The Family's Best Protection,

The very first thing every man should do, and by far the most important thing he CAN do for his family, is to provide it with a home of its own.

Getting a living is at all times a serious problem. It becomes an even more serious problem for the survivers in a family after the provider's death.

It is far the best single provi-sion that can be made for the comfort, protection and support of the family in the provider's absence, or in the event of his leath, disability, or deceased earning power. earning power

It assures the family a safe shelter if the provider dies.

It maintains for the family its accustomed conditions and helpful associations. The smaller living expense makes the bread winning an easier problem for the survivors. It makes possible a "Back Yard Income," and many other family enterprises,

It makes the family's support easier as one's earning power declines.

It relieves the absent provider from worry.
