On Train,
October 18, 1935.

Dear Mr. Taylor:

Thank you very much indeed for your letter of the 5th instant, which has followed me a long way before finally overtaking me, and for the kind words, with regard to myself, contained therein, and, also, for your kindly comment on my Saskatoon speech. My only hope is that in the future conduct of my duties I will continue to merit your confidence and support.

Things are looking much better in the West than they have hitherto for years. A strange wave of sentiment is arising against the Government throughout the country generally which I firmly believe will swamp the present administration.

Very sincerely yours,

William Taylor, Esq.,
McDonald Hills,
Sask.
