandal could not waft its tongue against them. The Government flooded the country with corruption. Where did the money come from? The members of the Government were too poor to supply it. Was the Secret Service money all spent in the election? The money must have come from Americans. Mr. Wood interpreted his speech with jokes, keeping the house in good humor. He said only a few words on the question before the House, his object evidently being to make the House lose sight of it and of Sir John's great speech.

Mr. Anglin rose to speak and was received with prolonged groans and hisses.
He talked at the top of his voice, but could only be heard saying they were afraid to hear him. He was proud that men who did not fear God, and he did not fear a more interesting one, repeating that Anglin should have a hearing. Quiet being restored, Anglin resumed, and the majority of the members immediately left the House, leaving him only the Opposition for audience. He made a bitter speech, charging the Government with corruption, incapability, and scheming.

Mr. Cunningham rebuked the members for leaving the House, and the Government spoke, and censured speakers for the disturbance which they conducted the discussion. This was good reason, he said, why the committee should sit elsewhere than in Ottawa. He thought the Government had been impeached, they should have fair play and time to procure their witnesses.

Mr. Blake followed, expressing satisfaction that the motion compelling the proceedings to be secret was withdrawn.
If the reasons given by Sir John to-day had been given earlier he (Blake) would have consented to delay, but the House had already voted that the Committee should proceed during the session. Sir John had not then asked for delay, and had no reason to do so now. The Committee could examine other witnesses, and when the Government witnesses were wanted they would return from England.

On the conclusion of Blake's speech the members were called in and Donlon's amendment was put and lost—yeas 76, nays 107—and Cameron's motion was carried by the same division.

Palmer, Burpee (St. John), Donville, Coutin, McKinnon, Wallace, Smith and Pickard voted with the Government, and Anglin, Ferris, and Burpee (Sunbury) against. Cutler did not vote.

None spoke on the Government side except Cunningham, their supporters declaring to let the case rest with Sir John's speech. Severe comments are passed this morning on Blake and Donlon taking active part in the discussion, and arguing that the Government are guilty, when they are to be the Judges.

McDonald of Pictou would not speak because he was on the Committee.

The galleries were crowded during the discussion.

The result was received with great cheering in the House, and subdued applause in the galleries.

The Bangor Commercial says it has been reported by a gentleman from Presque Isle that the party of disguised men who took O'Brien from Sheriff Hughes frightfully abused the wretch before hanging him by beating in his skull with clubs and otherwise inhumanly treating him.

MADAME LA TOUR.

AN ACADAMIC NOTICE.
[From Appleton's Journal.]

History is full of notable instances and examples of the brave, heroic, and extraordinary fortitude displayed by millions of women in times when indomitable perseverance and manly spirit were requisite to stir up the waning martial spirit in the breasts of dispirited warriors. Hostilities marshaled on the bloody plain her bosom of womanhood, lighting the combats and saying to drive back the sturdy and overwhelming legions of mighty Rome, and break their closed ranks; but the fortitude
