

Treated by Three Doctors for a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia,

Got No Relief From Medicines, But Found It At Last In

Burdock Blood Bitters

Mrs. Frank Hutt, Morrisburg, Ont., was one of those troubled with this most common of stomach troubles. She writes:—"After being treated by three doctors, and using many advertised medicines, for a severe attack of Dyspepsia, and receiving no benefit, I gave up all hope of ever being cured. Hearing Burdock Blood Bitters so highly spoken of, I decided to get a bottle, and give it a trial. Before I had taken it I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken the second one I was completely cured. I cannot recommend Burdock Blood Bitters too highly, and would advise all sufferers from dyspepsia to give it a trial."

Po-tin-an Had No Defence.

Drill Hall At Chatham.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The contract for a drill hall at Chatham has been awarded to George A. Proctor of Sarnia. The price is about $60,000.

Mr. Stratton and the Pulpit.

retarboro, Nov. 9.—Hon. J. R. Stratton has severely criticized Rev. Dr. Crothers, Methodist minister, for delivering a political sermon. Mr. Stratton said the platform, not the pulpit, was the place to discuss political party issues. Replying to Mr. Stratton in a public address Monday night, Dr. Crothers said: "Whenever I feel that the truth ought to be pronounced, then the truth shall be pronounced. I do not think men should bring partisanship into the pulpit, but I agree with the Right Hon. John Morley, who, in Toronto, said it was part of a man's religion to see that his country was governed well. I purpose to follow that out whenever and wherever opportunity permits."

Work On the G.T.P.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The first work of the G. T. P. will be from Winnipeg east to connect with the Thunder Bay branch, upon which construction will likely commence right away. Other points of starting will be Moncton West and Montreal East. Survey parties are now out from Moncton to a point 120 miles west of North Bay, where they join with G. T. P. parties. Branches may be built from other points on Lake Superior to carry in material, but arrangements for rapid construction east to North Bay will be made to furnish outlet for freight which winter precludes sending out by Thunder Bay branches.

Refuses a Preference.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P.)—The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a letter to a West Indian Committee, refuses to consider proposals to give colonial alcohol a preference over other imported spirit. He also refused to consider the advisability of having a colonial member on the committee.

Challenges Balfour.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Edward Grey at Coventry, challenged Mr. Balfour to answer "yes" or "no" to Mr. Chamberlain's policy, which is a real peril to the Empire. In proposing a conference Mr. Balfour is simply placing the card answering the call from his partner.

NO ARGUMENT NEEDED

EVERY SUFFERER FROM CATARRH KNOWS THAT SALVES, LOTIONS, WASHES, AND SPRAYS AND DOUGHS DO NOT CURE.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhaled cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications, if they accomplish anything at all simply give transient relief.

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucus, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the mucous membrane.

The best and most modern remedies for this purpose are antiseptics scientifically known as Red Gum, Blood Root, and Hydrastin, and while each of these have been successfully used separately, yet it has been difficult to get them all combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form.

The manufacturers of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, have succeeded admirably in accomplishing this result. They are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach. Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults.

Mr. C. R. Rembrandt, of Rochester, N. Y., says—"I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from Catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers and powders for months at a time with only slight relief and had no hope of cure. I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seemed my only chance of cure."

"Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a fifty cent box from my druggist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh; my head is clear, my digestion all I could ask and my hearing, which had begun to fail as a result of the catarrh, had greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for complete treatment and for convenience, safety and prompt results they are undoubtedly the long looked for catarrh cure.

Nothing can constitute good breeding that has not good nature for its foundation.

ABOUT POISON IVY.

Frequently a person is puzzled to know whether a vine with which he comes in contact is poison ivy or Virginia creeper. The poison ivy has three leaflets and white berries, while the creeper has five and purple berries.

