COMMUNICATIONS.

For the Standard.

Mr. Barron,—

Sir,—On a perusal of the Standard of the 22nd instant, I observed an Article with the signature of A. Campbell attached, in which my name is blazoned forth to public view, in such a manner, as to leave me, if the insinuations were accredited, no enviable reputation. I am accused by him, as being the writer of an "Effusion," the Author of which, signs himself "A friend to good order in Society." How far Mr. Campbell was or is justified in public view, in forming hasty conclusions, from the premises in his possession, and giving publicity to those conclusions, time alone will determine. He says "that he would not have considered it necessary, to have noticed the article in question, had it appeared with the author's name affixed; but that if uncontradicted it might possibly injure the cause, which I profess to advocate, but wish to destroy." What the Gentlemen has meant to insinuate by the sentence quoted, I am at a loss to comprehend. To the writer of the article in which I have been attacked I have had no cause for personal animosity, having often experienced kindness from his hand; and it is not my intention, at present, to reply, at any length, to the stigmas, which, the author may have thought, perhaps necessary, to cast upon my character by the publication of that article, knowing, that, with an enlightened public, opprobrious epithets, applied to personal character, through the columns of a Public Paper, do not sink the person slandered but on the contrary lowers the writer of such assertions in their estimation. But in order to justify myself, on account of some of the observations, published: the public will excuse me if I become an Egotist for once, and inform them: what I am not. I am no friend to controversy, through the columns of a public Journal: neither do I wish either in private or public, to detract from my neighbour's reputation, by low insinuations; in order to lower him in public estimation; so as to assert in supporting a disputed point. I strive to treat every person with due courtesy and respect, in their several stations and relations; neither impugning the character of the Minister of the Gospel, nor criticising too closely the duties of the Magistrate. I never wish to lacerate or wound the feelings of my fellowman, no matter how humble the sphere in which he may move. And more especially would I strive to guard against giving a deadly thrust, if I thought the individual attacked, incapable, from his situation, of repelling such. Knowing myself to be possessed of weaknesses and failings, I look with an eye of charity on those of my fellow brethren. I have resided in St. Stephen more than twenty years and have been generally treated with marked courtesy by the high minded portion of the community. I will not take it upon me to decide, at present, whether the author, of "A friend to good order in Society," reported the sayings and doings of that Temperance Meeting, correctly, or not; but I do earnestly request the writer to come forward again and exonerate me from the imputations alleged against me. As I am no Lawyer I will drop special pleadings at present.

I am Sir,
Yours &c.
JAMES McBRIDE.

St. Stephens, April 27, 1846.

This is first rate, ain't it.—An American exchange paper, publishes the following advertisement. It is certainly a decided hit at a very unmanly and vulgar practice; and the remarks will apply to a nearer latitude.

WANTED.—One hundred and seventy five young men of all shapes and sizes, from the tall, graceful dandy with hair enough on his upper works to stuff a barber's cushion, down to the little hump backed, freckled face, bow legged, corrot headed upstart. The object is to form a gaping corps, to be in attendance at the church doors on each Sabbath before the commencement of Divine service, to stare at the females as they enter, and make delicate and gentlemanly remarks on their person and dress. All who wish to enlist in the above corps, will appear at the various church doors next Sabbath morning, where they will be duly inspected, and their names, personal appearance, and quantity of brains, registered in a book kept for that purpose, and published in the news papers. To prevent a general rush, it will be well to state that none will be enlisted who possess intellectual capacities above that of a well bred donkey.

Success of Perseverance.—James Cunningham Esq., owner of the steamers Governor, Charter Oak, Portland, and other steamers, once was a poor Scotch apprentice, but by patient industry, hard study, wise economy, and active and intelligent enterprise, has amassed a handsome fortune. His life furnishes a new example to the young men of the present day to persevere in all laudable efforts at improvement, not doubting that in the end they shall succeed if they faint not.

Mr. Cunningham has just finished a beautiful mansion in East Boston, the best in that part of the city.—State Signal.

