Lite's Battle Field. Each has his own one path in life, A circle lics within his ken-And a small circle, too, perchance-We cannot all be famous men ! And duties are not truly done By daunting vainly after fame, Or fretting for the want of chance, To quickly make a brilliant name.

A brilliant name! Too oft is this The phantom that leads many on, Until, too late, they wake and find The time for real endeavor gone, Better to fill a lowly place, And labour there with soul and heart, Than dream ambitiously of wealth Till time and youthful strength depart.

Do I speak sadly? Truth it is That is the lowest place of life A man can act a hero's part, Amid the daily toil and strife ! Aye, amid hourly din and care, Even though within the humblest home, Can shine in virtue great and grand As ever gilded ancient Rome !!

Life's heroism does not need A spacious or a lofty stage; Life's greatest deeds are not all writ Upon the flaming golden page ! Believe me, glorious work is done, As the world's wheels still onward go, Which ten-tongued rumor never yet Hath blazoned or will ever know.

Self-conceit, self-devotion-these Are the high gifts which give to all Who own them that well-tempered mind, Prepared alike to win or fall-Prepared, with fitting mien, to meet The happy good or bitter ill ; Unshaken, whether fate the cup With nectar or with gall may fill !

Each of these words, in loftier truth, Is a sure talisman in life, To goard and strengthen heart and brain In time of hourly din and strife; All stations they alike befit-The peasant cot or monarch's throne-To every man a priceless gift They bring, in self respect alone -Sharpe's Magazine.

The police having succeed-ed in ejecting the principal rioter, Gavazzi proceeded with his discourse. At the close of the lecture an immense mob attacked the hotel in which the lecture was delivered, breaking almost every pane of glass in the windows, and otherwise damaging the prem-ises. The audience were afraid to venture out, as stones were flying in all directions The police from some of the country dis tricts were immediately summoned, as also the militia; but the combined force was unable to disperse the mob, and merely sufficed to keep them from entering the hotel. At a late hour this morning the besieged audience in the hotel were enabled to leave; several persons were struck with stones, but no material injuries inflicted.

Among the Chinese the Ginseng (panax quinquefolinm) is all important as a contituent of their most expensive medicines. It grows wild in Canada and the Northern parts of the United States. From 1803 to 1807 the annual value of the Giuseng exported was $123,000, from 1823 to 1830, $157,-000. In 1841, 740,967 lbs. valued at $437,265 was exported from the United States

The Girseng was discovered in Canada by the Jesuit Lafite in 1716. A pound weight of this root, once worth two france at Quebec sold for 25 francs in Canton; its price subsequently rose to 80 francs the pound. One year the Canadian export of Ginseng, during the occupation of the country by the French, exceeded one hundred thousand dollars. The root resembles a small carrot about three or four inches in length.

The price of Ginseng in the Chinese seaports varies from 75 to 130 dollars for 133 lbs. for the crude, and from 130 to 200 for the pure, or at the rate of six shillings for the pure, (r at the rate of six shillings sterling a pound.