The only way to prevent a bad case of poisoning from the ivy is to begin treatment as soon as the itching sensation becomes apparent. If the case is allowed to continue until the pustules break the patient is pretty sure to suffer for a week or more. A good remedy is the extract of grindella, which if used in time by rubbing on the affected parts every five minutes will give relief. Sugar of lead salve is also a standard remedy.

If a person who has touched poison ivy will wash the exposed part thoroughly with soap as soon after as possible, poisoning can generally be prevented. The poisonous principle in the ivy is a corrosive essential oil which is very volatile. It is not necessary to touch the ivy in order to be poisoned. Passing near it may be sufficient, and when ivy is burned the smoke is poisonous.

Many people are not at all sensitive to poison ivy and can handle it without fear, while to others a mere breath of it is sufficient to cause troublesome eruptions. Poison oak and poison ivy are the same thing. The plant has a peculiar way of changing its habit of growth according to local conditions.—Pathfinder.

HOME-MADE HOREHOUD.

This is an old-fashioned preparation for coughs and that made at home will contain horehound, while the boughten candy has the flavor given to it with chicory. A manufacturing confectioner once told the writer that he had never had an ounce of genuine horehound herb in his factory. To make this candy, first make a rather strong tea of the herbs and boiling water, then add 1 pound of granulated or coffee C sugar to each half-pint of the tea and boil until it will crack when tried in cold water. Pour into shallow, well-buttered pans, and when nearly cold mark in squares or bars. One can soon tell how strong to make the tea. The fresh herbs are preferable, but the dried packages one gets at a drug store will do nicely.—Mrs. H. L. Miller.

TWO WAYS OF MEETING DISAPPOINTMENTS

That man or woman whose life has been all sunshine will never really live. It takes shadows to round a life out to its full proportions.

Only the shallow-hearted will get through existence without meeting obstacles and disappointments. Such persons merely float on the surface of things. Having never acquired the capacity for suffering, neither can they rejoice greatly. Their lives are negative.

To the active, thinking, vigorous soul obstacles and disappointments are inevitable. A life that expands and reaches out beyond its own little confines is bound to meet opposing forces.

If these opposing forces can be overcome, they are obstacles, triumphantly surmounted, and he or she who surmounts them is ten times better and stronger for having met them. If they cannot be overcome they are disappointments—whether they come in the guise of the loss of friends, of health, of money, of position, or sorrow, or misfortune of any kind.

These are the great disappointments of life—the lot of everyone who truly lives. But there are two ways of meeting them. And upon how they are met depends largely all the rest of life.

Either they will embitter and sour the life, or they will strengthen it and increase its usefulness. As has been said, disappointment is the lot of every life. But it rests entirely with the individual which of these two results they will let it work in them.

To accept the lesson of sorrow, to submit to the inevitable, and to trust the powers that be will bring one strength. With the deeper insight into life that trouble brings will come a great capacity for helpfulness, and this of itself will in time restore joy.

On the other hand, to fret and chafe against what must be, not only will not alter conditions, but will shut out all hopes of returning light and joy. Affections die, the heart shrivels, the face sharpens, the voice grows acid, the friends that would have sympathized are estranged, and life becomes a pitiful existence dragged out under a darkened sky.

"One month in the school of affliction will teach you more than the great precepts of Aristotle in seven years," said a wise man. But it will teach you nothing unless you are willing to learn.

REFLEX ACTION.

"Mamma," asked Johnny, "what are you biting your finger nails for?" "Nervousness, dear," said the mother. "It makes me so uneasy to see you swallow your grapes whole that I didn't know what I was doing. You will get appendicitis if you don't look out."

A few days later, however, the good dame herself was taken seriously ill. Her case was diagnosed as appendicitis. An operation was performed and the patient was relieved.

The surgeon discovered that what had caused the trouble was the presence of a small piece of finger nail in the vermiform appendix.

"It was all your fault, Johnny," she said. "This never would have happened if you hadn't swallowed those grapes whole."—Chicago Tribune.
