

Division who have assisted in so many ways, but who under departmental practice must remain anonymous. Without the advice of senior officials of the division and the technical assistance of other members in such matters as searching for documentary materials, checking texts, preparing the calendar of documents and the index, and in seeing the manuscript through to press, this book would not have come to birth. For the final production however the editor must assume responsibility.

R. A. MacKay