

WARNER'S RUST-PROOF CORSETS.

More exacting than Dress fashion, is the fashion for Corsets, since the gown is entirely dependent for its lines and fullest beauty upon the foundation of Dress—the Corset.

Have you ever counted the cost in disappointment of the gowns that failed to fit, all for want of a fashionable fitting Corset beneath? The Warner's trademark on a Corset ensures the right lines to fit over—and, best of all, that those fashionable lines will last to the last day of wear.

Wear a Warner's Corset

and your figure will be correct; your gowns will look their best; and you will still be wearing it long after an ordinary Corset would have gone to pieces, for Warner's Corsets are Extraordinary Corsets—Designed to Fit and made to Wear.

Year after year the same customers keep coming back for

Why Not Use Common Sense?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

There are some subjects on which many people simply will not use their customary common sense. One is love; another is money, especially in relation to its investment.

Many people who are intelligent enough to make money and self-controlled enough to save it, are neither intelligent or self-controlled in what they expect that money to do.

"There," said the Author's Wife, "now why couldn't you have done that with the little house we bought. We get thirty dollars rent and we could turn twenty-five right in. Why, just think, we pay a hundred and twenty dollars a year on our mortgage and that doesn't reduce it one bit. I always felt there was some better way but you would go to that bank."

He thought it useless to explain. The Author's Wife started to speak, then gave her a look in which incredulity, anger and enforced tolerance were blended, shugged his shoulders and said nothing.

It was the Cynic who came to his rescue and explained that the man who was paying for his house was paying tax rates, water rates and repairs, besides the co-operative payment; that to do as he was doing she would have to turn over most of the rent to the co-operative, and on top of that pay other expenses instead of getting some income as she now was.

That, you say, was a woman. Very well, I know an insurance agent who had a beautiful argument which proved that it costs so much more to own a house than by renting you save enough for a large insurance policy.

A Great Many Men Didn't Stop To Analyze. He convinced a great many men with that glittering argument, despite the two glaring fallacies that he pictured you as owning a house much more costly than the rented one, and that his figures for depreciation and repairs were outrageous.

There are certain actions of investment which will help keep anyone out of trouble. The first is this: You can get a certain interest for your money together with reasonable guarantees of safety. If you want more than that you must make up your mind to take some risk.

The second is as old as it is new, "You can't get something for nothing."

Coughs and Colds can be cured by using Stafford's Phoradone and Stafford's Liniment. Everyday Etiquette.

"A man friend is sick in the hospital. What would be the proper way for me to extend my sympathy?" asked Emma.

"Write him a note of sympathy but don't make it too personal so far as you are concerned," answered her aunt.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. W. A. Munn was in town yesterday on a short visit. He went to Carbonar this forenoon.

Mrs. Edward Kitchen, of Harvey St., passed away yesterday after a long illness. Besides her husband, who is working on Bell Island, Mrs. Kitchen leaves a large family to mourn their great loss.

A resident of this town was before court on Thursday charged with the heinous offence of beating his wife, a woman of past middle age. As this was not the first offence the man was given three months in goal to consider the gravity of his offence and to make good resolutions.

It is likely that Harbor Grace will soon have two agricultural societies, both complying with the rules set down by the Agricultural Board. One Society will be composed by people from the town proper, the other for Riverhead and South Side. The old Harbor Grace Agricultural Society which has been in existence for over 50 years will still continue its work and may be called the Supreme Grand Agricultural Society.

The continued blowing of the steam whistles on Bell Island about midnight on Saturday and the reflection of a conflagration there caused much uneasiness yesterday and to-day but up to the time of writing (1.30) no report has reached here of the cause of the alarms and reflection. It is thought that a big fire was in progress.

To be sure of pure coffee, grind the coffee bean at home just before using. Five cents' worth of soup vegetables will make soup enough for six people. Never fasten clothes on the line by corners—that is the surest way to tear them.

HENRY FORD.

Henry Ford is a public-spirited citizen who invented the art of riding on four rubber tires and still remaining solvent.

Mr. Ford is one of the limited number of inventors in profane and sacred history who discovered something and refused to let go of the handle. Thousands of bright men with heads shaped like the Cheops pyramid have invented useful household articles just in time to have somebody who couldn't invent a steering gear for a stone boat step in and corral 51 per cent. of the treasury stock. Henry, however, did not do this. He held onto his stock and saw it climb upward in a dizzy and impassioned manner, until to-day he could sell out and live on the interest of his money without having his shirt's done up at home.