A petition has been presented to the Legislature of Canada, from the coloured inhabitants of Toronto, praying that it may be made penal to use towards any of Her Majesty's black subjects in Canada the approprious epithet of "nigger!"

A Common Case.—Mr. Bryant, late one of the editors of the Louisville Courier, says he has "scuffled with poverty from his youth up, and were he now relieved from it, it would be a joy of deprivation." His case is not a singular one.

The N. Y. Chamber of Commerce, composed of members of both political parties, have adopted a strong remonstrance to the Senate, against the passage of the Sub Treasury bill—characterising that measure as one calculated to produce evils far greater than it designs to remedy, and which cannot fail to exercise an important influence for evil upon the various interests of the country."

THE STANDARD.

St. Andrews, FRIDAY, May 1, 1846.

Immediately after the rising of the Court, yesterday (Thursday) evening, the following Address was presented by J. W. Chandler, Esquire, on behalf the Charlotte Bar, to the Honour Mr. Justice Street.

To the Honorable GEORGE F. STREET, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Supreme Court in the Province of New Brunswick.

We the Members of the Charlotte Bar, with sentiments of unforgotten respect, congratulate your Honor upon your elevation to the Bench of the Supreme Court of this Province. We recur, with pleasure, to the recollection of your gentlemanly deportment at the Bar towards all your Professional Brethren, the high sense of honor which distinguished your conduct on all occasions; and we cannot forget the example which your brilliant career has illustrated that abilities of the first order may be associated with urbanity of manner, and a punctilious performance of duties. Your varied and extensive practice of the Law in all its departments, your thorough knowledge of the general business of the country qualify you, in an eminent degree, for the distinguished situation you now occupy; and we will hope enable you to give additional lustre to the Court in which you preside,—a Court whose reputation extends far beyond the limits of this Province.

That your Honor may long enjoy uninterrupted good health is the fervent wish of your Honor's

Obl. humble servants.
(Signed) J. W. Chandler, Saml. G. Andrews, Alex. Campbell, Geo. D. Street, Wm. B. Chandler, G. J. Thomson, T. B. Abbott, D. S. Ker, T. B. Wilson, W. Hatch.

April 28, 1846.

To the Members of the Bar, in the County of Charlotte.

GENTLEMEN,
I cannot but feel highly gratified in receiving from those of my own profession, with whom I have for so many years been in the habits of intimacy as a Brother practitioner, such a warm and complimentary testimonial of their respect and esteem, as your kind address has bestowed upon me, and I trust my future conduct as a judge will secure to me, a continuation of that high estimation of my character and abilities which you are pleased to assure me, my career as a Barrister, has produced.

It has always been my greatest desire, while at the Bar, to exert all my influence in promoting a strong Bond of Union among the members thereof, and to prevent dissension—as it is a body that can only hold its due rank and influence in the country, by its members uniting cordially in maintaining its respectability and high character for integrity and honor—and be assured Gentlemen that, although I am now removed to a higher branch, yet I shall never cease, to take a warm interest in the prosperity of the Bar, with present members of which, generally, I have so long lived and moved in social and friendly intercourse as well as in professional practice, and while they maintain and keep up a due and proper respect for themselves, they will be sure to command it from others, and will ever find in me a sincere and zealous friend.

Some of you gentlemen are young practitioners, allow me therefore to remind you, that although man cannot command powers of mind which it may not have pleased God to have given him, yet he may greatly improve these natural abilities he does possess by deep study, industry, and close application to the duties of his calling; and that integrity of character, high sense of honor, and gentlemanly habits are all within his reach, and although necessary requisites to every gentleman, are more particularly called for, in a member of the Bar.

The high character that the Bar of this Province has hitherto held, has led me heretofore to feel proud of being a member of it and I have full trust and confidence that the same will always be kept up, and it will thus afford me the highest satisfaction as a Judge, to stand well in their estimation.

I have only to add my sincere thanks, for the good feeling and kindness which have prompted you to present me with this complimentary address. And believe me,

Gentlemen,
Always your sincere and warm friend,
Geo. FREDK. STR. ST.

The Grand Jury presented an Address to his Honour Judge Street, a copy of which we have not yet received.
