

touch upon a subject that concerns all. The first part of the book deals with the Theory of Eugenics, and the second part with the Practice of Eugenics. The work covers such important topics as the growth and development of the individual, both mentally and physically. It also discusses the important subject of marriage and some of the restrictions that should be imposed. National decadence is taken up with much earnestness and ability. The influence of alcohol and narcotics is given careful consideration. We have had much pleasure in reviewing this work and wish for it a very wide sale.

DISEASES OF THE THROAT.

Diseases of the Throat. A Clinical Manual for the Study of Diseases of the Throat. By James Walter Downie, M.B., F.F.P.S.G., Lecturer on Diseases of the Throat and Nose, University of Glasgow; Surgeon for Diseases of the Throat and Nose, Western Infirmary; Hon. Aurist, Royal Hospital for Sick Children; Member of the Council and Examiner in Otology and Laryngology for the Fellowship, of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons, Glasgow. Second edition, revised and in large measure re-written, with 104 illustrations. Glasgow: James Maclehose and Sons, Publishers to the University, 1909. Price 10s.

This is a decidedly good book. Acute and chronic inflammations, affections of the uvula, diseases of the tonsils, post-nasal adenoids, inflammations of the larynx, tumours of the larynx, foreign bodies, syphilis, tuberculosis, diphtheria, neuroses, and formulæ make up the contents of the book. The descriptions are brief but explicit, and form an excellent guide to any one who wishes to be in possession of the best methods of treating affections of the throat. The illustrations are very well executed. The paper, binding and press work go to make up a very attractive book. Such a book as this will prove invaluable to the general practitioner.

PROGRESSIVE MEDICINE.

Progressive Medicine. A Quarterly Digest of Advances, Discoveries and Improvements in the Medical and Surgical Science. Edited by Hobart Amory Hare, M.D., Professor of Therapeutics and Materia Medica in the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, etc., H.R.M. Landis, M.D., Visiting Physician to the Tuberculosis Department of the Philadelphia Hospital, to the White Haven Sanitarium, and to the Phipps Institute, etc. Vol. III, September, 1909. Diseases of the Thorax and its Viscera, Dermatology and Syphilis, Obstetrics, and Diseases of the Nervous System. Lea & Febiger, Philadelphia and New York, 1909. Price, in paper, $6.00 per annum.

The contributors to this volume are William Ewart, William S. Gottheil, Edward P. Davis, and William G. Spiller. These names are well