Charles Howard Church, M.D., on the part of the graduates, delivered the parting address, which was couched in most eloquent terms. UNIVERSITY INTELLIGENCE.

We have learned with great pleasure, that at a late meeting of the Governors, T. Sterry Hunt, Sc. D., A. M., F. R. S., was appointed to the chair of Applied Chemistry and Mineralogy now created in the Faculty of Arts. To use the language of a city contemporary, "while the eminent qualifications and high reputation of Dr. Hunt shed lustre on this new chair, the University has conferred an important benefit on the country, and especially on this city, in placing within the reach of young men entering on those professions in which a knowledge of practical chemistry is of importance, advantages which they have heretofore been obliged to seek abroad. There can be no doubt that in this great centre of manufactures and medical education, a large number of students will be found ready to avail themselves of the means of scientific training thus offered.

It is proper to add that the University is enabled to extend its usefulness in this direction, chiefly through the liberality of two of its friends—William Molson, Esq., who has erected the Laboratory building, and another gentleman, who
