Rev. A. H. Sykes Discusses His Wife's Troubles

Believes It His Duty To Make Public the Facts in the Case.

It is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially ministers of the gospel, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. However, when a medicine obtains of the singular purity and efficiency that is shown by the uniform preparation, Tanlac, statements from our best citizens are to be considered thoroughly commensurate with the good that is actually being accomplished.

Rev. A. H. Sykes, pastor of the Watkins Park Presbyterian church, Nashville, Tenn., prominent, not only as a minister of the gospel, but popular as a citizen, who has been true to his friends and every trust, said recently:

"For the past ten months Mrs. Sykes has been in very delicate health, suffering both from stomach and kidney trouble, which gradually developed into a general nervous breakdown. At best citizens are to be considered thoroughly commensurate with the good that is actually being accomplished.

"In fact, she suffered so long and so much that I feel it my duty to let everyone know what Tanlac has done for her. For several years her condition was such that she had to remain in bed and when Tanlac was placed on sale here several weeks ago I was very much interested in what I read in the papers regarding the Tanlac treatment and decided, as a last resort, to give it a trial.

"I am a conservative man, continued Rev. Sykes, and have always been skeptical regarding the use of proprietary medicines, but this case has certainly proved an exception. I can now firmly convince that Tanlac is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything give such prompt results.

"Mrs. Sykes had only taken two-thirds of a bottle when we began noticing a marked improvement in her condition. In less than a week from the time she began taking it she was able to sit up and to-day is able to assist with the household duties.

"Before she began taking Tanlac she had fearful pains in her side and suffered constantly with sour stomach and indigestion, and was very nervous. These distressing symptoms, I am thankful to say have entirely disappeared, her appetite has returned and she seems to relish everything she eats. She also sleeps better and is gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I think it is only a question of a short time now until her health will be fully restored.

"Tanlac," concluded Rev. Sykes, "has certainly proved a remarkable remedy in her case and will do all you claim for it. I cheerfully recommend it to all of my friends and will take pleasure in giving anyone who is interested full details regarding my wife's case."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative.

Tailor Assaulted.

Being assaulted by a person whose name he would not give the police, a city tailor received injuries yesterday morning that necessitated four stitches being made in his head. Calling at the police station about eleven o'clock, accompanied by another man, he explained that he had been struck by a man on Duckworth Street and knocked against a hydrant, thereby receiving a nasty wound in the head. Being unable to find a doctor he came to the station for aid, and Dr. J. S. Tait was immediately sent for. From that the injured man was driven to his home in a cab.

Sir Vesta Tilley.

Lady De Frece—or shall we say Sir Vesta Tilley?—was very pleased about the knighthood conferred upon her husband, Sir Walter de Frece, when I congratulated her. "But," said Vesta Tilley, "I'm having a heated argument with myself! You see, Lady de Frece thinks she should retire to private life, whereas Vesta Tilley just hates the idea of leaving the stage and the public she loves."

During our chat Sir Walter de Frece came in and told me this story. "Mr. MacTavish attended a party where the hospitality of the host knew no bounds. In the midst of the celebration Mr. MacTavish rose up and made the rounds of the company, bidding each a profound farewell.

"But, Sandy, man," objected the host, "ye're not goin' yet, with the evenin' just started?" "Nay," said MacTavish, "I'm no goin' yet. But I'm tellin' ye good night while I still know ye all."

China Becoming Westernized.

China, which is becoming westernized every day, now boasts two department stores, both at the city of Canton. A conspicuous feature of these department stores is the hotel annex where western food is very popular. An enormous business is done in wrist watches, which are worn by both men and women. The Chinese women are very fond of jewellery, and in place of expensive millinery, decorate their heads with gold, silver and jewelled ornaments. It is no uncommon sight to see one woman wearing a wrist watch and one or two pendant jewelled watches besides.

New Words and Phrases.

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

The war brought us many new words and phrases but already many of the new terms have fallen into disuse. The coming of peace has worked still another change in the language. We have not spoken of an "essential" for many months. The word "draft" was practically coined to avoid use of the term "conscript." In a few months we may have to think twice in order to recall what a "draft" was. "Camouflage" was a new word that suddenly became overworked and finally passed into the discard as a well-nigh nauseating expression. The word "Soviet" is having its fling but the hope is expressed that it, too, will soon be found only in revised dictionaries as obsolete.

Wise Men Say—

That many a straight face hides a crooked mind.

That a fool is never master of himself, much less of people and wealth.

That when a man is willing to admit he is a fool, the chances are he isn't.

That jumping at conclusions is about the only mental exercise some people take.

That it is almost as hard to live up to a good reputation as to live down a bad one.

That experience is what a wise man gets at the expense of others, and a fool at his own.

That the man who has done his level best, and who is conscious that he has done his best, is a success, even though the world may write him down a failure.

That carelessness loses more jobs, spoils more careers, causes more failures than incompetence. One moment's carelessness may end a lifetime of painstaking effort.

That the life that is sharing in the interests, the welfare, and the happiness of others is the one that is continually expanding its beauty and in power and, therefore, in happiness.

When Lawyers Struck.

Policemen are not the only instruments of the law who have been known to strike. Some years ago the barristers practising in Sierra Leone were so dissatisfied with the judge who was acting as substitute for the Chief Justice while the latter was on leave that they unanimously elected to give up pleading before him. Legal business in the Colony was, therefore, at a standstill until the Chief Justice returned.

France, too, affords an instance of a legal strike. One of the judges at St. Amant accused his colleague of deliberately promoting disputes in order to fill their pockets with fees. Thereupon all the lawyers in court departed in a body, declaring that they would not return until this insulting statement had been withdrawn. Eventually the judge apologized, and the lawyers resumed practice.

Saw An Airship.

Dear Maple Leaves:—It is a long while since I have written to our most interesting club, but I read the letters every week, and think they are very fine.

I think the Editor has something new and nice to say every week in his letters to the club.

Two of my brothers enlisted in the army, but both are home now. One of my cousins made the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle.

Yesterday there was an air-ship seen here, and if the war wasn't over I guess we would have been somewhat frightened.

I joined the Maple Leaf Club when I was nine years old. I am now 15.

I would like to correspond with Elizabeth, Garnet, Martha Stacey, Sound Island, Placentia Bay, Newfoundland.

(This letter appeared in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, correspondence column.)

"How's That, Umpire?"

The man who stopped a ball with his head and was given out "leg before" had a double grievance. He was, in fact, dodging the ball when it struck him; but the umpire said it would have hit the wickets if his head had not been in the way; and as "head before wicket" is not in the Rules, there was only one course open!

At a recent Music Hall Artists' Fete there was a cricket match between the Has-Beens and the Never-Ought-To-Have-Beens, and there were, among other eccentricities, several new ways of being "out." One was "Afraid to go in," another "sleeping at the wicket," another "looking the wrong way," another "caught napping," and last, but not by any means least frequent, was "kicked out."

During a cricket match in Flanders somewhere "behind the lines," a man was given out "run out." Seeing that he left one of his shoes in the mud it would probably have been nearer the truth to have given him "Stuck fast."
