The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Ruth Cameron

Two young friends of mine who had been kept apart by a foolish misunderstanding for over two years, met the other day, explained away the misunderstanding, picked up the romance where it had dropped, became engaged, and are now in a fair way to be happily married.

And yet they are both grieving even in the midst of the happiness for the needlessly lost two years.

I say "needlessly" because if one of these two had taken the pains to write half a dozen extra words on a certain occasion, the wretched misunderstanding would never have come about. And those extra words were simply his name and address, and they should have been written on the outside of an envelope.

When the two graduated from college about two years ago, the feeling of admiration and attraction which each felt towards the other, had not been put into definite words. Much to her delight, however, he did ask permission to write, which was gladly granted. They exchanged several letters and then a letter of hers remained unanswered. She waited hopefully at first, and then as the long weeks grew into months—you know how long they can be when they are measured by the painfully longed for, but sickeningly disappointing visits of the postman—she simply decided that his silence meant he was weary of the friendship and the correspondence, and tried to forget him.

Meanwhile he, on his side, had interpreted her failure to respond to his letter as a sign that she was weary of the correspondence and the friendship and he had tried to forget her.

How came it that there were two unanswered letters? Why simply in the usual way. He had made a slight mistake in the address, and his letter, not having any return address on the envelope, had been sent to the dead letter office.

Now neither met anyone who seemed to fill the place of the lost friend, and fortunately the chance meeting cleared away the trouble and they are to be married, and, I suppose, to live happily ever afterwards, but I fancy a great many misunderstandings which begin just that way are never cleared up.

Just the other day I chanced to meet a woman who some months ago offered to do me a favor. I accepted her kind offer and wrote her a letter regarding the matter. I never heard from her again and supposed she had changed her mind. Our chance meeting brought about explanations, and I found that she had answered my letter, but I never received the answer. Naturally she, as well as I, was wondering at the silence. All that would have been avoided if she had had her name and address on the outside of her letter.

Again I wrote twice to a treasured friend and both times made a careless mistake in the address. I had no answer. I was just deciding that the correspondence was no longer welcome when my letters came back to me, making everything clear.

Just yesterday a girl told me of a Christmas gift which went adrift in this way and of a grieved and puzzled friend.

I don't doubt that every day just such misunderstandings arise. Of course, there are times when letters mysteriously disappear even when safeguarded in this way, but I know these occasions are infinitely few.

The return address is letter insurance. The time you take in writing it, or the money spent to have it printed, is the premium you pay. The security against misunderstanding is the value you receive.

And from all I've heard and experienced in this direction, I can assure you it's decidedly worth while insurance.

A Colossal Forger

One of the most notorious forgers of modern times was Henry Fauntleroy, who was executed in 1824. He was a partner in the banking firm of Marsh, Sibbald, and Co., of Berners-street, W. In 1814 he was appointed one of the three trustees for eight children, and very soon after forged his signatures of his co-trustees to a power of attorney, which enabled him to sell the amount of Consols which stood in their joint names. This forgery was followed by many others.

In the time the discovery of the frauds was made by one of Fauntleroy's co-trustees having occasion to refer to one of the accounts at the Bank of England, where he found to his dismay, that the whole of the stock in question amounting to £20,000, had been sold out. The police were communicated with, and the next morning Fauntleroy was arrested in his office.

One remarkable fact was that among his papers a document was found giving a list of his foregriens and his reasons for committing them. The latter statement ran as follows: "In order to keep the credit of our house I have forged powers of attorney for the above sums and parties, and sold out to the amount here stated, without the knowledge of my partners. I kept up the payment of the dividends, and made no entries of such payments in our books. The bank first began to refuse to discount our acceptances, and to destroy the credit of our house. The bank shall smart for it."

Fauntleroy was tried at the Old Bailey, found guilty, and sentence of death was passed upon him. Great efforts were made to save his life, but he proved unavailing, and the execution took place in November, in the presence of an enormous crowd of people. The loss to the Bank of England by Fauntleroy's forged powers of attorney is said to have exceeded £360,000.

Chest Pains of Bronchitis

IT is the tendency of every cold to develop into bronchitis, consumption or some form of lung trouble, Bronchitis is most dreaded, because it has a tendency to become chronic and return again and again, until the patient becomes worn out.

If the cough is dry and hard; if there is pain, soreness or tightness in the chest; if breathing is difficult and causes pain in the chest, you have every reason to suppose that you have bronchitis and should promptly begin the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Cough mixtures that may help an ordinary cold have no effect on bronchitis and asthma, but Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has won its enviable reputation on account of its wonderful success in curing these ailments. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmansons Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Do You Feel This Way?

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at nights unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to forge ahead in the world left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your lazy liver to work, it will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. It will purify your blood. If there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about a cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice. Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good." Dr. Pierce's medicines are of known composition. Their every ingredient printed on their wrappers. Made from roots, herbs and alcohol. Contain no habit-forming drugs. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Household Notes.

If a few beans, either lima or string, have been left over, make them into a salad, add a few chopped olives, a few capers and some Spanish red pepper. French dressing is preferable to mayonnaise.

Browned flour makes delicious brown gravies. Put it in a pie plate and set on top of the stove or in a very hot oven. When it begins to brown it should be constantly stirred until brown all through.

A teaspoonful of warm olive-oil or camphorated oil poured into the ear and held there for a few minutes, will destroy a bug in the ear and it will then easily pour out, bringing with it the dead insect.

In ironing the plat or the back of a shirtwaist on which tiny buttons are sewed, try laying it on a flanne or heavy Turkish towel, as you do your embroidery. The buttons sink in as the material is ironed.

When beating white of egg for sponge cake, when it becomes dry and light, test its stiffness by turning the dish containing it upside down. If it is beaten to the proper point not a particle will become detached.

A delicious little appetizer for the supper table consists of large quee olives, cut in half, and with the stones replaced with caviare paste. One is served to each person, on a lettuce leaf, garnished with narrow sections of lemon.

Dried wormwood, which may be had at the drug stores, is an excellent protection against moths when put in winter clothes away. It should be scattered lavishly between the folds and each article wrapped separately in a newspaper before packing.

A kitchen bouquet for flavoring soups can easily be made. Take a few sprigs of parsley and wrap them around peppercorns, whole cloves, a bay leaf and other herbs that are at hand. Tie up tightly. This can be removed from the soup without trouble.

To remove wallpaper, take warm water that is softened with borax or ammonia and apply with a sponge. The paper will soon become soaked and blistered and may be easily stripped off. It is well to do this a day or so before the new paper is put on.

Pea or bean flour found at the grocer's may be used for a quick vegetable soup. Half a cupful of the flour, three pints of boiling water, a tablespoonful of beef juice, a small onion and two or three slices of bacon, cut into tiny cubes, is an easy recipe.

A wire basket, known as a salad shaker or drainer, should be used to dry greens after they have been thoroughly washed. Leaves of lettuce often hold water after they have been

THE PATIENT BRAIN

A tireless worker so long as supplied with rich, red blood.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work. But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 350 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.00; at all dealers, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto.