Mr. Ford is one of our leading pacifists, but his greatest achievement in this line was when he pacified the crude, deceptive gasoline engine, with its arching back and smoldering temper, and induced it to draw a precious cargo of human souls and feet around the country at a rapid canter. If it were not for Henry Ford and his subtle, intrepid thinking apparatus, millions of worthy American citizens would not have any fresh air in their lungs or blowout patches in their pockets. When we think that Henry Ford has made it possible for the humble wage earner to leave home on Sunday morning with his family, gallop over four counties on high gear and return in time for the evening service on five gallons of gasoline, we are inclined to wonder why he did not get more votes for president.

Mr. Ford employs a good deal of hired help, in one way or another, and gets along with them first rate. Whenever Henry hires a man he does not ask him what church he belongs to or whether he votes the republican ticket, but he just feels of his muscle and requires him to learn "The Six Spangled Banner." If there were more capitalists like Henry in this country, the nocturnal strike would be harder to find than a bow-legged man who will own up to it.

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Chores.

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of soot rise and settle on the furniture. It Eliminates Hard Work.

Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

In Memoriam.

VICTOR CLARE NETTEN.

A promising young life was brought to a close on the night of Sunday, March 18th, when Victor Clare, youngest and dearly beloved son of the Rev. Canon and Mrs. Netten, of the C. E. Parsonage, Topsail, entered into rest at the early age of twenty years. Victor, as he was affectionately called by all, was a general favorite up and down the shore, his faculty for good-fellowship amounting almost to a genius. Although for some years past he was hampered by the burden of ill-health, still, with a sturdiness of will-power that characterized him in all his walks of life, he succeeded in excelling the shadow that threatened to gildom his young life, and those of his nearest and dearest, and always appeared to be in the best of spirits. At times it was almost hoped that the gallant spirit had come off victorious in the battle with disease, so bravely did he conceal all traces of suffering. But such was not the case. Although unable to offer himself in the cause of King and Country, he was never happier than when throwing all his energies into the home-efforts which were made from time to time for the purpose of raising money for the various Patriotic funds. Possessed of a bass voice of splendid compass, and talents, musical and otherwise, of no mean order, only in January last he gave very valuable assistance at the last concert held for that purpose, and none who saw him, bubbling over with the joy of life as he was on that occasion, ever dreamed that such scenes would know him no more forever. Up to the year 1812 Clare attended Bishop Field College where a brilliant career was anticipated for him. During that summer, however, he caught a severe chill, from the effects of which he never really recovered, and which thwarted the promise of his years until the end. Sometimes it was thought all traces of the disease had been eradicated, and that, with care, he might at length enjoy a tolerable measure of good health. But this was not to be. A few weeks ago he contracted a heavy cold, and though very ill, the end was not expected. On Monday morning the whole village was plunged into mourning when the sad news passed from lip to lip that, almost without warning, on Sunday night at ten o'clock the Messenger of Death had visited the Parsonage, and "Two angels issued, where but one went in."

Dear Victor Netten, beloved not only by his father's parish, but by the whole village, irrespective of age, class, or creed, was not, for God had taken him. The funeral, which was conducted by Rev. Canons Bolt and Colley, took place on Wednesday afternoon. The remains were enclosed in a beautiful casket, which bore many floral tributes from friends and dear ones. A large throng of people gathered to pay their final tribute of respect, and amidst the brilliant sunshine of the March afternoon, all that was mortal of Victor Clare Netten was laid to rest in the secluded little cemetery surrounding the church, to await the dawns of the Resurrection morning.

Besides his father, mother and one sister, Mrs. Netten, at the Parsonage; another sister, Mrs. Wilfred Shears of St. John's, and five brothers, viz.:—Rev. Wm. Netten, B.A., of Corwall; Opt. Philip, R.N.R.; Bert of Halifax; Alex. of the St. Francis Xavier Ambulance, St. John's; and Reginald, the Board of Works Office, St. John's, are left to mourn, to all of whom our deepest sympathy is extended.

"Sweet as the tender fragrance that survives
When martyred flowers breathe out
Their life, sweet as the fragrance
Sweet as a song that once consoled
our pain
But never will be sung to us again, thy remembrance, Now the heart of rest
Hath come to thee. Sleep, dear one;
it's best."
